Island Sizzling On Hottest Day

An Ice and Snow Job to Beat Heat

Victoria Up in Mid-80s

Victoria was heading for its hottest day of the year at press time.

Although the peak wasn't expected until later this afternoon, the reading this morning showed up to 78 degrees.

And while weatherman William Mackie expected an official reading of 85, downtown shoppers were contending with temperatures up in the 90s.

The day followed hot on the heels of a record breaking Thursday which registered an official 83.1 degrees—the hottest ever July 29 and the short-lived hottest day of the year.

100 UP-ISLAND

While Victorians sweated it out, people living in Duncan and Nanaimo prepared for another 100-plus reading.

Both downtown areas notched up the century mark Thursday for the first time this year.

As all Vancouver Island points prepared for the same treatment today, the effects of the extended heat wave began to be felt.

Sales of ice rocketed to a record 50-tons-a-day on southern Vancouver Island.

Usual daily sale in winter months is three tons.

Bottling companies were working flat out to keep up with demand.

Daily sales in Victoria alone have hit the 100,000 mark.

Gardening enthusiasts boosted the output of water in the Greater Victoria water district from 35,000,000 gallons-per-hour-per-day to 48,000,000 gallons during peak evening periods.

Fores fires in the province reached a new peak and 200 were reported burning this morning.

Unless the weather changes there will be worse to come next week, report forestry officials.

Several logging camps on the Island have been closed down until the weather breaks (see story page 17).

Local marinas reported heavy demands on boating and fishing facilities, while greengrocers were suddenly flooded with requests for water melons.

Municipal crews in Esquimalt decided to begin work an hour earlier as of Monday, if the weather continues.

MORE IN STORE

Their bosses believe greater efficiency will be obtained if the men work during the cooler morning hours.

Meanwhile, there is no change in sight.

Saturday's temperatures will vary between 75 and 85, topping 90 again up-Island.

Official weekend forecast: fine, warm and dry.

PEACE BID PLEDGED BY THANT

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States offered today to "collaborate unconditionally" with the UN Security Council in seeking a peace formula for Viet Nam.

The offer was contained in a letter from Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to the president of the Security Council, Ambassador Platon D. Morozov, acting chief of the Soviet delegation.

UNITED NATIONS—(AP) — Secretary-General U Thant has told President Johnson he will do all he can to help set up peace talks on Viet Nam.

Thant gave the assurance in reply to Johnson's request that he continue his efforts to shift the Viet Nam conflict from "the battlefield to the conference table."

In a letter carried to the White House Thursday by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Thant said:

"I am heartened by your wish that my efforts should be continued, and I gladly assure you of my determination to pursue them by all the means at my disposal, since I believe most strongly that concerted efforts should be made to put an early end to all further hostile military activities."

Johnson wrote Thant nearly three weeks after the secretary-general disclosed he had given the United States, Britain and France proposals for a cease-fire in Viet Nam and a new Geneva conference aimed at

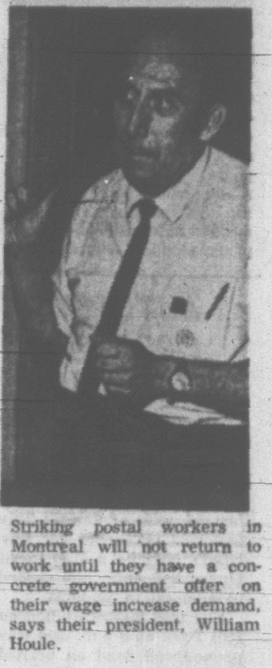
Service Near Normal

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department today lifted its mail embargo in all communities except the Montreal area.

The embargo had banned mailing of all but first-class matter in three provinces—Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia—hit by the week-long wildcat strike by postal workers.

A department spokesman said arrangements were worked out Thursday to re-route east-west mail around the Montreal area, the only major city where workers have not yet returned to the jobs.

With the return of Toronto employees, mail service throughout the country is quickly being restored to normal, the spokesman said.



Striking postal workers in Montreal will not return to work until they have a concrete government offer on their wage increase demand, says their president, William Houle.

Montreal Lone Major Holdout

Quebec Postal Workers Refuse Return Without Concrete Offer on Wage Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, Montreal president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, said today no general meeting of striking postal workers is planned until the federal government has something new to offer.

Montreal is the only major city where the strike, which began July 22 and spread quickly, is still in effect.

Mr. Houle said no new offer came out of a meeting between union officers and Post-master-General Tremblay. The meeting ended early today.

In Ottawa Prime Minister Pearson said today the government can "live" with a continued strike in Montreal although he hopes striking workers will return to their jobs.

Reporters asked Mr. Houle whether the Montreal men would be asked to reconsider continuation of the strike in view of the decision by Toronto strikers to return to work.

"There is no general meeting planned for tonight," he said. "Mr. Tremblay has offered us nothing new."

TO MEET LEADERS

Mr. Houle said, however, he will meet during the day with other Montreal postal union leaders. Also involved in the strike is the Federated Association of Letter Carriers. The two unions represent a total of about 4,000 postal workers in Montreal.

After the meeting of Mr. Houle and other strike leaders with Mr. Tremblay, Mr. Houle said a return to work could not be considered "until we get a concrete offer from the government that is at least close to the $660 annual increase in salary we have demanded."

Mr. Tremblay arrived here Thursday night after strike leaders agreed to meet him. The 2½-hour meeting was also attended by Roger Decarie, Montreal president of the Letter Carriers' Association (CLC), Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC), and Maurice Hebert, assistant co-ordinator for the QFL and Canadian Labor Congress.

EXPLAIN POSITION

Prior to the meeting Mr. Tremblay said: "I have come to Montreal only to explain the government's position and to try to establish direct communications. I have no new offer to make and cannot make any until Judge J. C. Anderson makes his report."

He would make no comments when the meeting ended.

Judge Anderson was named by the government as a one-man commission to study civil service salaries for Class D employees. In this class there are

Last Chance Warning Sounded at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI) — Communist China probably will explode its third nuclear device soon, a ranking official of the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference warned today.

The threat of rapid Chinese atomic progress was cited in support of Western demands that the conference begin urgent negotiations aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

Both President Johnson and Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain have appealed to the conference to give the issue top priority. Italy joined their call Thursday.

Lord Chalfont, Britain's chief negotiator, warned that the current disarmament session is "the last chance" for agreement.

CHOKE OFF PATHS

He said if a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear arms is not reached in a few monhts, it will choke off all paths to other disarmament measures. Johnson and Wilson made their appeals in personal messages to Geneva.

The spectre of imminent and probably more sophisticated Chinese nuclear tests was causing considerable concern among both nuclear and non-nuclear powers at the conference.

Red China exploded its first nuclear device on Oct. 16, 1964. Its second blast went off in the atmosphere over the Chinese mainland last May 14.

Both explosions had been predicted in Washington. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned on Sept. 29, 1964, that Red China might be on the verge of its first nuclear explosion.

A possible hint of Red China's future plans came from Premier Chou en-lai earlier this week when he attacked American efforts to ban further nuclear tests as a "fraud." Chou implied that current efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons were aimed at maintaining a nuclear monopoly for the United States and Russia and their allies.

But apparently more information about Red China's plans now has reached conference diplomats at Geneva.

They did not set a date for further testing by the Chinese Communists. But they said the new tests were expected before long.

The Russians were understood to be as perturbed as the United States by the new threat from Peking. But apparently they saw little point in blocking nuclear advances elsewhere in the world while the Chinese Communists plunged ahead at full speed.

WITHDRAW TROOPS

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet negotiator, told newsmen Thursday that the Kremlin considers the withdrawal of foreign troops from alien territory a more urgent problem at this time than nuclear proliferation.

The Russian stance appeared aimed at undercutting the U.S. position in South Viet Nam. Tsarapkin has warned that the U.S. decision to send more troops to Viet Nam will make negotiations at Geneva more difficult.

The Soviet diplomat appeared to be awaiting instructions from Moscow. He is expected to clarify the Kremlin's position at Geneva when the conference resumes Tuesday.

A busy weekend was expected despite the lack of a formal meeting. The United States, Britain, Canada and Italy sought to work out a joint proposal on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

William C. Foster, the chief U.S. representative at Geneva, planned to confer with some of the delegates from the "non-aligned" nations participating in the conference.

WIRE BRIEFS

Wins Acquittal

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once claimed he was an undercover RCMP agent has been acquitted here of two counts of false pretences. Calvin MacDonald, 42, was charged with fraudulently obtaining $80 from a downtown hotel. Police alleged he cashed two bad cheques at the hotel.

25-Year Sentences

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) —A U.S. Army sergeant and a former sergeant today were sentenced to 25 years in prison each for spy conspiracy charges. They had pleaded guilty to lesser charges after first being accused outright of giving U.S. secrets to Russia.

Delay Until Fall

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian petition to curb the veto power of the Quebec legislative council has been sent by the Queen to the British government for action but an official said today it is unlikely that Parliament will have time to act on it before next fall.

Quint Still Serious

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The remaining Olsen quintuplet languished in an incubator today, her chances of survival extremely slim. Four of the five premature babies born Thursday to Mrs. Karin Olsen, 33, of Orda, Sweden, died within 12 hours of delivery.

U.K. Ousts Red

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain tonight expelled a Russian diplomat, Vitalij K. Boyarov, second secretary at the Soviet embassy here. The foreign office gave no reason for declaring Boyarov persona non grata.

Viet Cong Hits Training Centre; Heavy Casualties

Times News Services

SAIGON—A Viet Cong force attacked a government training centre 75 miles southwest of Saigon today and inflicted "heavy" casualties, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

An estimated 125 to 500 guerrillas hit the Tan An regional force training centre with 57mm. recoilless rifles and machine-guns. A suicide team made an unsuccessful attempt to blow up an ammunition dump at the centre.

Communist casualties, if any, were not reported.

The spokesman also said the Viet Cong blew up a bridge between Tan An and Cao Lanh and harassed Can Lanh. A woman and two children were reported wounded.

Communist guerrillas shelled the district headquarters of Nghia Hanh, 85 miles south of Da Nang. Government casualties were termed "very light."

Meanwhile, civilians from the central highlands are pouring into Saigon and other cities to escape a Viet Cong offensive.

WARNED OF ATTACK

Vietnamese newspapers quoted the refugees as saying they were warned by guerrillas that a major attack was imminent in Pleiku and Kontum provinces.

This would confirm the thinking of U.S. and South Vietnamese strategists, who have long believed that the main Viet Cong offensive of the current monsoon season would be aimed at the central highland.

The combination of rainy weather and mountainous terrain could severely hamper air support and supply operations in the event of a large-scale attack on a provincial capital such as Kontum.

In Saigon, Gen. Maxwell Taylor was seen off by a small group of U.S. and South Vietnamese officials today after having been succeeded as American ambassador by Henry Cabot Lodge.

Several thousand men of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade continued a sweep operation 35 miles southeast of Saigon, in Phuoc Tuy province, but for the second day no significant contact with the Viet Cong was reported.

The spokesman said one guerrilla was found dead and another wounded. He speculated that the casualties might have been hit by the B-52 bombers that hit the area Thursday on a raid from Okinawa.

New Crisis Hits Greek Parliament

ATHENS (UPI) — A jeering, shouting crowd of several thousand persons gathered outside parliament tonight as the deputies' efforts to debate a vote of confidence for the bitterly disputed government of Premier George Athanassiades - Novas dissolved in confusion.

So many deputies walked out of the meeting or boycotted it that the speaker was unable to get a quorum of 100 of the 300 members. Ousted Premier George Papandreou demanded that Athanassiades-Novas resign without a vote.

Three hundred youths attending an anti-government rally at the university several blocks away tried to march on a pro-government demonstration at the Gloria Theatre but were prevented by police cordons.

Parliament itself was heavily guarded by police and no violence occurred.

U.K. Chief 'In Danger'

LIVERPOOL (AP) — An anonymous threat to assassinate British Prime Minister Wilson as "a danger to world peace" was received today by a Liverpool newspaper.

Police said they regard the letter as the work of a crank, but launched an investigation and made plans for a special watch next time the British leader travels to Huyton, the Liverpool district which sent him to Parliament. He is not expected there in the next few weeks.

BUSINESSMEN'S CONSOLATION

War Footing Bolsters U.S. Economy

(See also Page 10)

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson may have alleviated some of the fears of a recession in the U.S. in 1966 by his decision for a moderate stepup in the war in Viet Nam.

Businessmen are noting that:

1. There'll be more government spending—meaning more orders for many lines of industry and thus in due course for the economy in general; 2. For the time being at least, there's no threat of government controls over wages and prices, nor of higher taxes, especially the dreaded excess profits tax; and 3. The government seems determined to continue its drive to keep the civilian economy growing.

Fears of a possible recession or high-level stall next year have been based on signs of a slowing business boom seemingly in need of fresh stimulation.

Expansion of the Viet Nam war effort in increasing doses, if the war drags on as many think likely, can offer such impetus.

The moderate though continuing rise in spending also seems to put only a relatively small chill on prospects for later tax cuts. This is because a growing economy, however stimulated, can furnish more treasury revenues — enough to take care of the defence department's new needs, nourish a start toward the "Great Society," and still leave room for tax cuts as an added stimulus, when and if needed.

The increased war effort as outlined by President Johnson Wednesday has these prospects for business:

Many firms will get orders for defence goods — hardware, textiles or food. The increase in the armed forces will mean larger personnel payrolls and more activity around training centres in the U.S.

The doubling of the draft call will largely affect youths in the late 'teens and early 20s. It is this group which is expanding the fastest in number and which has the highest percentage unable to find jobs.

The decision not to call up reserves at this time will reassure many companies who had wondered if they'd be losing temporarily some highly skilled men, often engaged in work lines where labor shortages exist.

But for the vast majority of American companies — those who produce goods and services in demand by civilians—the biggest relief today may be that no emergency has been declared.

This means that those who get increased government orders can be helped without an accompanying crippling of other firms. Emergency controls always carry the threat of hobbling civilian industry, either in manpower or access to materials.

This may be an unfortunate way to ward off a recession, but it may easily do the trick—if for no other reason than that it will build up public confidence that the economy is likely to go on expanding.

Mr. Johnson's army build-up may ensure prosperity—fer enybuddy thet's left.

Indonesian Missiles Threat to Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—Indonesia has 12 Soviet-built gunboats armed with guided missiles of 15-mile range capable of carrying nuclear warheads, military authorities in this Malaysian state said today.

"It is beyond the bounds of reason to believe the Russians would supply the Indonesians with atomic warheads," one source said. "Russia has refused to give them to some of its tame, loyal Eastern European satellites.

"Russia would be even more likely to refuse its erratic Indonesian friends, who have been courting the Chinese Communists recently."

But even with conventional warheads, the missiles could destroy Singapore, the informants said.

President Sukarno of Indonesia recently threatened to turn Singapore into "a city of flames" if Britain stepped up what he called aggression against Indonesia.

SCIENTIST Dr. Christjo Cristofv Thursday started suit in Chicago for the death of his cocker spaniel which, he said, could detect the presence of nuclear fallout in the atmosphere. Defendants in the $10 million suit are the Christiansen Animal Hospital of Wilmette, Ill., and the Upjohn pharmaceutical company.

AUTOPSY ORDERED INTO DEATH

An autopsy will be held to discover the cause of death of a fisherman's wife who was stricken Thursday.

Mrs. Marion Roberta Tapley, 56, wife of Joseph Tapley, was taken off her husband's boat by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and rushed to hospital in Victoria.

She was landed at Beacon Hill Park at 3 p.m. and was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

RCMP Inspector George Mackay said the holding of an autopsy is routine in such cases.

Mrs. Tapley was picked up from the boat off Jordan River after a distress signal was picked up at Port Angeles.

Air Board Chief Dies At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Frederick T. Wood, 57, chairman of the federal Air Transport Board, died in hospital here today. He had been ill with cancer.

Mr. Wood was a vice-president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, now Air Canada, before his appointment as board chairman in October, 1963.

He was also former president of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

A native of Bromley, England, he went to TCA in 1937 after 15 years with the CNR.

Mr. Wood played the key Canadian role in negotiations with the United States over a new Canada-U.S. bilateral air agreement. The negotiations lasted almost two years and a new improved agreement is believed to be in the offing.

TOP BARGAINER

One of the American negotiators last year described Mr. Wood as the best bargainer Canada ever sent to the bilateral negotiating table.

"Nobody is going to put over anything on Fred Wood," the American told a private group after one of the sessions.

Toronto Handling O.C. Mail

Overseas mail is being re-routed through Toronto, Postmaster Allan Davies said today.

Normally, all trans-Atlantic mail goes through Montreal where postal workers remain on strike.

"I wouldn't say there will be no delay, but no major delay," he said.

But any mail that reached the Montreal post office just before the strike started last week will be stuck there, he said.

Mr. Dayles said service is back to normal locally for letters and papers.

The post office hasn't been receiving parcels until the embargo is lifted, "but it won't take us long to catch up on those."

MOSCOW — Russia's old man of the mountain, Shirali Mislimov, trekked from his hilly home to see a big city for the first time at the reputed age of 160. He decided he preferred life in the open with his friends and vast family, the Tass news agency has reported.

He expressed wonderment at the tall buildings, movies, bustling traffic and big manufacturing plants in the Azerbaijan capital of Baku, things he had only known in pictures. He travelled 73 miles on horseback for part of the trip, Tass said.

"Shirali Mislimov spent all his life in the Villabarzavu (région), situated in one of the remotest areas of the Talysh Mountains. About 100 of his progeny live in the same village with him. In all, his family has more than 200 members."

While in town, Mislimov demonstrated the benefits of country living for city-bred folk. He lifted 62 pounds with his left hand and hoisted 51 pounds aloft with his right.

Miller said his best offer for the coin his been $250, but an insurance broker said he would insure the dime for $2,500.

Search Launched For B.C. Ketch

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United States Coast Guard has launched a search for a Vancouver-bound ketch that is two days overdue on a trip from Honolulu.

Search and rescue officials here notified the coast guard when the 34-foot Wai Mihi failed to arrive on schedule July 28.

"We feel it is simply overdue but because it hasn't been heard from we have asked the coast guard to locate it," a search and rescue official said today.

Aboard the vessel are its owner Norman Hacking, marine editor of the Vancouver Province; Dr. David Robertson, of Richmond, B.C.; Phil Wells of New Zealand, and Sherry Beebe, daughter of a San Francisco doctor.

Search and rescue officials here said the ketch was powered only by sail and carried no radio. It had food supplies for six weeks.

The four were to have left Honolulu June 24, but their departure date has not been confirmed.

Normal sailing time for the distance is 28 to 32 days, but Vancouver yachtsmen say winds along the route are light at this time of year and the trip could take 45 days.

The U.S. Coast Guard in San Francisco is controlling the search. All harbors along the Pacific coast are being checked and ships and planes notified to watch for the vessel.

FEDERAL CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

B.C. Man New Chairman

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today announced the replacement of R. G. MacNeill, chairman of the civil service commission, by J. J. Carson of Vancouver.

He told a press conference that the move is "not related in any way, shape or form" with the pay dispute which resulted in a strike by thousands of postal workers.

Mr. MacNeill had informed him last March of a desire to give up the chairmanship and had remained on the job while a successor was found.

He has been appointed Canadian consul-general at New Orleans, replacing J. G. Bisson, whose appointment will be announced shortly.

The prime minister also made public a request by him to State Secretary Lamontagne asking for a speed-up in the report of a committee established to examine election expenses. Mr. Pearson said he regards the matter of election expenses as of great importance because the next election will "be a very expensive affair."

He said his urging that the committee report soon doesn't mean he is contemplating an early election.

Mr. Carson, 45, has been on loan to the federal cabinet's treasury board from the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority as a special adviser on personnel.

He also served with the Glassco royal commission that studied ways to improve efficiency in government.

Youth Jailed As Ruse Fails

A former Colwood youth now living in Winnipeg was sent to jail Thursday for 21 days when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving, dangerous driving and driving while disqualified early Wednesday.

Robert Weaver, 19, was spotted driving on Tillicum by Saanich Constable John Post. Cons. Post testified that Weaver passed a police car at high speed and drove through a red light in an attempt to get away.

He said Weaver turned off his car lights, speeded up and then turned into a driveway. When the constable arrived Weaver told him he had been sitting in the driveway for half-an-hour talking with a passenger in his car.

Cons. Post said Weaver had to be subdued before being searched and forcibly put in the cells at the police station.

Weaver has a record for breaking and entering and assault.

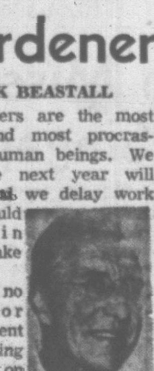
Gardeners Laziest Folk of All

By JACK BEASTALL

We gardeners are the most optimistic and most procrastinating of human beings. We truly believe next year will be better, and we delay work we know should be done in order to make it better.



Jack

There is no accounting for our persistent habit of leaving dead plants on display until the ground is needed the following spring.

Especially does this apply in the vegetable garden, where plants are left standing after our food requirements have been satisfied.

Quite often these plants, such as pea and bean vines and cabbage stumps, are still green and rich in plant foods which garden economics require to be returned to the soil for next year's plants to use.

Once the plants have died a natural death the plant food contents of the tissues have been lost and only fibre remains.

While this fibre serves a real purpose when decomposed and returned to the soil, the green plants would have provided both fibre and nutrients.

If it were not for our procrastinating habits, the old vines and other discarded plant parts would be chopped with a spade and added to the compost pile immediately their usefulness ended.

Should it be that we still have not reached the point of making a compost heap, the discarded material can be laid in a trench, chopped short with a sharp spade, sprinkled with a little complete fertilizer or compost mix and a dusting of lime, then covered with soil.

Such small effort would give us a neater winter garden, less chance of sheltering unwanted insects and harboring diseases, and a soil to make our optimism a reality.

Space Bird To Await 'Plucking'

Saturn Launches Pegasus 3 For Date With Astronaut

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 1 rocket concluded its flight program with a 10th straight success today and hurled into orbit Pegasus 3, a giant luminescent space bird whose "feathers" may one day be plucked by space-walking astronauts.

A year or so from now, if the venture appears feasible, a Gemini astronaut wearing a rocket pack may leave his spacecraft and rip off detachable metal plates carried by Pegasus 3 to bring them back to earth for study.

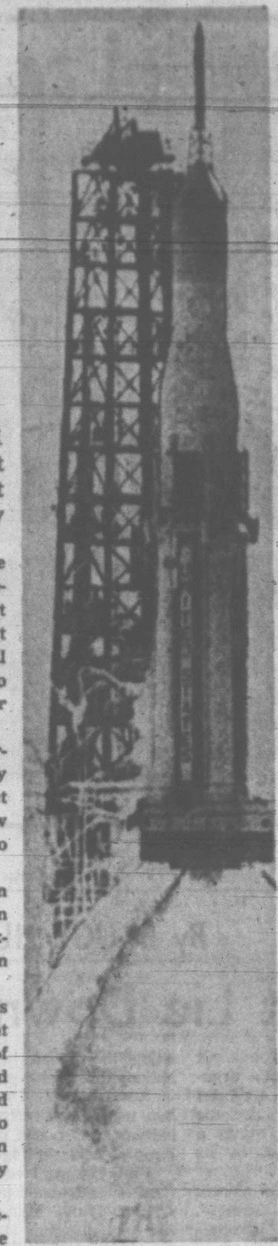
The satellite joined two earlier Pegasus payloads already in space recording the impact of meteorites to learn how much of a threat they pose to lengthy manned space flight.

If an astronaut could return one or more of the paper-thin aluminum sheets to earth, experts would be able to learn more than radio signals tell.

The first-stage of the Saturn's power plant, a cluster of eight engines, generated a thrust of 1,500,000 pounds and the second stage fired with a 90,000-pound burst to send the satellite into orbit about 330 miles high—in the same orbital plane used by Gemini spacecraft.

The Saturn 1 will be succeeded next year by the more powerful Saturn 1B.

Pegasus 3 was folded accordion style in the nose of the rocket. Once in orbit, the nose shroud was to fall away and the satellite was to extend two winglike projections to a span of 96 feet to present a broad target for space particles.



MAMMOTH 18-storey tall Saturn 1 rocket blazes away from its launch pad at Cape Kennedy this morning to orbit Pegasus 3, a giant luminescent space bird satellite carrying detachable panels which one day may be retrieved by space-walking astronauts.

BOTH BRANCHES

Thugs Give Business To One Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Beauchamp, manager of a Prudential Life Insurance Co. office on Papineau Avenue, was talking over the phone today with Jacques Belanger, company manager at a Belanger Street branch.

Belanger suddenly stopped talking.

Beauchamp waited and waited. He could hear voices but not Belanger. Then he hung up.

Belanger could not continue the conversation because he was lying on the floor, menaced by three masked men who escaped with about $500.

Beauchamp, whose office is about five minutes' drive from Belanger's, had scarcely hung up the phone when apparently the same trio walked in on him. One of them jabbed a gun against Beauchamp's stomach and demanded money. The hoodlums got away with about $250.

A third Prudential office in the east end neighborhood heard of the holdup of Beauchamp and telephoned the news to Belanger.

"I was held up first" said Belanger.

Deal for $140,000 Ruby Scuttled by New York DA

NEW YORK (UPI)—Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan admitted today a tediously negotiated plan to recover the stolen $140,000 Delong ruby collapsed because he balked at the terms for its return.

The deal, which was to have been consummated in Miami Thursday fell through when Hogan reversed a previous decision to accept the conditions set by Florida loan sharks for return of the 104-carat stone which was stolen nine months ago from the American Museum of Natural History.

The terms were $21,000 in ransom, "consideration" for the Florida beach boys now in prison and a pledge not to press for further indictments.

"If the ruby had come back without a pricetag on it, I was willing to bring this to the attention of the court," Hogan said. "But I was not going to go along with any $21,000 for the benefit of parties unknown."

HELD BY LENDERS

The ruby was reported to be in the possession of Miami lenders who were willing to give it up for the ransom and lenient treatment for the convicted thieves—Jack (Murph The Surf) Murphy, Allan Dale Kuhn and Roger Clark. John D. MacArthur, millionaire developer and brother-in-law of actress Helen Hayes, was understood to be willing to put up the $21,000 to obtain the return of the ruby.

Authorities in Miami and New York, a judge, a private investigator and a Miami jeweler all were reported to be parties to the bargaining which was to have resulted in the return of the gem.

The De Long ruby was among $400,000 in jewels stolen from the museum last Oct. 29. Fifteen of the 24 stolen gems, including the most precious—the 563-carat Star of India sapphire, were recovered in Miami last Jan. 8. Kuhn, one of the three beach boys later convicted of the theft, led authorities on a two-day chase around the resort city which ended in repossession of the 15 jewels in a downtown bus station locker.

Hogan said he first agreed to the terms for return of the De Long ruby, although they were distasteful to him. Upon reconsideration, however, he decided against the terms and the negotiations, which had taken place over a period of weeks, were scuttled.

MOSCOW (UPI) — A convicted British language teacher today appealed against a five-year sentence handed down by a Moscow city court for subversive activities last week. The oficial Tass News Agency said Gerald Brooke's counsel Nikolai Borovik today lodged the appeal.

TROMSOE, Norway (AP)—If you don't watch out you'll trip over a polar bear in the main street of this Arctic town.

He won't bite. The bear, stuffed, stands on the sidewalk outside a souvenir shop selling the skins of bears, reindeer, Arctic fox and seal.

This fishing port, 250 miles above the Arctic Circle, is the starting point for bear-hunting expeditions to Spitsbergen. Professional hunters go in winter. In summer there are guided polar safaris for well-heeled trophy hunters.

Are the hunters taking too great a toll? Is the polar bear in danger of extermination?

Some alarmed conservationists think so. A five-nation meeting has been called for Sept. 6-11 in Fairbanks, Alaska. Delegates will discuss ways to count the bears and preserve remaining stock. These countries — Canada, Denmark, Greenland, Norway, the Soviet Union and the United States—control the haunts of the polar bear.

One problem is that nobody really knows how many bears there are. The harsh climate of their habitat and their migratory habits make them difficult to count.

The average annual catch in northern Greenland is 65, about 600 in the Northwest Territories of Canada and 160 in Alaska. Few bears are shot in Soviet polar regions as they may only be killed in self defence.

All five countries give total protection to females with cubs and to cubs under one year old.

Canada, Denmark and the U.S. give complete protection in summer. Total protection was given in Norwegian polar regions only in Kong Karle land, where there is an important birth area.

A Norwegian expedition with the main aim of studying polar bears is planned for the winter 1967-68.

French Get Multi-Billion Dollar Plan

PARIS (UPI) — The French government today unveiled a multi-billion dollar five-year economic program. It promised Frenchmen 2,400,000 new homes by 1970, 880 miles of new super-highways, 40 per cent more telephones and a start on a channel tunnel — provided the British agree.

The program constituted the fifth post-war French five-year development program. It was approved by the cabinet Wednesday and was made public by Pierre Masse, commissioner general for the plan, at a news conference today.

It will be submitted to Parliament in the fall.

5 PER CENT HIKE

No figure for the overall cost was given. However, the plan provided for an annual economic expansion of five per cent during the next five years. It estimated industrial and agricultural production, which will total 339 billion francs ($67.8 billion) this year, will have reached 432 billion francs ($86.4 billion) by 1970.

Masse said the tunnel under the English Channel, on which the French and British governments have agreed in principle, will be included in the plan if talks between the two countries result in firm agreement between now and 1970.

Masse said home construction this year is expected to reach a total of 400,000 housing units compared with 370,000 provided for in the fourth economic development plan.

Too Clever by Far

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT's decision to return to the provinces all but five per cent of the corporation tax levy on private power utilities appears to have cleared the way for the multi-million-dollar Churchill Falls hydro-electric project in Labrador.

At the same time it has enormously complicated the entire corporate tax structure of Canada, creating situations which are anomalous, discriminatory and unafir.

Ottawa's hope is that the provinces will rebate the tax to the power utilities involved—those generating or distributing electrical energy, gas or steam—and that the companies in turn will lower their rates by a like amount. There is, however, no obligation on the part of the provinces to rebate the tax or the utilities to cut rates and in this there lies the first unfair element. The federal government is giving up revenue which will have to be collected in some other way from all the people of Canada without any assurance that the benefits of possible rate reductions will compensate even some of the people, to say nothing of those who can't be compensated because they can't take part.

A second inequity is that it discriminates against other sources of fuel and power—coal and oil particularly—as well as against other privately-owned public utilities. Why should the companies which supply fuel oil for heating homes, or for that matter telephone and telegraph companies, have to subsidize another favored group of private utilities? The principle is all wrong; heretofore public utilities have been non-taxable, private utilities taxable, and everyone knew where he stood. Now everything has been turned topsy-turvy because the government wanted to accommodate one province and one huge company.

There is no point in Ottawa arguing that the case is otherwise because the provinces had been arguing for years, and without effect, that all federal taxation of utilities should be returned to the provinces — the B.C. Electric takeover partly on these grounds is still fresh in the minds of British Columbians. Until it became obvious that the Churchill Falls project could not go ahead because of costs unless it had relief from federal taxation, the provinces' pleas fell on deaf ears in Ottawa.

The government undoubtedly chose tax relief as a method of enabling Churchill Falls to go ahead as the lesser of two evils. Direct subsidy of what is a privately-financed project would have been in the same tradition as the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines financing which landed the Liberals in such trouble in 1957. But what may now seem to be a clever manoeuvre is going to cause such distortions in the tax structure and such inequity between various companies and between individuals that the government could rue the day when it chose cleverness over sound and time-tested principles.

A Reflection of Growth

THE EXCEPTIONAL ECONOMIC growth of British Columbia in recent years is pleasantly reflected in the province's financial and economic review for the year ended last March 31. It shows a record surplus of $53.4 millions.

The surplus account now stands at $64.9 millions — and would be closer to $100 millions if payments on toll facilities had not been made from the account in 1963 and 1964. This is a very comfortable cushion to have under provincial financial capabilities and provided it is not dissipated on more vote-catching "goodies" will give British Columbia a means of insuring against any period of recession in the future.

In releasing the financial report, Premier Bennett has, indeed, promised that the surplus would be held for the purpose of "priming the pump" in case of an economic slowdown. This is sound financing of an almost classical Keynesian type.

Critics will suggest that this provincial nest egg should be spent on a variety of projects from social welfare to educational aid—all of them worthy — but the direction of economic growth indicators for at least the current fiscal year would suggest that extra expenditures can and should be financed out of current revenues, leaving the surplus account for emergency purposes. Although he cited no figures, Mr. Bennett gave the impression that revenues have continued to expand satisfactorily during the first four months of the 1964-65 term, providing more leeway for the government to finance extra projects.

Greatest contributor to the province's record revenues last year was again the five per cent sales tax which brought in more than $125 millions or 23 per cent of the total of $543.3 millions.

While this is by no means a popular tax with individual citizens, its efficiency as a money-raiser in time of heavy capital expenditure in the province is reflected in the fact that revenues from this source were up by 16 per cent over the previous year, which in turn showed an increase of 11 per cent over the year before. In dollar terms, the annual revenue from the sales tax has jumped by more than $36 millions since the start of the current boom in the fiscal year 1961-62.

By the same token, this is an area of taxation which could be a heavy drag on the provincial economy in a time of recession and a reduction in the sales tax might be the kind of pump priming which should be financed out of the revenue surplus account if the economy shows signs of turning downward.

There is bound to be some disappointment with the account of the B.C. Ferry Authority, which shows that despite a nine per cent increase in passengers and vehicles during the 12 months to last March 31 the ferries lost nearly $450,000 after debt service payments.

The province's other major transportation system, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, also showed a loss for the year of $495,878 despite a rise of almost $2 millions in operating revenues.

This left only the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority as a money-maker—to the tune of $13.1 millions—out of the three "self-supporting" provincial Crown corporations.

The financial review showed another increase in the province's debt picture with the contingent liabilities total up to $1.385 billion, an increase of about $5.8 millions from the previous year's total. This, however, is a happy comparison with past year-to-year increases.

A Bridge Back to Childhood

AT THE POINT WHERE THE bridge spans the Gorge the water-level distance between the two banks is considerably greater than a broad jump, but not too great to be spanned by a good tree trunk—as it doubtless was in earlier times.

The bridge will never claim attention as has the Bridge of Sighs or the Golden Gate. It's not much of a bridge at all, except in sentimental memories of Victorians.

To them it may be the route they travelled barefoot, from one side to the other, on swimming days. It may be the towering height (something less than 20 feet at high tide) from which they made their monumental dive. It may be the illuminated eyebrow under which they paddled canoes on a night tide at full slack.

Whatever the identification, to these people it is their bridge.

For their sake, may the authorities now arranging to finance its replacement hold to the same lines as the old. Certainly it should be wider and stronger. But some of the sentiment of the old should be retained. After all, it is a bridge between those no longer young and their youth—and few such bridges remain.

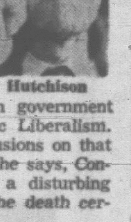
—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

EXAGGERATED DEATH

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Corpse Won't Lie Down

IT is exhilarating to find a real conservative in Canada, as if one had stumbled on a live dodo or a healthy dinosaur. I had thought the species extinct. But no. Professor George Grant of McMaster University is the genuine article, perhaps the sole survivor of a great tradition. He must feel lonely. Conservatism, of course, has long since left the political party of that name, just as the Pearson government is the antithesis of historic Liberalism. Professor Grant has no illusions on that score. As a political force, he says, Conservatism is dead and in a disturbing little book he has signed the death certificate.



Hutchison

He has also signed a similar certificate for the Canadian state. It is dead, too. Here I do not intend to review the professor's excellent "Lament for a Nation," which deserves more learned comment, but it seems to me that the death of Canada, like that of Mark Twain, has been exaggerated.

To be sure, the Canada that Professor Grant and many other good men have loved is dead beyond any chance of revival. The same could be said of all nations in these days of social revolution but the case of Canada is a special phenomenon.

It has destroyed itself, the author tells us, by deliberate choice, an act of suicide. Except for a few ceremonial trappings and some second-rate political oratory, Canada has joined the United States.

Americans Not Convinced

Has it indeed? The Americans don't think so and are continually distressed by their independent neighbor with his habit of solving the United States' problems before he solves his own. Moreover, the Americans don't even want Canada, having several quarrelsome nations within their Union and plenty of troubles on their hands from the Deep South to the Far East.

Professor Grant replies that Canada has joined the Union without bothering to ask permission. It is dead but it won't lie down. Though it stands apparently erect and utters all the sounds of lusty life, the author interprets them as no more than a long death rattle just before rigor mortis sets in.

It is a waste of time to argue this question, since it will soon answer itself but the much larger question raised by the eloquent mourner of the Canadian state is well worth considering.

Professor Grant contends that no national culture can be safe any more. All of them are being gobbled up in the universal culture of the machine age.

Man is no longer regarded as a man, only as a consumer, an extension of the machine, a walking appetite, a mere statistic in the economists' charts. He is not the citizen of a separate nation anywhere but a member of the world-wide "homogeneous state." In short, a slave to his greed. Or he soon will be at this rate and Canadians have been thoroughly homogenized already.

If one observes the local Patriotism of Quebec, and the ten other Patriotisms erupting in the other provinces it is not easy to follow Professor Grant's argument but he will say that these are brief eruptions soon to disappear under the lava of general conformity. This is a popular theory now-a-days and, by its popularity, suspect.

Take the United States as the classic example of the conforming, faceless, mechanical society, the truly homogenized milk with all the cream diluted.

What do we discover beneath the surface of conformity? We discover that the American in California is a creature as distinct from the New Englander as the British Columbian is distinct from the French Canadian and that distinction is steadily growing. Or again, the North is quite unlike the South and all the power of the constitution cannot make them uniform.

Outside the loosely United States, we find a world so disunited, so unhomogenized, so writhing in separate nationalisms that its danger is not conformity but anarchy. Yet at the very moment when nationalism offers the supreme menace to mankind, and when Canadians are always deploring it in others, even their own strident home-made nationalism cannot satisfy them. They must enjoy the added luxury of ten bogus nationalities inside one nation.

Nevertheless, Professor Grant, the last true conservative, has despaired of individual man and sees his society as a lump of cold porridge.

He is wrong, I venture to think, about Canada and about man. Canada is not dead or dying. Man everywhere remains not only different but increasingly complicated and divided by the technical process which the professor takes for inevitable conformity.

He refuses to see that only in the most homogeneous nations technology is splitting the social substance into atoms until the uneducated man can hardly talk with the educated, the artist cannot understand the scientist whose mind is on Mars, the skilled craftsman stands as remote from the unskilled as the old-fashioned aristocrat from his butler. In truth the classless society of the machine has more castes, privileged folk and untouchables than ancient India.

All of which may be lamentable but surely Professor Grant is somewhat premature when he buries his nation and all the stubborn individuals who make it so lively, incalculable, crazy and wonderfully Canadian.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Keeping the Door Open

GOV. AVERELL HARRIMAN has left Moscow for points west, where he is busily reporting on his Muscovite experience to our European allies. This is likely to prove an important episode, and it is, therefore, worth trying to understand. The origin of Harriman's Moscow visit was quite clearly the eagerness of this evergreen, crafty and long-headed veteran of wars hot and cold to bring to bear his immense experience and his special standing in the Soviet Union. The "vacation" trip to Russia was his idea, most emphatically not the state department's idea.

Alsop

Allegedly, Harriman was provided with a partial pretext for his journey by one of the characteristic igeminations of the Soviet ambassador, Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Almost all Soviet ambassadors, in almost every capital, are currently warning almost anyone above the rank of apartment house doorman, in the most friendly, mournful and confidential way, that dire things may happen if the United States goes too far in Viet Nam.

As Harriman knows very well, this is the tactic known as verbal deterrence. There is no sort of solid commitment of Soviet prestige behind the warnings. There is no indication whatever that the Soviets are considering the only really serious counter measures now open to them, such as directly threatening a western flank in Berlin or elsewhere.

Yet the campaign of verbal deterrence has caused bouts of nerves in London or elsewhere. Furthermore, there is always the off-chance that such campaigns reflect a real Soviet misunderstanding of American intentions. On this ground, Harriman secured approval of his journey.

It was a personal rather than a state department initiative, because the state department professionals always believe that talks should not occur before there is something solid to talk about.

In this instance, Topic A was bound to be the Vietnamese War. Yet talking to the Soviets in the hope of influencing the North Vietnamese is now about like talking to an owner of 10 shares about the policies of U.S. Steel.

The North Vietnamese are fighting their own war. Their aid gives the Soviets no more leverage on Hanoi than the 10-share holder has on the steel company. It must be added, however, that the North Vietnamese leaders are far more likely to listen to a report on U.S. intentions from Moscow than is U.S. Steel boss Roger Blough to listen to a report on any subject from a 10-share man.

U.S. intentions — particularly the intention not to try to destroy North Viet Nam, but merely to persuade the Northerners to let their neighbors alone—no doubt bulked large in the first of Harriman's two talks in Moscow with the chairman of the Soviet government, Alexei Kosygin.

Russian Sentiment

The essential meaning of the Harriman-Kosygin interchange was clearly rather different, however. The Vietnamese War has interrupted the development of the strange, tenuous, yet potentially all-important special relationship between the two giant powers, of which the first fruit was the test ban treaty. The question arose of whether the Soviets wished the development to cease forever.

The Soviet desire to see the relationship continue to develop, as soon as circumstances permit, was indicated by the way Harriman was received in Moscow. The way Harriman talked in Moscow was clearly intended to put an end to any Soviet doubts about the American desire for further progress in this new special relationship, as soon as the Vietnamese corner has been turned.

In the interim, while the Vietnamese crisis blocks really major progress, the Harriman trip may even produce certain token but immediate results. His talks with people like Konstantin M. Rudenev, who handles most of the Soviet Union's higher technological programs, suggest the possibility of rather special trade exchanges in line with the Johnson administration's sensible wish for liberalization in this area.

But the main thing Harriman has reportedly achieved — and it is a big thing—is to keep the door open for later Soviet-American exchanges when it begins to be possible again to get down to brass tacks.

The Soviets need to get down to brass tacks with the United States since defence costs are increasingly exerting an unbearable drag on their economy. And since peace is the central vital interest of the United States, this country needs to get down to brass tacks (with emphasis on the brass) with the Soviet Union.

Looking Back

From The Times of July 30, 1890:

Long Beach: The New Jersey convention of the Presbyterian Church heard a number of delegates report on the desecration of the Sabbath which occurred at seaside resorts in the form of bathing, excursions, drinking and boardwalk promenades. Delegates discussed a number of measures to suppress "these evils of the Sabbath." One regulation that drew approval was that all persons discontinue attitudes on the beach "that would be considered immoral at their city home or elsewhere."

Voices Of Quebec

Montreal Le Devoir

How much American presence can the sovereignty dreamed of by "nation-builders" like Macdonald and Diefenbaker stand?

Professor George Grant of McMaster University has published a rather bizarre work on the question under the title "Lament for a Nation". . . He opens with what seems to be a partisan defence of Conservative leader John Diefenbaker. Careful reading of his text corrects this illusion. Grant's real theme is that in the 20 years since the last world war, Canada has become "a branch-plant of American capitalism."

Quebec L'Action

The provinces, especially Quebec, played an efficient role at the recent Ottawa meeting. The Pearson government had already modified the one-way centralization that Ottawa had been carrying on since the 1930s. It was a break with a generation's tradition when Mr. Pearson accepted the province's right to abstain from federal-provincial plans with financial compensation. . . .

But Prime Minister Pearson's declaration on health insurance goes much further than that. For the first time, in fact, Ottawa has set aside the old stratagem of the federal-provincial program which allowed her to invade provincial jurisdiction, leaving the provincial states no alternative but to adhere or lose everything. The Pearson health insurance project completely respects provincial jurisdiction, limiting federal responsibility to fiscal redistribution. . . .

Montreal La Presse

No one considers the demands of the postmen exaggerated. They earned, according to their category, $3,960, $4,380 and $4,680 after five years' service and now demand not $300 or $360 but $660 more. The slowness of negotiations compared with the speed with which MPs voted their own last pay raise had its part in bringing feelings to white heat. But in addition to the salary question the strikers complain of the lamentable condition of the Montreal central post office, some fairly miserable working conditions and disciplinary measures some say are illegal or draconian.

Morally supported by the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Canadian Labor Congress, and with the illegality of their strike not clearly established, the postmen, setting a precedent, now are the focus of all federal employees.

All the poor public wants is to see this challenge prod the government into modifying its attitude toward its employees and establish machinery for settling disputes at a 1965, not a 1900, pace.

Identification

The Christian Science Monitor

IT IS WHITES, of course, who originally decided that a black skin was the badge of caste in the United States and elsewhere. It is whites who have decided, not necessarily always with conscious intent, what role those in that caste shall play. Black ghetto living, in fact, often reflects in concentrated form the values and excesses of the white society that hems the ghetto in.

Indeed, from the moment of his arrival in the United States the black man was deprived of virtually everything that gave him an identity—except the color of his skin. And from that point there was thrust upon him an identity decreed for him by the white man, one which the black man's circumstances gave him little alternative but to accept.

At the same time, objectivity demands that one record that already before his transfer to the American continent, the black man had been long isolated from the progressive and modernizing currents of Western culture. This culture was deeply and pervasively established in the Western world when he was brought into it.

His dilemma of identity, however, is still at the core of the problem. It accounts for the apathy and the anguish, the rebellion and the resignation that seem intermittently to wrack and benumb the Negro population of the United States.

Yet in the last resort, most Negroes end up recognizing that they are Americans. And their continuing frustration persists because (as they see it) those who have made them American—voluntarily or involuntarily—still refuse them the entirety of their rights, attributes, privileges, and opportunities that go along wih Americanhood.

Letters

Corrections

I should like to correct an error in my letter in Monday's edition.

The time lost by illness in the labor force in 1961 should have read 52,700,000 man-days instead of man-hours; quite a difference you will agree. The error was mine.—A. Percy Rayment.

The Extra Mile

A postman's job is not an easy one. It requires both brains and brawn to which some, at least, have added a good measure of conscientiousness.

I once addressed a parcel putting "street" instead of "avenue" and the phone number instead of the house number to someone not listed in the phone book. It was delivered to the address I'd intended—a bit late, understandably.

Recently I received a letter addressed to me at a house demolished seven years ago. I've had five addresses since then but the letter reached me soon after it was first posted.

Postmen go the second mile although they aren't adequately paid for going the first one.—Ethel D. Miller, 532 Dallas.

Under Postmen

If Prime Minister Pearson is agreed that the Post Office workers deserve a $360-a-year wage increase, I wonder how he would feel about another branch of the civil service, the workers in the veterans' hospitals across Canada.

My husband's take-home pay after deductions is $240 per month. It isn't living, it is merely existing, and in a rich country, disgusting.—Just Breathing.

Target: The Bias in Teaching

'It's Flagrant,' Says Aroused Quaker

By R. J. ANDERSON

TORONTO — "Today the United States is the greatest of all the world's countries. With its gigantic military power it has rescued other, older nations in time of war. With its abounding wealth and generosity it has saved them from poverty and collapse in time of peace."

That statement is flagrant bias, says the teaching problems subcommittee of the Society of Friends (Quakers) in Canada.

It is taken from a book published in the United States in 1961 and recommended as suitable history to a Toronto junior high school girl by her teacher.

"Quakers wear plain clothes, neither smoke nor drink, don't drive cars or own television sets, wear no jewelry."

That, too, is an example of bias as it is taught in the schools, says the committee.

Mrs. Stanley Gardiner, chairman of the subcommittee which has set out to eliminate what it considers bias in teaching in the Ontario educational system, fondled a string of white beads about her neck as she told in an interview what the group hopes to accomplish.

'Bit Queer'

She was smartly dressed. She has a TV set in her home. She and her husband, a chartered accountant, have a car. Neither smokes — they just don't like it.

In the beginning, three years ago, Eileen Gardiner, a 44-year-old housewife, was concerned only with what she considered was a biased attitude towards her three children on the part of some suburban North York school teachers. She felt the children were looked upon as being "a little bit queer."

Then she ran into other things, such as the slanted book about the U.S. being the greatest power in the world. A committee of four Quakers and one non-Quaker looked at what is being taught in the schools. Now it is an interdenominational group of 12, only four of them Quakers. Most are school teachers.

With the blessing of Dr. Z. S. Phimester, now deputy minister of education in Ontario, study sessions with teachers were held. What could be done about bias and prejudice against minority groups, particularly in the field of history?

First a few teachers attended out of curiosity. Then more came to other study sessions and seminars out of what Mrs. Gardiner feels is a realization among many in the profession that something was lacking in their methods.

Source Vital

The committee's third annual seminar will be held on Grindstone Island in Lake Rideau, in eastern Ontario, Aug. 14-21. Educationists and social workers will be there. Attendance is limited to 40.

"The value of the seminars is in looking into ourselves and our prejudice," says Mrs. Gardiner.

"We feel that the schools are unconsciously indoctrinating propaganda into the minds of children, which is all right in itself, but the children should be left with an open mind. The source of every statement should be given.

"A teacher may say that such-and-such is black but there may be shades of white in it.

They Say It

"The teacher may say that God exists. Some one in the class may not believe in God. The teacher should say that the Christian or the Jew or the Mohammedan says there is God.

"Education is trying to develop in children a searching mind and growing mind. If a teacher makes a flat statement that this is it, the children are inclined to accept his word and not look further."

She said that if a teacher has Jewish children in his class, or perhaps a Buddhist, those children should be given an opportunity to tell other children at their own interest and age level something about their background.

"Children thus could learn and understand and live with each other with a feeling of consideration."

Mrs. Gardiner has a 20-year-old son, a daughter of 18 and one aged 13. She and her husband are Quakers by "convincement," having changed from the United Church seven years ago.

THE GALLUP POLL

Political Stability Despite Scandals

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

The turmoil of current political events in Ottawa, has had little impact on voter attitudes.

Party standings, on the national average, have varied little through the first half of this year, and, as the figures below reveal, show only minor changes from the vote at the last federal election.

The political stability reflects the public's belief, in the main, that recent scandals have not affected government forces seriously.

Regional ratings, comparing today's findings with those reported by the Gallup Poll in January of this year, reflect much the same situation, with the exception that, in the west, both Conservatives and Liberals appear to have lost some ground to the NDP and Social Credit parties.

For its periodic check on political favors, the Gallup Poll asks a national sample of the voting public:

"If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

The first table compares national standings reported this year, with the actual vote in 1963.

	Conservatives	Liberals	NDP	Socred and Other
Election standing,
April 1963	33%	42%	13%	12%
January 1965	32	47	12	9
March 1965	29	45	15	11
May 1965	29	45	15	11
TODAY	29	45	15	11

The next table compares regional standings today, with those reported by the poll last January, and the actual vote at the 1963 election. Because of its population size, Maritime attitudes cannot be shown separately with enough statistical accuracy.

	Conservatives	Liberals	NDP	Socred and Other
Quebec
Election 1963	20%	46%	7%	27%
January 1965	20	54	9	17
TODAY	21	50	12	17
Ontario
Election 1963	35%	46%	16%	3%
January 1965	35	49	15	1
TODAY	33	48	17	2
The West
Election 1963	39%	28%	19%	14%
January 1965	36	36	15	13
TODAY	29	34	18	19

The "undecided" segment is still very large, running about 30% on the national average. It is at the highest level in Quebec, where 37% of the voters say they don't know how they'd vote in a federal election at this time.

OLD HABITS BALK PARASITE BATTLE

By C. WILLIAM BELL

SALISBURY, Rhodesia —The most important chemical warfare in Africa is directed against a parasite that has infected more than 1,250,000 Rhodesians.

The parasite causes a disease called bilharzia, which rarely kills but which weakens bodies so that its victims become easy prey to other killing diseases.

Ironically, bilharzia thrives on agricultural progress. The parasite spends part of its life cycle in fresh water snails, and as Rhodesia opens up more and more farmland to irrigation, the disease spreads more and more rapidly.

The Salisbury government, aided by the World Health Organization and the Rockefeller Foundation, is countering with a vigorous program of research and control. But despite the campaign, the disease is gaining.

The two most important control methods are treating humans with drugs and killing the snails with chemicals.

"This is the most important chemical warfare in Africa," a government official said. "And it's one that should arouse science around the world."

But the program runs into trouble because of many Africans' ignorance of hygiene.

"African children play in the water. They contract bilharzia. We treat it, but what's the use? They only go back to the water and get bilharzia again," one Rhodesian farmer said.

A Rockefeller Foundation scientist, Lee Husting, agreed. "It's humans who are infected and it's humans who contaminate the water that contaminates them," he said.

PIPED WATER

"It's clear rural Africans don't understand the basic notions of hygiene. But we could help a bit by supplying piped water and sanitation facilities," he added.

The link between the water and the disease is clear in the lowveld region of Rhodesia, where most of the irrigation projects are concentrated.

Almost all African children there and up to 90 per cent of the adults have the disease.

60 PER CENT PREDICTED

Government health authorities say that unless bilharzia is checked, about 60 per cent of the nation's four million Africans will contract it.

But old habits die hard. Recently, a government official stood on the banks of Lake McIlwayne, 25 miles from the capital, and pointed to an African fisherman standing hip-deep in the water.

"There's a man who will soon be another bilharzia statistic," he said. "But I can't tell him to stop fishing."

Hare Family on the Run During Renaissance '65

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Right now Mrs. Carl Hare is surrounded by an aura of excitement. She is the wife of the clever director of University of Victoria Renaissance '65 Festival play, "A Man for All Seasons."

Forbes

The atmosphere was created by three happenings that built up, almost like a stage scene, to a dramatic climax.

First, there was the stimulation of the play's premiere performance and, at the same time, the opening of Phoenix Theatre on the Gordon Head campus.

Then there was pride in the work, behind scenes, of members of a Women's Committee of the University Theatre, organized in the spring by Mrs. Hare. She is the chairman.

Finally, there was the knowledge that she is to play Viola in the festival's "Twelfth Night" (in place of Marigold Coleman, who recently retired from the part) and that there is only 10 days left to rehearse.

"I've had to completely reorganize my life for that space of time," Clara Hare told me, when I sat with her for a few moments before the "Man" opened, Wednesday evening.

* * *

Two "small ones" in the Hare family—a girl and a boy—have been placed in a baby hotel in Saanich, where trained nurses will care for them. Someone has been brought into the Hare home to take over the household routine.

"That leaves me free, from now until opening night, to live with Viola," she said.

What makes the part "a real challenge" for this petite, clear-eyed young woman is the fact that, with one exception, she has not appeared on stage for more than five years—or, as she puts it, "since the babies arrived."

She also confesses that she has never acted in a Shakespeare play, except during the "brief exception" mentioned above. That was earlier this year, when Seattle Repertory was in Victoria.

* * *

Mrs. Hare saw a notice in the press calling for extras. Believe it or not, this was for "Twelfth Night."

Because she was interested in the costuming, she applied and was accepted.

"Fate!" she says now.

When she was studying for her Bachelor of Education degree at University of Alberta, Clara Hare did take drama. And in the second year her husband was studying at Royal Academy of Drama in London, England, she was enrolled at Central Speech and Drama School there. The following year both were in repertory in England.

When they returned to Canada Mrs. Hare gradually "worked in" to creating the costumes for her husband's plays. Outstanding in this field was "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "The Alchemist," both included in University of Victoria's Shakespeare Festival '64.

This year, with exception of her women's committee work, Mrs. Hare intended to "sit on the sidelines." She planned to stay at home and "enjoy" the children.

* * *

Then came need for a new Viola and an invitation from director Richard Digby Day that resulted in reorganization of her life, for 10 days, at least.

Little wonder that she is moving through the hours excitedly.

The Women's Committee of the University Theatre was born in 1964, at the time of the Shakespeare Festival, when wives of professors in the English department, headed by Mrs. Hare, volunteered to help "where needed."

They formed the nucleus of the larger committee organized this spring and that is now open to all faculty wives and any others interested in drama and the theatre.

"We have no constitution and no rules," Mrs. Hare said, "and we only meet as a group when everyone is needed to do a piece of work . . . like numbering tickets for the various performances."

Members work in the departments in which they are interested. Some assist with the costuming or in the wardrobe room. Others do box office work and publicity. Still others help with makeup and in planning after-theatre receptions and entertainment.

"We could use more members," Clara Hare says. "There must be many women interested in this sort of thing who would join us if they knew we needed them."

They've Got In-Law Trouble

VANCOUVER — Unless you've got a kissing cousin, romance is a dead issue on Easter Island in the South Pacific, 2,500 miles off the coast of Chile.

Husband—or wife—hunting among the island's 1,200 inhabitants is impossible because generations of intermarriage have left all the eligible males and females related to each other—either as brothers and sisters or first cousins.

The plight of the island's residents was told by two Vancouver scientists—Dr. Ian Efford, 28, and Jack Mathias, 22—members of a medical expedition to the island.

They said marriage is only one of the problems facing the natives.

Insects and other forms of animal life are threatening the island's plant life.

Thousands of lemon trees have been wiped out by insects that found their way to the island about 50 years ago on visiting boats. Only a few lemon trees are left and there is little hope of saving them, they said.

Will TV Networks Fade Out U.S. Political Conventions?

By LAWRENCE LAURENT

WASHINGTON — Few events have greater importance for Americans than the national political nominating conventions. But you'd never know it by examing the television audience figures.

This came out strongly when Richard S. Salant of CBS joined the new national pastime, a game called "Reform the Convention." In recent weeks, newsman Walter Cronkite has suggested that reporters be kept off convention floors. Former president Eisenhower has suggested some military police to keep order.

Now, Salant has accused politicians of "stage managing a convention" to take advantage of television audiences. Salant is a former president of CBS News. He is now vice-president of CBS and special assistant to the president of CBS Inc.

Salant has found that conventions are a huge benefit to the non-network TV station that sticks to its normal programming.

In a speech to the Kentucky Democratic state central executive committee public affairs seminar, Salant said:

"During the Democratic convention, the New York audience split just about evenly between the convention coverage on the three networks, on the one hand, and the old movies and baseball games on the three unaffiliated stations, on the other hand.

"During the Republican convention, for every two New York viewers who watched the conventions, three watched the unaffiliated stations.

CRONKITE . . . "ban reporters"

"Put another way," Salant continued, "the viewing to the network stations during convention periods was down 50 cent from normal, while the viewing to the unaffiliated stations was up about 100 per cent from normal.

Those viewers who did watch the conventions from opening gavel to closing gavel will find a lot of truth in some of Salant's charges against the politicians.

He cited the "chorus of songs from congressional wives," resolutions that are passed "thanking the golden girls," the string of boy orators and the nominations of favorite sons, "who everybody knows will withdraw."

He also cited the "carefully rehearsed, carefully orchestrated, spontaneous demonstrations."

Politicians would do well to heed the TV discontent. It is no secret, for example, that ABC-TV is doing some hard thinking about a new way to cover a convention. That way would be to hold its daily entertainment schedule, getting to the convention only for events and speeches that are truly newsworthy.

It would win tremendous ratings. Then, by the sacred rules of TV, the other networks would have no choice but to follow this lead.

VIET CONG WIN POINTS BOTH WAYS

By JOHN MAFFRE

SAIGON—Every time a Vietnamese non-combatant dies in this war's crossfire, the Viet Cong grows one inch taller in public image and the government's stature shrinks.

This is the tragic equation of the counter-insurgency battle here.

The Viet Cong gains his points on terror, pure and simple. He is not loved so much as he is held in awe and in abject fear for the havoc he can wreak—or, ironically, for the punishment which he can lure the government to inflict upon its own people.

MORE TO COME

This has happened twice in the past two months in the small community of Ba Gia, not far inland from the coast in the central province of Quang Ngai. It has been happening at irregular intervals ever since this "second" Indochina war erupted six years ago, and it will occur with probably greater intensity as the conflict grows fiercer.

The government loses points either way. If it fails to secure a community against Viet Cong depredations, its authority is eroded, intelligence sources dry up, and, at worst, that community might drift actively into the Viet Cong camp.

If it reacts violently to drive the Viet Cong from that community, and if in the process it kills or maims some inhabitants, its incoming troops meet that sullen and hostile silence which is an almost tangible thing.

HARD TO AVOID

"There will be many more civilians killed that way as time goes on," one U.S. officer observed, somewhat defensively. "I am not justifying it. I am only saying: How can you avoid it?"

The same problem bedevilled service chiefs in the Second World War. Thousands of civilians perished in close air support operations after the Normandy landings, and so did many allied troops when their positions were hit by their own air arm.

One difference was that in that era of tight censorship, such tragic events saw the light of print far less often than they do today.

. . . But Not Right to Strike

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA—The postal strike gave new impetus to efforts aimed at collective bargaining for the civil service and seems to have improved the chances of legislation being approved when Parliament next meets.

The federal government has been studying a report of a special committee headed by Arnold Heeney which made concrete suggestions about the form of collective bargaining.

SIMILAR PLANS

Meanwhile, the official Opposition appears to have been doing some thinking along similar lines. Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker came out with his own bargaining proposals.

The two proposals are not radically different and, if the government is preparing legislation based on the Heeney report, it seems likely many of its points will get Conservative backing in the Commons.

Neither plan would allow government employees the right to strike if negotiation of their salary and working conditions broke down.

It's not clear whether this fact would cause legislative trouble with the New Democratic Party.

WON'T ALLOW STRIKES

The Heeney report did not deal specifically with the right of federal employees to strike. But Resources Minister Laing has said publicly that the government's legislation would ban civil servant strikes.

What was proposed was an arbitration procedure on matters unresolved at the bargaining table. The government wouldn't be bound by the arbitration board findings but, in the event of cabinet rejection of them, parliamentary debate of the issue was suggested.

This is the main difference between the Heeney proposals and those of Mr. Diefenbaker.

The Opposition leader suggested bargaining through a council composed of an employee representative from each government department and a government representative from each department plus the treasury board, a cabinet committee.

Unresolved points would go to an arbitration board, headed by a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

But Mr. Diefenbaker advocated final and binding arbitration.

This question of whether arbitration should be binding appears to be the main point on which the battle lines will be drawn on collective bargaining legislation in the Commons.

WHILE A BABY DIES

Crowd Jams Medical Aid Route

DALLAS (UPI) — Police clashed with a number of persons in a crowd last night that had pressed so close to a burning home in a Negro neighborhood they prevented passage of medical aid for a two-year-old fire victim.

The baby, Patrick Chambers, was pronounced dead later at a hospital. An autopsy was ordered.

Seven carloads of police were called to restore order at the scene as some Negroes, described by police as 'wild punks," shouted and chanted "Kill them! Kill them!" Three persons were arrested, two men and a woman.

Most of the crowd of about 700 was orderly. But the crush of humanity delayed arrival of a resuscitator and an ambulance for the baby.

OTHER SAVED

Firemen had rescued four other children from the two-storey house in South Dallas. The Chambers baby was trapped in an upstairs bedroom during the $3,000 blaze.

When firemen carried the baby out, the crowd was so thick that police began pushing it back to make a path for emergency equipment to be brought in.

Patrolman J. H. Dahman and four officers began pushing the crowd to make a path.

A 24-year-old woman shouted that a policeman "touched me." She clawed at Dahman and tore his uniform.

"Don't let the police get away with it!" someone in the crowd shouted.

Two 19-year-old youths jumped on Dahman and another officer.

'KILL THEM'

The chant of "Kill them, kill them!" rose.

Officer R. J. Shackleford was hit on the head.

Police reinforcements arrived. Police dogs were brought, but were not used.

Both Negro and white police were involved.

Police seized Alice Turner, 24, of Tucson, Ariz., and William Jefferson and George Silas, both 19 and both of Dallas. They were hustled into a squad car and taken to jail on charges of disturbing the peace, resisting an officer and failing to obey officers.

The crush was so thick, firemen formed a protective ring around the baby to protect the infant, Fire Chief R. G. Russell said.

MOTHER IN SHOCK

The firemen applied artificial respiration pending arrival of the resuscitator.

"If your police want trouble, they've come to the right place," a fire department spokesman quoted one Negro youth as saying. "We'll take care of you, too."

The baby's mother, Mrs. Geneva Chambers, 31, fainted and was taken to a hospital in shock.

Firemen said the parents were away from home when the fire started. Mrs. Chambers rushed up while firemen were trying to breathe life into her baby.

Patrolmen Dahman and Schackelford were scratched, bruised and had their uniforms ripped.

A policeman said later that people in the crowd were "ugly and threatening from the first."

There was no threat of a major riot.

The disturbance occurred in an area where a crowd of 400 threatened two policemen a year ago.

However, Dallas has had no major racial clashes.

MASS ARRESTS AFTER MARCH BLOCKED OFF

GREENSBORO, Ala. (AP)—About 175 civil rights demonstrators were arrested Thursday after three unsuccessful attempts to march.

In Selma, lawyers for the demonstrators filed a petition with U.S. district Judge Daniel H. Thomas asking him to restrain state and Greensboro police and the Hale County sheriff's department from obstructing the planned marches.

Each time a group left St. Matthew African Methodist Episcopal Church here they were stopped by local and state officials because they had no parade permit.

The arrests brought the total number taken into custody in two days to an estimated 475. Those arrested were mainly young Negroes, but there were a few whites.

They were charged with obstructing a public street. Bond was set at $100 each.

N.Y. Studies Water Line To Niagara

NEW YORK (AP)—An engineering company says for $248,000,000 it can build a pipeline that would bring 250,000,000 gallons of water a day from Niagara Falls to the city's depleted reservoirs.

The industrial oil and pipeline division of Consolidated Engineering Contractors International made the proposal in a letter to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

There was no emmediate comment from the governor's office.

New York City, along with many other centres in the U.S. northeast, is experiencing one of the worst water shortages in history. Residents here have been urged to reduce their using to some 26 gallons each a day.

The firm said it could start the project Aug. 2 and complete it in five months.

The pipeline would be six feet in diameter and run above ground alongside the New York Thruway. It would start at a pumping station on Grand Island in the Niagara Falls area, run to Kingston and then go five miles to the Ashokan reservoir.

The 250,000,000 gallons a day would be about one-fourth of the city's daily consumption.

JAMES HOFFA
. . . 'railroaded'

Supreme Court Next for Hoffa

Appeal Against Conviction For Jury Tampering Rejected

CINCINNATI (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, was just one step away today from fulfilling his vow to take his attempted jury-tampering conviction to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The Sixth U.S. Circuit court of Appeals Thursday unanimously upheld the conviction, rejecting the 52-year-old labor leader's contentions that he was indicted by an improperly impanelled grand jury and convicted on "tainted" and insufficient evidence.

Hoffa and three other men were convicted March 4, 1964, in the U.S. district court at Chattanooga, Tenn. Hoffa was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000. The three others received four-year prison terms.

The appeals court also sustained the convictions of the other defendants.

The next step in Hoffa's legal battle would be to seek a rehearing before the appeals court.

Hoffa and Larry Campbell of Detroit and Thomas E. Parks and Ewing King of Nashville, Tenn., were convicted of trying to tamper with the jury that tried Hoffa in 1963 in Nashville on conspiracy charges. The Nashville trial ended in a mistrial.

Hoffa and his lawyers have contended from the start that he was being "railroaded" to jail because the main prosecution witness was a former Teamsters official who reported to the government about jury-tampering attempts during the Nashville trial.

In their opinion, the appeals court judges upheld the government contention that Edward G. Partin, the former Teamsters official from Baton Rouge, La., was not a paid informer and added:

"The testimony of Partin sought to be suppressed related not to trial strategy . . . but to illegal endeavors to bribe or influence jurors. . . .They (the defendants) had no lawful right to engage in such conduct, either with or without the assistance of counsel."

COSTLY BLAZES

Siberia Timber Crop Going Up in Smoke

By JOHN BEST

Last of A Series

IRKUTSK, Siberia (CP)—Forest fires are devouring some of the rich timber wealth of Siberia.

Flying over the tree-covered land, one can see scores of fires burning.

A number—those close to settled areas and farms—appear to be controlled blazes for burning off slash. But there are many others deep in the wilderness that are undoubtedly forest fires—and out of control.

NO ESTIMATE

A responsible Siberian official told me that forest fires are causing "a very large amount" of damage. However, there was no estimate of just how much.

Between the Ural Mountains and this city, located halfway across the southern portion of the Siberian land mass, dozens of fires could be seen burning in early June. There were others around Bratsk, 250 miles north of here, and around Yakutsk, 1,200 miles to the northeast.

At Bratsk late one afternoon a brilliant orange sun was obscured now and then by what appeared to be smoke.

Flying out of Yakuts one day we saw the air thick with smoke from dozens of fires burning on the ground. "You can even smell the smoke in here," said a companion on the aircraft.

Most of the fires wouldn't spread far, however, because we were flying over taiga country with plenty of swampy water.

In North America lightning is a major cause of forest fires but in Siberia, the official insisted, most are caused by careless people, a point that was difficult to reconcile with the fact that large numbers of fires were in the depths of the vast wilderness.

ISOLATION

The standard method of fighting outbreaks is to isolate them by bulldozing a wide swath around the fire zone and letting the flames burn themselves out. Bulldozers and men are often ferried to the spot by helicopter.

The Canadian technique of bombing the fire with water has been little used in Siberia, if at all. Helicopters and small biplanes are used to spot fires and observe their progress and observation towers are used to some extent.

Press Law Applauded By Macleans

TORONTO (CP) — Periodicals in Canada welcome federal legislation that discourages foreign magazines from starting new Canadian editions, Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd. said in a six-month report issued Thursday.

"It is difficult for a genuine Canadian publisher to compete against a publisher that gets his most important raw material, his editorial comment content, at virtually no additional cost," the report said.

Probe Not Planned

TORONTO (CP) — A public inquiry is not planned into the affairs of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. which went into receivership in mid-June after defaulting on some short-term notes, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Thursday. The attorney-general said after a two-hour cabinet session he has confidence in the Ontario Securities Commission now investigating Atlantic and that it actually has more powers than a royal commission would have.

Turns Over Reins

BOSTON (UPI) — Millionaire Howard Hughes today formally turned over control of Northeast Airlines to George B. Storer Sr., owner of a group of radio and television stations.

Strike End Would Help Grain Mark

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Pacific Coast ports are heading for the biggest grain movement in their history in the next 12 months, with shipments expected to exceed far more than the record 220,000,000 bushels set in 1963-64, it was learned here Friday from informed sources.

Only catch at present is the strike which has tied up the Alberta Pool Elevator and indirectly the Saskatchewan Pool Elevator in Vancouver. If the strike is not soon settled it could cut into shipments out of the Pacific ports very severely.

Sales by the wheat board already made indicated that the coming crop year will produce another outstanding marketing year. The board's forward commitments for the coming crop year are the largest ever recorded in the board's operation before the opening of a new crop year.

DAILY SALES

New sales are being made almost daily, it was learned from authoritative sources here. To date the wheat board has not lost a single customer due to the strike, but it has in fact made record sales and commitments. The customers want to ship through the Pacific ports and consequently are keenly interested in an end to the strike.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks aimed at settling the grain handlers strike lasted about eight hours Thursday, a development described by a federal mediator as "significant."

Dr. G. Neil Perry, appointed by the federal government to mediate the dispute, met with grain elevator company representatives and spokesmen for the United Brewery, Flour Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers Union (CLC).

Dr. Perry's only comment after the session was: "It is significant the talks continue."

Hunt on for Men To Fill B.C. Jobs

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

During the next year the Mining Association of Canada will be working hand-in-hand with officers of the National Employment Service in an attempt to relieve a crippling manpower shortage.

Their task will not be an easy one for more than 4,000 men, skilled, semi-skilled and laborers, are required before all vacancies are filled.

Hume

British Columbia and Ontario are the hardest hit with B.C. alone needing 1,052 men just to take up the slack.

Mines in B.C. need 274 tradesmen (mechanics, electricians, welders, machinists and carpenters), 333 underground workers (miners, laborers, helpers and timbermen). There are jobs for 173 open pit men (truck drivers, laborers, shovel operators), 194 mine mill men (operators, laborers and crusher operators) and 91 surface workers (laborers, truck drivers and bulldozer operators).

Technicians are also in short supply with B.C. mines having vacancies for 77 draftsmen, assay office workers, geologists, surveyors or research workers.

MORE WANTED

Ontario is slightly worse off needing 1,254 men at least before that province's mines can work at full strength.

That province has vacancies for 142 tradesmen, 836 underground workers, 29 open pit men, 81 mill workers, 35 surface workers, 90 smelter men and 41 technicians.

Part of the problem lies in the fact that new mines are coming in at such a rapid rate that the labor force just can't keep up with demand.

V. C. Wansbrough, vice-president and managing director of the mining association, says the greatest demand is for miners, mechanics, electricians and welders. He also forecasts that though great efforts are being made to solve the problem "new mines which will be brought into production in the next few years will tend to aggravate the already serious labor shortage unless a positive program of action is initiated now."

NEW MINES

Typical of the growing problem is the announcement that Rancheria Mining Company Ltd., went into production this week in the Tootsee Creek area of northern B.C.

Tootsee Creek is near the Yukon border just off mile 701 on the Alaska Highway.

While working the mine—it is averaging 37.6 ounces of silver per ton plus 15 per cent combined lead and zinc with additional precious metals—Rancheria is continuing further explorations over a large 32-claim area.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting were the first people to suspect silver in fairly large quantities could be in the area. In 1948 two prospectors discovered silver-bearing sulphide float but after putting down eight drill holes which revealed only slight promise the company abandoned the claims.

SECOND LOOK

Rancheria took a second look in 1962 and 1963 and now report that at least two of the holes, possibly all of them, just didn't go far enough.

The ore they are now taking out appears to run in a ratio of four ounces of silver to one per cent of lead with estimates of value running from $600 to $800 per ton of concentrates.

Mining and milling costs have been estimated at $20 per ton, transportation costs at $44 per ton of concentrates.

Rancheria, like all good mines, is in production. And like all good mines will stay that way. But, like most other mines across the country, it will not hit full production until the aggravating labor shortage is solved.

TAX FRAUDS BRING FINE OF $44,500

HULL, Que. (CP) — A Papineauville, Que., businessman and his three lumber firms were fined a total of $44,500 here Thursday on 46 charges of tax evasion and allowing fraudulent tax reports to be filed.

Paul Bonhomme, 67, president and director of all three companies, pleaded guilty to all the charges.

He was personally fined $14,525 on 23 charges of allowing fraudulent reports to be filed with the national revenue department.

The three companies—Papineauville Lumber, Gatineau Building Supplies, and Bytown Lumber in Ottawa were fined a total of $30,025, representing 15 per cent of the tax due on unreported sales, between 1949 and 1961, on a total of 23 charges of tax evasion.

U.K. Expansion Inside Canada To Be Limited

OTTAWA (CP)—Only one of the latest belt-tightening moves announced by the British government to improve its sterling exchange position will hit hard at business in Canada, and its main effect will be felt by many small Canadian subsidiaries of British firms, an informant said here Thursday.

The moves announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Callaghan in the British Commons Tuesday are aimed at encouraging British exports and curtailing or postponing imports. Consumer credit spending was restricted and some public investment postponed.

But the feature of the measures to strengthen sterling most likely to be felt in Canada, an official of the British government said, is a move to bar the use of Britain's official exchange for investment outside the sterling area—that is, in Canada, the U.S. and other non-sterling countries.

This, it was stated, will be felt most severly by smaller British subsidiaries in Canada which tend to depend on their parent organizations in Britain for expansion capital. They no longer will be able to move this capital to Canada easily.

HAVE LIMITED EFFECT

The larger subsidiaries in Canada of British firms are more inclined to seek expansion capital in Canada, perhaps with guarantees on the part of the British parent firms to stand behind the credit of the subsidiaries. The new measurese announced by Mr. Callaghan will have a limited effect on these arrangments.

It was explained that in the past British firms could take into Britain their foreign earnings and exchange them for pounds on an investment currency market or buy investment dollars as easily. In Mr. Callaghan's first budget he announced that certain imports of foreign exchange would have to be converted to pounds only at the official rate. Now he has extended the requirement to a larger portion of Britain's foreign dollar earnings and said none would be available for dollar investment.

This means that for British industry in non-sterling areas to expand, premium rates of exchange will have to be paid or the money will have to be raised in borrowings abroad.

Officials said there are a large number of scattered small business concerns in the category that will be directly affected by the new British exchange controls but only a few of the larger direct subsidiaries that will be affected to a lesser extent.

Decision Moment Nearing On B.C. Grower Crop Aid

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The onus will be on British Columbia next week to clarify its intentions to combine with federal assistance on aid to the province's fruit growers.

Both B.C. Agriculture Minister Frank Richter and his federal counterpart Harry Hays will be met with demands from a special committee representing the southern Okanagan Valley next Thursday when they attend the Peach Festival in Penticton.

The committee will ask for immediate cash assistance for growers and industry workers suffering from the fruit disaster; an early start on an ARDA project in the valley, and a definite joint commitment on crop insurance.

As far as Hays is concerned, it will be up to Richter to state his position.

The federal minister met with Richter and representatives of the B.C. fruit growing industry last month and set out proposals and conditions for federal assistance.

CROP LOSSES

First of all, the government is prepared to split the cost with B.C. on a direct cash subsidy to offset crop losses. It is estimated this would involve about $6 million with each level of government paying half. Another million might be shared to help provide for tree replacement.

The condition attached to this federal aid is that B.C. would come into the government's crop insurance program.

Four provinces are already participating in crop insurance, and Ontario and Quebec intend to introduce enabling legislation to bring them into the program. Agreement was reached with these two provinces as a long term measure to protect their farmers from the ravages of the recent drought.

ENTER PROGRAM

Hays is anxious that crop insurance be carried out on a national basis to aid in emergency disasters, but it is up to the provinces to take the initiative of entering the program.

British Columbia has complained that the present coverage of 60 per cent on the average crop yield over a base period of time is insufficient. Officials have said that fruit farms need a figure of about 80 per cent coverage to make the crop insurance plan effective.

It is understood that Hays is prepared to amend the Crop Insurance Act to enable flexible coverage and thus meet the complaints of B.C.

He will hold a federal-provincial symposium on crop insurance in September so all governments can consider changes to the present program and also the possibility of extending some type of disaster insurance on a national basis.

SPECIAL FUND

This could be similar to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act under which producers pay a small percentage of returns from their farm sales into a special fund.

If the fund is not sufficient to cover a disaster, then further subsidization—above crop insurance—is worked out.

When Richter met with Hays in June he said there were probably some "ways and means of making the Crop Insurance Act applicable to British Columbia."

However, it is understood that this optimism had receded somewhat when Richter met Hays again recently at the meeting of federal-provincial agriculture ministers in Winnipeg. Sources say he indicated that crop insurance was too expensive for B.C.

U.S. ORDERS CREATION OF 'SUPER READY' FORCE FOR VIET NAM

Johnson Wins Rousing Support From Governors

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won rousing support for his Viet Nam policy from the state governors but still faces the misgivings of Oregon's Mark O. Hatfield, a Republican who favors a vigorous peace move.

Johnson and his senior advisers briefed 49 governors for more than two hours Thursday night and Hatfield, sometimes mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1968, was the only one to emerge as something of a fence-sitter.

There were these other Washington developments in the many-sided Viet Nam situation:

—The defence department will create a "super ready reserve," it was learned, by bringing selected national guard and reserve units to peak readiness in training and equipment during the next few months.

—Another review by Johnson of the Vietnamese war in two or three months, and possibly a decision again to increase troop strength in Viet Nam, was expected. Informed speculation was that the U.S. forces, just ordered increased to 125,000 might go to 200,000 by the end of this year.

—Sen. Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee, said "300,000 appears to be the limit for Viet Nam from what I've heard." Russell said he assumes the armed forces as a whole will be built up to 3,000,000 from the present 2,600,000.

—UN Secretary-General U Thant told Johnson he is determined to use "all the means at my disposal" to bring about negotiations on Viet Nam.

—The principals in a six-week-old maritime strike promised they would continue to make available all the merchants ships necessary to carry supplies and men to Viet Nam. The assurance was given Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz by representatives of the AFL-CIO National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the American Merchant Marine Institute.

—The White House said Johnson has received a flood of telegrams applauding his decision to increase U.S. troop commitment in Viet Nam. The president said he has been sustained during recent months by the pride and patriotism expressed in letters from the wives and mothers of men serving in Viet Nam.

All those at the 57th annual governors conference in Minneapolis flew here to meet with Johnson. The only governor missing was John N. Dempsey of Connecticut who is visiting Ireland.

Before leaving the conference, all except Hatfield and Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney voted for a resolution "endorsing the principles of the position of this country as enunciated by the president."

U.S. Anchors Viet Coasts

Cong Controls Highways, Rails, Forcing Supply Route Shifts

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—As the Viet Cong takes over more and more of South Viet Nam, the United States is anchoring its defence to the sea coast.

"This coastal perimeter we're establishing won't necessarily win the war for us," said one American official, "but without it I hate to think what might happen to us."

Important inland military installations in recent months have become increasingly hard to secure and supply.

In the last three months, airlifts of supplies to inland U.S. installations have increased by nearly 1,000 per cent, and airlift capabilities are stretched to the cracking point.

During the same period, the number of roads that can be used for carrying supplies without mounting major operations has dwindled to less than 35 per cent of the nation's total mileage.

The highlands provincial capital of Pleiku, for example, is almost completely isolated from major supply centres. Two weeks ago 4,000 government troops were used to open Route 19, 150 miles from the coast, so supply convoys could get through to Pleiku for a few days.

But such large numbers of troops cannot be used permanently to keep any road open.

The only railway in normal times supplies all the coastal towns north of Saigon. But it is cut in dozens of places and unable to supply even the minimum needs of U.S. detachments along the coast.

U.S. forces are relying increasingly on the sea for artillery support also. Shore bombardment by 7th Fleet destroyers and cruisers has become routine. And a major part of the air support for South Vietnamese ground operations now is coming from 7th Fleet carriers.

Increasing numbers of landing ships have been pressed into service to move supplies along the coast.

The Viet Cong in the past let most supplies pass if the drivers paid taxes at Viet Cong checkpoints. This year the Communists apparently decide to close the roads altogether.

The stranglehold has hurt civilians almost as much as military establishments.

Central Viet Nam, which comprises about two-thirds of the land area of South Viet Nam, relies for food mostly on the abundant rice lands of the Mekong River delta. But with overland supply lines cut, rice is not moving into the central region.

$2,000 Missing

SMITHERS (CP)—RCMP are investigating the disappearance of about $2,000 from a suite in the Bulkley Hotel. A night watchman said the money must have been taken between 3:30 and 4:30 a.m. Thursday, when he was working in another part of the hotel.

Bitterness Over Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—There are signs of growing bitterness in Ottawa's construction industry strike which already has crippled nearly $50,000,000 worth of commercial and government building projects.

That figure could be doubled if the walkout spreads, as most people fear it will.

About 2,000 bricklayers, carpenters and laborers are off the job at 13 projects, including a new hospital, a high school and Carleton University's expansion program.

Neither side has made a serious move toward negotiation since the strike began early in June.

The Ottawa Builders' Exchange, representing the contractors, says the key to the deadlock is a union demand that the new contracts contain clauses allowing workers to respect any picket line.

Contractors contend that such a clause would cause chaos in the industry. It would mean that any union, no matter how small, could close a job down completely with a handful of pickets.

Goldwater Backers Out-Spent Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of Barry Goldwater out-spent supporters of President Johnson for radio-television time by more than $1,800,000 in the 1964 presidential campaign, a compilation showed Thursday.

But Democratic candidates as a group out-spent Republicans by $1,900,000 in primary and general-election campaigns last year.

The Federal Communications Commission, publishing statistics Thursday on the cost of campaign broadcast time, said the total bill for all parties in last year's primaries and general election came to $34,600,000, with $24,600,000 spent on the general election.

You keep the cost of family vacation trips down, when you fill up regularly at the sign of the Chevron.

For over a generation continual advances in the quality of Chevron Gasolines have had a single aim: to provide your engine with the smoothest, most dependable power available and to give you more miles per gallon.

In 1960, for example, Chevron led the whole industry by introducing Methyl—the biggest breakthrough in anti-knock additives since Ethyl, 36 years earlier. Other big leaps forward have included a special additive to banish carburetor-icing; the famous Chevron Detergent-Action formula which keeps your carburetor as clean as the day it was installed; improved refining processes to assure the best possible octane values for new and older engines alike.

Today, this compound progress towards ultimate perfection has put Chevron Gasolines in a class by themselves. Our research shows they represent the sum total of every element known to date that goes to make Chevron Gasolines truly superb.

Compound progress adds up to COMPOUND POWER. And with COMPOUND POWER the miles cost you less. Drive into your nearest Standard Station or Chevron Dealer this week and try a tankful for yourself . . .

Rain Halts Big March

Montreal Grain Handlers Protest Impasse In Talks

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking Montreal grain handlers marched 1,000 strong through the city Thursday following a report from their union representative that the National Harbors Board, their employer, had broken off talks.

The 10-mile march from the far eastern end of the city to the harbor board offices near the port and later to the federal labor department offices in the city's commercial centre, ended when heavy rain started.

Police said some windows were broken along the parade route. No arrests were made.

Robert Sauve, secretary-general of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions, set off the march when he told strikers the federal agency had broken off talks with the CNTU which had been going on in the labor department offices under federal mediator C. E. Poirier.

The men had been off the job since June 16 when they walked out unofficially in a protest over dismissals. On June 29 they voted to make the strike an official one, asking for higher wages.

SEEK 57-CENT BOOST

They seek an increase of their basic wage to $2.25 from $1.68.

On July 13 and 14 they received support from Montreal's 7,000-odd longshoremen, members of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), in a sympathy walkout which tied up the port.

The grain handlers number just over 1,000 and do tasks mainly centred around the grain elevators.

The report Mr. Sauve gave them Thursday said the harbors had refused to continue discussing the new labor contract clause by clause, and wanted a "package deal."

Chief bargainer for the harbors board has been port manager Guy Geaudet.

Let's Tell Them About Victoria!

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's tourist trade has been hit hard by cool July weather.

Northern resorts have already lost thousands of dollars and the prospect of a chilly three-day civic holiday weekend starting tonight leads many owners to fear that this will be "one of the worst seasons we've ever had."

Three centres in the province registered record low maximum temperatures Thursday for any July 29 since records were first kept before 1900.

The high at Windsor was 65 degrees compared with the previous record low maximum of 72 set in 1943 and 1956. North Bay had a maximum of 60, two degrees below the previous mark of 62 recorded in 1956. The 61-degree maximum in Sudbury was the lowest in 40 years. The previous low there was 65 degrees in 1925.

The mean temperature this month has been 67.7 degrees and precipitation has been normal.

Inquiry Ordered Into Drowning

BURNS LAKE (CP)—A coroner's inquiry has been ordered into the death of Peter Unruh, 19, of Burns Lake, who drowned Wednesday in nearby Decker Lake.

Unruh, a non-swimer, apparently slipped from a tire inner tube about 30 feet from shore and drowned.

A friend, Isaac Gunether, also 19, made a vain attempt to rescue Unruh, whose body was recovered in about 15 feet of water.

Rivard Linked To Missing Man?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A newspaper here says U.S. government agents are investigating a possible link between Lucien Rivard and the disappearance of Danny Bossio, 33, of Vancouver.

The newspaper says Bossio is considered a key witness against Edward Sherban, 32, facing extradition proceedings in Vancouver after being charged in San Diego with heroin smuggling.

Sherban was arrested here earlier this month. He has been refused bail.

Rivard is in Texas after being extradited from Canada to face trial for narcotics smuggling.

The paper says police believe Bossio—who disappeared April 29—may have been the victim of foul play, or gone into hiding from former underworld associates.

It says a spokesman for the U.S. customs bureau in Seattle said a U.S. government agent visited Vancouver earlier this month to investigate the disappearance.

The newspaper says Bossio was convicted in 1963 in California of smuggling heroin, marijuana and guns, but was released with a suspended sentence.

Bossio was a hairdressing student and part-time hairdresser in Vancouver.

PANIC, CRUSH, HELP!

LONDON (Reuters) — More than 1,000 Beatle fans, some of whom slept on the sidewalk all night, packed a movie house today to see their mop-haired idols' new film Help, which had its royal premiere Thursday night.

Ten teen-age girls were taken to hospital and more than 60 were treated for minor injuries when 10,000 fans ringed Piccadilly Circus to see the Beatles arrive for the premiere.

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, saw the premiere.

Ex-Governor Flees Cuba On Raft

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A former governor of a Cuban province who turned against Fidel Castro arrived in Miami Thursday night, ill and exhausted after a 12-day odyssey on a four-foot-square inner-tube raft.

A yachtsman who had sighted the refugee, Luis Casas, waving his tin water can in the sun, brought him ashore.

Casas told me, 'I had given up hope and was going to swim for it'," reported Tom Miller, skipper of the Skeezix III.

Casas' sister, Grace, an exile here, said he was governor of Camaguey province from 1959 to 1960, but was imprisoned for anti-Castro activity.

He was badly sunburned except for the part of his body covered by khaki shorts. On his chest was a tattooed X. Exiles said this meant he was marked for execution.

BRITONS' GROW OWN TOBACCO

LONDON (AP)—Backyard tobacco growers are growing like weeds in Britain.

There are no official figures on the number of householders raising tobacco for their own smokes, but a cigarette manufacturer estimates it is more than 100,000.

"And from what he can tell," said a spokesman for the company, "they are increasing all the time."

A large seed company said its sale of tobacco seed increased by 75 per cent this year.

The government this spring increased taxes and now a pack of ordinary cigarettes retails at five shillings seven pence (82 cents).

In Britain, growing tobacco is fairly easy. Curing it for smoking is another matter—the law sees to that.

Amateur tobacco curers, who have set up business, may cure a maximum of 25 pounds for each grower every 12 months. The grower and curer usually use parcel post to get it there and back.

The tobacco grower can buy the seed, grow it, have it cured and delivered back to his house for about one shilling (15 cents) an ounce.

On the commercial market, an ounce of tobacco retails for a little over $1.

SCOTCH CUP SERIES . . . . . . AT VANCOUVER

A Centennial Prize

In the parlance of curling, the B.C. Centennial Committee has scored an eight-ender.

The committee announces that it has secured the world curling championships for the Scotch Cup for Vancouver. The championships will be played at Vancouver Forum March 21-28, 1966, the prestige event of the committee's sports program.

Getting the Scotch Cup is akin to running the 3:50 mile or putting over a seven-horse parlay or watching your stock holdings soar out of sight.

The committee's announcement climaxed 16 months of negotiations by committee chairman Laurie Wallace.

He began his quest in March, 1964, when the Scotch Cup was held at Calgary.

Since then he has been conspicuously and nervously silent; afraid some other province might also covet the championships as part of its centennial celebrations.

Canadian rinks triumphed in Scotch Cup play the first seven years.

Two years ago a B.C. rink skipped by Lyall Dagg of Vancouver and including Barry Naimark, Leo Hebert and Fred Britton brought it home. Last year the U.S. took it.

Tough Optimists Post Third Straight Victory

KELOWNA — Victoria Evening Optimists all-stars had a day off in the B.C. Babe Ruth Baseball League playoffs today, befitting a team that has yet to taste defeat.

Optimists became the only unbeaten team in the tourney Thursday. They ran their record to 3-0 with a 3-2 success over previously unbeaten Vancouver Inter-Comunity.

Stout hitting and tight defence paid off for Optimists.

FEDIW CONNECTS

Billy Fediw was three for three at the plate. John Howe and Jerry Ferrie were two for four, Bob Butcher, two for three and Jerry Allman one for three.

Two double plays cut down potential Vancouver rallies.

Optimists could wrap up the bunting with a win Saturday night. If they lose, they will get another shot at the championship Sunday afternoon.

In the other Thursday game, New Westminster walloped Kelowna 19-2.

EXTRA-INNING VICTORY PUTS LAYRITZ IN LEAD

Les Hudson's extra-inning double led Layritz to a 7-6 victory over Triangle Thursday night in the first game of the Pony League district baseball tournament at Layritz Park.

Layritz plays Carnarvon All-Stars tonight at 6 o'clock in the double-elimination tourney at Layritz Park.

It's Official: Rocks Out!

NEW WESTMINSTER—Victoria Shamrocks can make holiday plans today. There's nothing in sight to interfere. Not third place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League. Not ICCL playoffs. Nothing.

The Rocks' status as the fourth and "out" member of the league was confirmed Thursday when Coquitlam Adanacs irrevocably latched on to the third and final playoff berth.

The A's did it by measuring league-leading New Westminster 11-9.

Jack Barclay pumped in three goals and set up four others for Adanacs, admitted only this year to senior boxla company.

Yen to Play, Bellino Makes Patriots Pay

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — There have been all kinds of strange bonuses offered to lure football players into the pro ranks but former Navy all-America Joe Bellino undoubtedly is the first to cost 144,000 yen.

Bellino was in Basebo, Japan, when he decided to resign his commission in the United States Navy and telephoned Boston Patriots of the American Football League. The final call, resulting in a contract, lasted 45 minutes and cost approximately $400.

"That's a lot of coins to put in a telephone 10 yen at a time," said Bellino. There are 360 yen to a $1.

So the Patriots picked up the bill, and a 27-year-old halfback who has played only three organized football games in the last four years. But to coach Mike Holovak the five-foot-nine, 185-pounder is worth every yen.

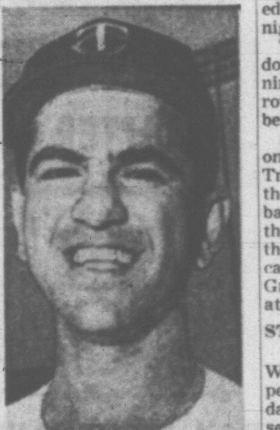
GREAVES HOLD KEY

Now Transports Must Just Wait



PLAGUED by small tumor behind right shoulder, pitcher Camilo Pascual (above) was placed on disabled list Thursday and will be lost to first-place Minnesota Twins of American League for at least 30 days.

Transport Workers displayed power to the end Thursday night at Royal Athletic Park.

The ex-champions struck down Independents 8-0, winning their seventh game in a row and moving a half game behind first place Greaves.

Although they have won one more game than Greaves, Transports have concluded their Senior Amateur Baseball League schedule. Only if the league leaders lose two of their remaining three games can they tie for first. And Greaves have not weakened at crucial times all season.

STRONG ATTACK

Strong hitting by Art Worth and George Fuller propelled Transports to Thursday night's victory. In the second ining Worth looped a single to left and Fuller drove a high liner off the wall to set up a sacrifice fly by Mike McAvoy and a clutch double by John McKeachie.

In the fifth frame the pair drove in three more runs with timely singles to knock Independents' pitcher Steve Bishop from the box.

Worth tied Greaves' backstop Bob Lumley for the R.B.I. leadership in the next inning, slamming a double off the right fielder's glove.

John Yankoski starred on the mound for Workers, winning his fifth game against no losses with a six-hit shutout. His control was superlative, he walked only one man.

Harvey Leads Women's Golf

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Gail Harvey of Toronto took the lead in the first round of the Canadian women's close golf championship Thursday with a three-over-par 78.

Miss Harvey, who won the women's close title with a 54-hole score of 215 last year in Calgary, was one stroke ahead of Mary Gay of Kitchener, Marlene Streit of Fonthill, Ont., and Kathryn Hueller of Toronto, all with 79.

They were the only ones in the field of 124 to break 80 on the difficult par-75 Westmount Golf and Country Club course.

Play in the close event, open to Canadians only, continues today with another 18 holes and ends with 18 more holes Saturday.

At the same time the Canadian junior women's championship is taking place, and two girls are tied for the lead here, both with 81. They are defending champion Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., and Helen Gagnon of Arvida, Que. The junior event also continues through Saturday.

At the same time, the senior team matches began with the final 18 holes also scheduled today. Defending champion Ontario, made up of Miss Harvey, Miss Post, Miss Hilton and Mrs. Cole, took a 12-stroke lead over second-place Saskatchewan. Ontario had a four-player score of 330 over the initial 18 holes. Saskatchewan followed with 342. After that came British Columbia 343, Quebec 353, Manitoba 359, Alberta 361, Nova Scotia 374, New Brunswick 378 and Prince Edward Island 395.

Hilton's Home Run Decisive

A pair of fine pitching performances highlighted the Vancouver Island Little League playoffs Thursday night.

Hampton defeated American 1-0 behind the 13-strikeout pitching of Dennis Eckhardt. Barry Hilton homered for Hampton to send Americans' Jim McKay to a hard-luck defeat. McKay fanned 11.

In other action, Esquimalt-Victoria West edged Layritz 1-0 while National pounded Cadboro Bay, 20-5.

Major League Attendances Show Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball is moving toward a record high in attendance for the second straight year, spurred by a boom in Houston and renewed interest in Cleveland.

This was disclosed in an Associated Press survey through games of Sunday, July 25. Overall attendance at the 20 big league ball parks shows an increase of 582,179, 4.4 per cent over last season.

The combined total for the National and American leagues is 13,767,476 compared to 13,185,297 in as many dates in 1964. The two circuits drew 21,280,341 altogether last year.

SYMPATHIES OF SORTS are extended Bob Potthast (centre) by tennis twins Maureen (on left) and Lindsay Watts of Vancouver. Top-seeded in men's singles, the six-four Californian, who also stars in football with University of Iowa, was upset by Portland's Jack Neer in B.C. Open championship play at Racquets Club Thursday.

Top-Seeded Potthast Upset by Portland Ace

Favorites, as Tom Dewey once said, don't always win.

Take Bob Potthast of Altadena, Calif.

He was ranked No. 1 in the B.C. Open tennis tournament at the Racquet Club.

Today he is a spectator in men's singles.

Potthast had his mast trimmed by sixth-seeded Jack Neer of Portland, Ore., Thursday. Scores were 6-8, 6-2, 6-4.

FACES YEOMANS

This put image-wrecker Neer into one half of the semifinals today. He meets John Yeomans of Los Angeles. Yeomans made the climb by turning back Ed Grubb of Santa Monica, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

In the other singles semis it will be Tom Meunch of Los Angeles and second-seeded Dick Leach of Altadena.

Meunch had to go to three sets before ousting Vancouver's Tony Bardsley 6-4, 6-8, 6-0. Leach took Dave Hopps of Seattle in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0.

In women's singles, top-seeded Pat North of Hawaii today meets Doris Popple, 6-2, 6-3, winner over fourth-seeded Liz Blackford of Seattle, in one semis today. In the other, former Victorian Sharon Whittaker tests Toni Alford of Hawaii.

Miss Whittaker and Bob Peskett, another former Victorian, pulled Thursday's second upset. They trimmed the third-seeded mixed doubles duo of Miss Alford and John Tidall of Van Nuys, Calif., 7-5, 7-5.

Today's late draw:

4:30—L. Blackford and S. Hopps vs J. Kaspari and T. Karp, B. Leach and B. Potthast vs winner, Yeomans-Peacock/Watson-Turville.

5:30—W. Cameron vs Dr. Crane, I. Hill vs J. Stalnaker, J. Bardsley vs R. Jorgenson.

6:30—D. McCormick and K. Greenwood vs J. Bardsley and Hoff, S. Whittaker and B. Peskett vs J. James and E. Turville, winner Knox-Crane vs winner Babson-Williamson.

7—M. Watts vs winner I. Hill-Stalnaker, L. Watts vs winner Jorgenson-Bardsley.

7:30—Woolfson vs winner Cameron-Crane.

FIGHT RESULTS

LOS ANGELES — Buckskin Jimmy Fields, 135, Compton, Calif., and Pulga Serrano, 140, Tijuana, Mex., drew, 10.

MATAMOROS, Mex. — Jorge Rosales, Guadalajara, Mexico, stopped Raymondo Battling Torres, Reynosa, Mexico, 3. (Mexican welterweight championship.)

Parker Unhinges Hamilton Tabbies

HAMILTON (UPI) — Jackie Parker, 33 years old and consigned to the defensive backfield, just might see more quarterback action this football season than coach Bob Shaw had figured.

Parker came in on offence in the fourth quarter Thursday after Lamar McHan, the ex-NFL veteran who is considered the first-string quarterback, had injured a leg.

AN OLD STORY

There wasn't much time left and Hamilton Tiger-Cats were leading Toronto Argonauts, 15-12. Parker went back to pass, couldn't find a receiver and so he promptly threaded his way 25 yards to give Argos an 18-15 upset victory.

A crowd of 9,000 fans watched as the Argos won the first of four exhibition games and Tiger-Cats lost for the second time in three. Argos had previously lost to B.C. Lions, Calgary and Edmonton while Hamilton had lost to Winnipeg and beaten Montreal.

With the Tiger-Cats having a look at the 53 players coach Jim Trimble has left, the Argos jumped into a 12-0 lead in the first quarter. Sherman Lewis got the first early on an 11-yard sweep and fullback Jim Vollenweider plunged four yards for the second.

TICATS RALLY

With Joe Zuger showing better at quarterback than Frank Cosentino, the Tiger-Cats came back to take the lead before Parker got the winning points.

They got a single point from Don Sutherin's wide field-goal try late in the second quarter. Then Ted Page, who came to Hamilton from Montreal in the trade for Bernie Faloney, ran 22 yards for a touchdown on the last play of the half.

GO AHEAD

Ticats went ahead midway through the third quarter when Zuger hit Tommy Grant with a 20-yard pass in the end zone and John Barrow made it 15-12 in the fourth quarter when he broke through to smear McHan for a safety touch.

Neither club managed to convert a touchdown.

Duncan Away Flying In Connie Mack Show

ARTHRITIC left elbow of Dodgers' Sandy Koufax flared up again Thursday during 4-1 loss to Cincinnati in National League baseball game. Team doctor said malady will not necessarily affect his next pitching start.

VANCOUVER (Special) — Duncan all-stars won their first game of the B.C. Connie Mack baseball tournament here last night, trouncing East Vancouver, 12-1 on the two-hit pitching of Jim Jubenville and Larry Paradis.

Earlier, Simon Fraser downed Kamloops and East Vancouver beat the host North Vancouver Burdettes.

Five teams are involved in the double-loss elimination tournament, the winner going on to the regional tournament Aug. 4-8 in Victoria.

Duncan plays its next game Saturday.

Once This:? Phils' Culp Now This:!

UP International

Righthander Ray Culp, whose pitching was a question mark earlier this season, has suddenly reached exclamation point status once again and the Philadelphia Phillies are all smiles.

Culp, you remember, was the National League's rookie pitcher of the year in 1963 when he won 14 games, compiled an earned run average of 2.97 and hurled five shutouts. The Phillies expected big things from him in 1964, but he developed arm trouble and was of little use to the team in its unsuccessful drive for the pennant.

The same trouble seemed to bother Culp early this season and he started only two games during the first two months of the campaign as the Phillies kicked around in the depths of the second division.

During the team's rise to pennant contention the past month, however, Culp has come along rapidly, but the sign the Phillies were looking for occurred Thursday night when he set back Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 on only two hits.

METS, CUBS SPLIT

In the only other National League action, the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader, the Cubs winning the nightcap 2-1 in 12 innings on a homer by Ron Santo after the Mets had romped to a 14-0 victory in the opener.

Culp's performance was his second straight complete game victory and upped his season's record to 7-6. The six-foot righty fanned 10 batters which helped to set a major league record for one game of 26 strikeouts by two teams. Southpaw Bob Veale struck out 14 in a losing effort and relief hurlers Al McBean and Frank Carpin fanned one each. The only hits Culp allowed were singles by Bill Virdon and Bob Bailey.

Santo's 22nd homer of the season off relief pitcher Larry Bearnarth came in the inning designated as the last one that could be played before darkness set in.

ROMANO WARMS UP

Chicago White Sox may yet get their full return on that big pre-season trade—if John Romano keeps hitting.

The trade, which sent Rocky Colavito back to Cleveland, sent Mike Hershberger and Jim Landis to Kansas City and brought Romano and pitcher Tommy John to Chicago, has worked out pretty well for the White Sox. John has been great in starting roles, but Romano, who was the key man as far as the Sox were concerned, has been a dud.

That is, he was a dud until recently when he started hitting the ball the way the White Sox had hoped he would at the beginning of the season. Injuries slowed him down considerably earlier in the campaign and his batting average is hovering near .240, but signs that he is on the upswing are becoming more apparent.

TIME TO REJOICE

Last Sunday the first signs appeared when he hit a grand-slam homer to lead the Sox to a victory over Detroit, but Thursday night he really gave the team reason for optimism as he banged two homers and drove in five runs to lead the White Sox to a 9-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

In the only other American League action, New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 7-3 and Boston Red Sox turned back Kansas City Athletics 6-4.

The victory for the White Sox was only their second in their last 11 games, and oddly enough, Romano's homers have been the margin of victory in both triumphs.

Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing

RED DEER (CP) — The promising swimmers Canada sent to the Olympics last year have been under steady pressure from new prospects during the first three days of the 1965 Canadian championships.

Backstroker Joey Weir of Toronto and freestyle specialist Jane Hughes of Vancouver were two of three Olympic team members defeated Thursday.

Miss Weir, 16, was ousted by Elaine Tanner, 14, of Vancouver, in the 200-metre backstroke. Miss Hughes, 17, lost in the 400-metre freestyle final to Louise Kennedy, 15, of London, Ont.

Another Olympian, Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., failed to qualify for the six-man final in the men's 200-metre backstroke although he won his preliminary heat without strain.

Nor was it a successful day for Victora swimmers.

GOLLMER SIXTH

Jim Gollmer placed sixth in the 11-12 100-metre butterfly final, with a time of 1:28.3. Winner Bill Kennedy of London, Ont., was clocked in 1:12.3

Monty Holding, with a time of 4:51.9, was ninth in the men's 400-metre freestyle heats, and failed to qualify. Grant Treloar also missed out in the men's 200-metre backstroke heats, with a time of 2:32.6 only good enough for ninth place.

Victoria Olympians placed fifth in the men's open 800-metre freestyle relay final with a time of 9:36.0. Vancouver YMCA won in 8:56.4.

However, the Olympians' 400-metre freestyle relay qualified for the final with a 9:35.6 clocking, compared to the fast time of 9:13.7 posted by Vancouver YMCA.

Competition continues today.

After the competition a 15-man swimming team will be selected to compete in Europe and in the British national championships.

FISHING REPORT

Tyee Showing Right on Time

Tyee salmon have read the calendar, and that seems to be one of the few bright spots on this week's fishing scene.

First tyee usually show up during the last week in July.

They're on time.

Early tyee have been reported in Nahmint Bay and China Creek and they're expecting the first one to be caught in Campbell River's famed pool "any day now."

Tyee fishing pressure has been extremely light, but will pick up when the Tyee Club season officially opens on Sunday.

* * *

Generally, the salt scene is rated from "spotty" to "fair."

Victoria's Gord Peters, fishing off the Gap, brought in a 33-pounder Thursday at Oak Bay. The pride of Pedder Bay Marina this week was a 42-pound spring weighed in by B. Robinson.

Perhaps the most consistent spot in South Vancouver Island waters is Pedder Bay. Although pinks and coho still appear to be scattered, more than 50 per cent of the boats returning to Pedder Bay Marina have salmon to weigh in.

* * *

Possibility of a good weekend in Saanich Inlet exists on the strength of impressive catches by Les Baker and Johnny Pagnotta.

Baker caught a 31-pounder out of Cole Bay Thursday evening while Pagnotta caught a 37-pound, six-ounce spring this morning.

Pagnotta's lunker, caught off McCurdy Point, is the largest salmon hauled out of Saanich Inlet this year.

* * *

Things are also picking up in Cowichan Bay.

Biggest fish of the season in Cowichan was landed today by local angler Danny Kroffat.

Mooching with a herring strip, he pulled in a 30-pound spring salmon. He had been out in his boat only 15 minutes.

Here, in brief, is a run-down of salmon-fishing prospects, as reported by boat-house operators:

Sooke-Otter Point—Fishing inconsistent and scattered catches of pinks (humpbacks) and coho reported.

Pedder and Beecher Bays — Fishing good with springs, pinks and coho all being caught. Pinks and coho, however, still seemed to be scattered.

Oak Bay—Prospects improving. Best coho fishing appears to be off Trial Island, especially during early-morning tide changes.

Deep Cove—Fishing "slow." Scattered coho showing in four to five-pound class.

Saanich Inlet—Abundance of feed in Inlet, and salmon fishing appears to be on upswing. Coho and jacksprings predominant around Willis Point to McKenzie Bay and along Bamberton shore. Guide boats limiting without difficulty at Deep Hole and near Stone House. Early morning or late evening fishing best. Weight necessary in most areas.

Cowichan Bay—Still on the slow side with fair returns around Sansum Narrows, Cherry Point good bet for coho.

Northwest Bay—Picking up after extremely slow week. Coho averaging nine pounds.

Qualicum Beach—Returns spotty with early morning producing best catches.

Campbell River—Relatively quiet but good coho fishing reported off Cape Mudge.

Nahmint Bay-China Creek—Early tyee starting to show.

Hot 66 Tops in 'T-Bird

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) —Pat Schwab, a relatively unknown club pro from West Orange, N.J., shot a spectacular 66, six under par, Thursday and grabbed the first-round lead in the Thunderbird golf classic.

Schwab had a one-stroke lead over a group of six that included Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Gene Littler.

Four others, including Arnold Palmer, were another stroke back at 68.

The 6,573-yard Westchester layout took a terrible beating, with more than 60 in the field of 147 beating or matching par 36-36—72.

Sharing the No. 2 spot with Nicklaus, Littler and Casper, are Rocky Thompson, Harold Kneece and Pete Brown.

Palmer, the slump-ridden slugger from Latrobe, Pa., had his troubles starting out but closed with an eagle three and joined Bobby Nichols, Bruce Crawford and James Walker Jr. at 68.

Gary Player, the South African who won the U.S. Open, was locked with a huge group at 69.

Toronto's George Knudson fired a two-under par 36-39—70.

Africans Too Much For Kent

CANTERBURY, England (Reuters)—Hostile bowling by Peter Pollock and a hat trick by Mike Macaulay helped the South African cricketers to a crushing win by an innings and 147 runs against Kent Thursday.

Kent, 17 for no wicket overnight in reply to the South African total of 365 for three declared, were skittled out for 74 by the pace bowlers in their first innings and were beaten with half an hour to spare at the end of the day.

Final scores: South Africans 365 for three declared; Kent 74 and 144.

Pollock, 24-year-old fast bowler, wrecked Kent's first innings with two devastating spells to finish with his best figures of the tour, five for 28.

Macaulay took the last three wickets of Kent's second innings for the first hat trick by the tourists. He finished with four for 22.

Other results:

At Lydney: No play Thursday in match between Gloucestershire and Yorkshire; rain. (Gloucestershire 87 and 6 for no wickets; Yorkshire 160.)

At Lords: Two-day match, Marlborough beat Rugby by 6 wickets; Rugby 202 for 9 declared and 204 for 7 declared; Marlborough 242 for 8 declared. clared.

CHURCHILL TO TEACH

Soccer Sessions Under Way Monday

This is holiday time . . . but not for minor soccer players and coaches.

They are expected to turn out like mosquitoes at the staff picnic next week at Mt. View High School grounds.

There they will be tutored in the fine points of the game by Trevor Churchill, a former English professional and graduate of England's soccer training school.

TWICE DAILY

Trevor and local assistant coaches will conduct two seminars daily from Aug. 2-6.

The morning session, from 10 a.m. until noon, will be devoted to juvenile players.

The evening session, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., will concentrate on coaching instruction and technique.

Attendees at the coaching clinic will be able to write for their Preliminary and Intermediate Coaching Awards. Before obtaining the latter, applicants must show proof of coaching experience or involvement in the game in such a capacity as referee.

Interested juvenile players and prospective coaches can obtain full information through Don Wakelyn, 3127 Cedar Hill Road, EV 4-5217, between 12 noon and 1 p.m. or 5 to 6 p.m. daily.

The clinics are sponsored by the B.C. Football Association Commission.

Victoria Girl Runs Aground At Vancouver

VANCOUVER — Theodora Booker of Victoria was beaten in the quarter-finals of the women's under-18 singles at the B.C. clay courts tennis tournament here Thursday, losing, 4-6, 2-6, to Marie Sidone of Pebble Beach, Calif.

In other quarter-finals, Nancy Green of Toronto downed Beverley Jennings of Klamath Falls, Ore., 6-3, 6-3; Bette Ann Grubb of Santa Monica beat Stephanie Green of Vancouver, 6-2, 6-2, and Sue Graham of Pasadena defeated Vicki Kiyumura of University of Southern California, 9-7, 6-3.

McLarens Maul Centurys Again

McLarens aren't easily impressed.
And Centurys are in trouble.

That's one side of the Senior Softball League playoff picture.

In the other semifinal, Sooke takes a one-game lead in their best-of-five series into the second game with Luckies at Heywood Avenue Park tonight at 6:45.

For Centurys, league leaders in regular play, the outlook is dim.

The odds favored them to erase McLarens, fourth-place finishers. But odds are for the gamblers only.

McLarens made it two straight Thursday, capitalizing on two Century errors and some well-timed hits to win 6-2.

Centurys must win the third game Sunday at Heywood at 2 p.m. or watch the rest of the playoffs as spectators.

They hardly looked like league kings Thursday.

BAD NIGHT FOR ROY

They gave up two runs in the third inning on a single, two passed balls, two errors and a steal of home plate.

Jim Wilson pushed the count to 4-0 in the fourth, lining a home run with a man on base.

Two more came in the fifth inning. League batting king Ron Brousseau whacked a triple to score Bob Lowe, who had singled. Brousseau followed Lowe home on Roy St. Denis' second error.

In the opening game Wednesday night, league-champion Duncan, blasted Mayfair 7-1.

No Animosity By Canadians To Knudson

TORONTO (UPI) — Canadian golf officials hold no animosity towards George Knudson for his decision to play in the American Professional Golfers' Association tournament rather than in the Canadian PGA next month.

In fact, golf spokesmen wish Knudson the best of luck in the U.S. tournament Aug. 12-15 at Laurel Valley Country Club in Ligonier, Pa.

Knudson, Canada's most successful golfer, qualified for the U.S. PGA by being one of the top 50 money winners in the U.S. in 1964.

Pat Fletcher, president of the Canadian PGA, said today: "It happens very rarely that a Canadian becomes eligible for the American PGA and if George does win, Canadian golf will prosper.

"We have a very big field lined up for our own championship and all of us wish Knudson the best of luck," Fletcher added.

Cookie Ends Grid Holdout

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Fullback Cookie Gilchrist ended his holdout with Denver Broncos of the American Football League Thursday.

A joint announcement by the management of the club and Gilchrist and his lawyer after a conference lasting until 2 a.m. said there would be no change in Cookie's contract and a fine of $100 a day for missing eight days of practice at the training camp here would stand.

Gilchrist, acquired by Denver from Buffalo at the end of last season, had signed for $37,500 annually plus a $5,000 annual bonus and other benefits.

The big fullback, who played with Hamilton, Saskatchewan and Toronto in the Canadian League came to Denver last Sunday and demanded that he be traded to Oakland of the AFL claiming the Broncos were going to play him "under suppression."

The Denver club countered with a $400,000 breach of contract suit.

Cookie said Thursday: "What's past is past. The present begins when I step out on the football field."

6,000,000,000,000 x 100,000; And That's Just Small Potatoes Today

By ROGER STONEBANKS

When you stand on top of Little Saanich Mountain you can see, as far as 140 miles on a clear day.

But peer through the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory's 72-inch telescope and you don't count miles anymore.

Distances then are measured in light years that stagger the imagination.

The observatory's director, Dr. R. M. Petrie, said the telescope is "only" able to view a few thousand light years beyond the sun.

How many miles equal one light year?

"Six million million miles is one light year," he said calmly.

Our galaxy alone is about 100,000 light years in diameter.

"We really have only just stepped next door," said Dr. Petrie.

The new Queen Elizabeth Observatory in the Okanagan, which should be running by 1973, will easily outstrip the present telescope's one galaxy reach.

There are at least 100 million other galaxies within reach of the new observatory's 150-inch telescope.

But the new observatory, on top of the 6,500-foot Mount Kolau, will not be a competitor with the Victoria one, completed in 1918.

EXTEND STUDIES

"The new telescope will assist us extend our studies," said Dr. Petrie.

"What I visualize is the new telescope and our's becoming a team. Jobs we can do will be done here, and jobs we can't do will be done by the bigger one.

"I see them as a unit, not in any sense as competing units. There is no question of Victoria versus Mount Kolau."

Dr. Petrie said the primary work at Victoria is to make observations of the stars for the purpose of studying their motion, distribution and distance, and to study the chemical composition and physical nature.

The information gathered is applied to studies of the organization and dynamics of our galaxy.

EXCHANGE INFORMATION

Plans are discussed and information exchanged among the few large telescopes in the world.

Some parts of Victoria's work have practical application, but most of it is to extend man's knowledge of his distant surroundings.

Some information is of practical value to industrial physicists because matter can be studied under conditions on the stars which cannot be duplicated on earth.

Astronomy aided greatly in the development of nuclear energy.

Dr. Petrie said the new observatory will open new fields for astronomers to work in, stimulate scientific work in Canada and provide work for the growing number of university graduates in astronomy.

Accused Mother Sobs As Testimony Given

A 25-year-old mother accused of killing her baby sobbed in court Thursday when a witness told of seeing cuts and bruises on the child before her death.

Mary Jean Bilton, formerly of Nanaimo, is charged with manslaughter. The body of her six-month-old daughter Kimberley, was found in Mrs. Bilton's bedroom early July 3.

At the time Mrs. Bilton was working as housekeeper for Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bley, 3138 Cook.

Mrs. Virginia Newcombe said she had acted as a babysitter for Kim while Mrs. Bilton went to Vancouver. Mrs. Newcombe said she noticed a scratch on the baby's nose and over her eye.

BLACK EYE

She said Mrs. Bilton told her that Kim had been scratched by a one-year-old baby. Mrs. Newcombe said that on another occasion when she was babysitting she saw the child's eye had been blackened and there was a bruise on her thigh.

Mrs. Bilton broke into tears as Mrs. Newcombe gave evidence.

Mr. Bley said Mrs. Bilton was hired as housekeeper by his wife and started work June 12. He last saw the baby June 18 when he and Mrs. Bley left for holidays.

When they returned they found the house in immaculate condition and the baby gone. Then, on the evening of July 2, while he and his wife were watching television, he became aware of an odor from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom.

He said he made three checks of Mrs. Bilton's room to discover the origin of the smell. He finally called city police and Constable Bruce Campbell arrived on the scene.

Constable Campbell discovered the baby dead in her cot in the bedroom.

The preliminary hearing was adjourned to Wednesday.

Dance Hall Application Up Again

A Saanich man who has had six applications for a dance hall turned down should know next week what will happen to his latest proposal.

Raymond Jalbert is seeking to rezone a 1.6-acre property on the west side of the 5300 block Cordova Bay Road for recreational use.

The application will be considered at a public hearing Tuesday night at the Saanich municipal hall.

He has had half a dozen applications in various locations turned down in the last few years.

The last refusal was for a site in the Quadra-Patricia Bay Highway area because of inadequate sewage disposal facilities and complaints from neighbors of possible noise.

The public hearing will also consider 13 other proposed zoning bylaws.

Sunshine is good for tans, tennis, radishes, colour movies, etc.

But not for beer.

Beermanship is the art of getting the most enjoyment out of your beer

Most Beermanshippers agree that there's nothing nicer than sitting out in the sun with a beer in your hand.

As long as the beer in your hand isn't directly in the sunshine.

Beer is delicate. It can get sunstroke, just like people can. (Even Molson Canadian, and it's the light beer that's all beer.)

So next time you're sitting in the sun, sipping and humming, you may have to move your beer an inch or two, into the shadow.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1965—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

The good dog dies but the breed goes on, and after more than two years of making do with cats, we have taken another Labrador retriever into our lives.

With the exception of one white hair on a chest which will some day be mighty, he is black as coal, or the ace of spades, or the deep of an overcast night.

He weighed an even 20 pounds on our bathroom scales this morning; a fair start, at two and a half months, toward the 75 or thereabouts which his snowshoe paws and heavy bone structure guarantee.

Today, he is all love and promise and tearing high spirits, making ferocious war on the family shoes one minute, licking faces the next with a lavish tongue. In a few months he will acquire a young working dog's dignity.

But the love will remain, and long before he has completed his transition from puppy to made dog, he will have picked his special person as Labradors do.

The name that goes with the noseprint on his papers is Mossbank's Black Lancer. Mossbank's for the kennels where he was bred, black for his coat, and Lancer by our choice.

He's Lance to us, except when the wheels of time spin for a moment in reverse, and one of our four calls him Paddy.

★ ★ ★

We didn't want another dog after we lost that fine and loving friend. There was, we agreed, in the rare times we talked about Paddy, enough heartache in a lifetime without taking on the certainty of more.

One afternoon late last week we were loafing in the shade when we heard a crackling which grew louder by the second. That sound, in this weather, demands a quick call to the fire department. The pumper arrived promptly, and with it, Saanich assistant fire chief Tom Moss, in a white shirt which somehow emerged spotless from a 10-minute tussle with the brisk grass fire across the road.

In the free hours his job allows him, Tom Moss raises a litter or two of retrievers each year. Labradors are his special fancy: the big blacks from Mossbank have proved their quality at many a Canadian and American field trial.

With grass flareups popping at the rate of five or more a day, Tom had no time for yarning about his dogs. Still, before he shoved off for the next bout of smoke-eating, he did invite us over for a look at a pup he was proud of.

★ ★ ★

We wouldn't, we couldn't. We were kneedeep in cats, we didn't want another dog . . .

It went on like that till dinnertime and past. Then, still protesting to each other, we set off in the car. After all, merely to visit friends who happened to raise dogs wasn't going to get us into anything!

Arrived, we stayed carefully away from the oak-shaded pens at the back of Tom and Molly Moss's spacious place on Cedar Hill Cross Road.

We talked about the big tree that had come down in a gale, brushing the back porch in its fall.

Tom's trial-seasoned Vanguard joined us, tail gently wagging. We discussed Van, and dogs in general. The pup was not mentioned.

Occasionally we heard shrill voices from the pens, demanding attention with youth's impatience. I found myself wondering which one belonged to that special pup.

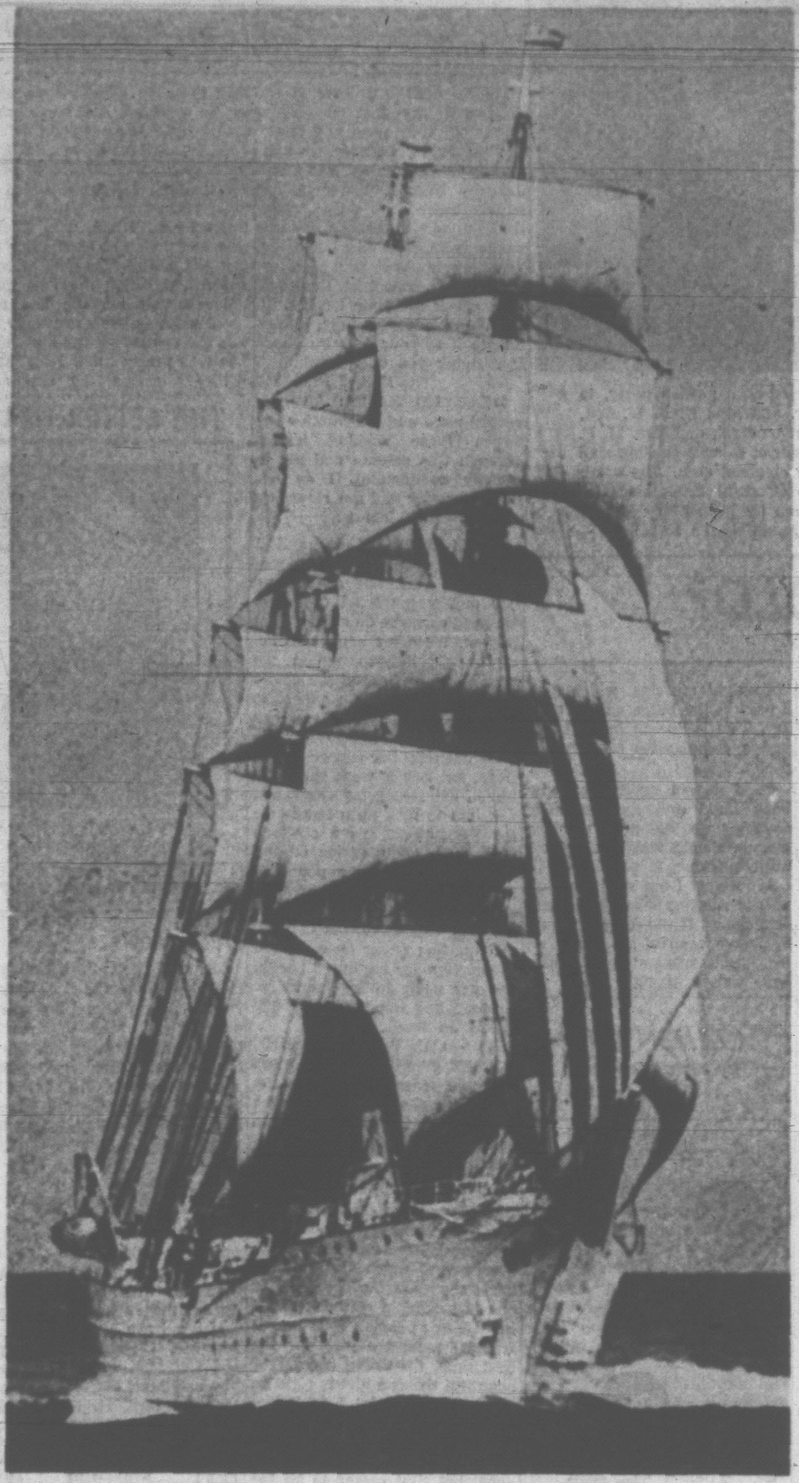
"Well," Tom said at length, very casually, "I'd better let the kids out for a run."

He jogged down, and opened a door. The sturdy black puppies tumbled out, all in a jumble.

They circled us in a boisterous dance, a walloping doggy rigadoon. One little black blundered against Win's ankles. He reared up, scrabbling with the webbed paws of his strong-swimming breed. His tail, which some day will be sleek-tapered as any otter's, flailed madly.

"That's him," Tom Moss told us, deadpan. "The one I mentioned."

The breed goes on though the good dog dies. We took Lance home that night; and if we have laid a well-loved ghost at the price of future sorrow, so be it.



EAGLE SPREADS WINGS

Square-rigged U.S. Coast Guard training barque Eagle could be off city waterfront Tuesday morning if time and conditions permit her to be rerouted. The three-masted vessel is due in Seattle at 1 p.m. that day. The German-built vessel is making her first state-side cruise to celebrate the U.S. Coast Guard's 175th anniversary. She is 295 feet long.

BOY STEALS PLATES, CAMOUFLAGES NEW CAR

Little Joy After Joy Ride Over

Richard J. Blackwood, 1336 Bay, climbed over a fence last Friday night and stole licence plates from an auto wrecker's yard.

Then the 17-year-old youth went looking for a car.

He found a 1965 model on a car dealer's lot, started it up and went joy-riding.

He was caught a few hours later after he had hidden the car in an orchard off Wilkinson Road.

This morning in city court he pleaded guilty to car theft and theft of the plates. Magistrate William Ostler remanded him to Aug. 6 for a presentence report.

City Detective Joseph Barlow said Blackwood put the car in an orchard in the 4500 block Wilkinson and then broke branches off the trees to cover it up.

Det. Barlow said there was $168 damage done to the car and $32 to the trees.

Fire Fighting Costs Soar Near Million

Crews on Red Alert With Worst to Come

With only half the season gone, forest fire fighting costs in B.C. today climbed near $1 million.

A B.C. Forest Service spokesman said the cumulative cost has reached $999,100, compared with $80,500 at the same time last year when poor weather kept fires to a minimum.

It cost $179,800 this week alone to extinguish 192 fires and bring the 200 still burning under control. More than 750 men are on the fire lines and crews of some 60 aircraft are on "red alert" standby for instantaneous manning of patrol and water bombing runs.

Forecast of more hot, sunny weather with virtually no dew at night promises that the worst is to come next week, the forest service said.

OPERATIONS CLOSED

On Vancouver Island, Crown Zellerbach closed its Comox logging division and MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. shut down its Northwest Bay operation near Nanaimo because of small fires and extreme hazards.

There were 64 new fires in Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island, in the past week and 26 are still burning, the forest service said in its weekly round-up.

EXTREME CAUTION

Sixteen of the new fires were caused by campers and smokers and forestry officials appealed for extreme caution in drought-hit Island woods.

Of eight new fires in Vancouver district overnight, two were at Courtenay and one at Alberni, but they were small and quickly extinguished. The largest Island fire, an 80-acre blaze near Campbell River, has been brought under control and the fire-fighting crew has been reduced from 76 to 60 men.

Sports Groups Hurl Challenge

Stadium supporters say they can whip Gorge supporters in any petition battle.

They say they can get 20,000 names in favor of a stadium as a Greater Victoria centennial project to counter the 1,492-name Gorge petition.

The claim comes late in the centennial project stakes, following a meeting Thursday at which a recommended project or projects was decided but kept secret.

"Members of organized sport in Greater Victoria are prepared to get at least 20,000 signatures on a petition favoring a stadium complex," said Gar Taylor, president of Victoria Amateur Baseball Association and a member of Centennial Stadium Committee.

He said baseball groups alone could provide 10,000 names and addresses of persons wanting a sports complex.

He said he realized the support comes late, but he said this was known to Victoria city authorities three weeks ago, who suggested that it be kept quiet.

Decision of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee is being kept secret until Monday.

Mr. Humber said that if general chairman Walter Dodsworth had been present Thursday night, as he normally is, and he had been in agreement, "then we might have announced the recommendation."

But Mr. Dodsworth said today he stayed deliberately away from the sub-committee meeting and would try to keep aloof from the recommendation until Monday.

"I have every confidence in that committee to make a reasonable suggestion to the general committee," Mr. Dodsworth said.

IMPARTIAL ABSENCE

"I felt I should not be at the meeting in order to remain impartial in my dual capacity as chairman and Oak Bay representative on the committee.

"I don't know what the recommendation is and I'm not going to try to find out until the meeting, which I will attend with an unbiased mind," the chairman said.

Meanwhile, organized supporters of a sports stadium complex as a centennial project are concerned that last-minute consideration of Gorge waterway improvements may swing the recommendation.

A community-wide poll conducted by the Times in co-operation with the centennial committee showed 603 votes in favor of the stadium complex, compared with 281 for a saltwater pool, the next-place choice.

But Gorge supporters in the last few days of the ballot drew out 359 votes for the Gorge, plus 1,492 signatures in petition form.

Record Building Month

A record value for Victoria city construction permits so far this year was totalled up today as a result of a booming month of July.

The city engineer's department said the seven-month value of new construction and repairs or renovations comes to $13,299,784 for 3,475 permits.

July alone racked up $4,024,414 in 531 permits, mostly for new commercial, light industrial and apartment construction.

Four apartment units drawn at random totalled $895,000 and there were $718,882 worth of renovations, an uncommonly high value.

Besides apartments, there were parking building additions, warehouses and commercial office buildings.

Cutter Coming

The 95-foot U.S. Coast Guard cutter Cape Florida will be in Victoria, Aug. 19-22, on a recreational visit for her crew.

The cutter, no stranger to Victorians, has one officer and 13 enlisted personnel under the command of Lt. D. R. Zwick.

Shopping Centre For Lake Hill?

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A shopping centre covering several acres is planned in the Lake Hill district of Saanich.

A public hearing Tuesday night will consider a change in zoning from light industrial to shopping centre for the site.

The applicant said the shopping centre will be an expansion of North Quadra Florists to include retail development.

Walter Large of Large and Company, chartered accountants, said the outside cost at the moment is $100,000 although if the full scope of the development is attained it will be "considerably" more than that.

The planned shopping centre is bounded by McKenzie and Borden and includes the unused end of a railway line.

L-SHAPED DESIGN

This would give the centre an L-shaped design fronting on two streets. Parking then likely would be at the rear.

Mr. Large said the scope of the development will not be determined until the rezoning application has been approved.

Development is contemplated in the next few months if approval is given.

North Quadra Florists, owned by Lloyd Park, was completed last December at a cost of $156,000.

The shopping centre likely will feature a food market and such other shops as a bank, drugstore and so on.

If the shopping centre is approved, it will be the fourth major devlopment in the area.

First was the B.C. Telphone building, followed by North Quadra Florists, and most recently the five-acre Slegg Bros.' retail and wholesale lumber store.

Room Prowlers Collect $450

Two guests were robbed of a total of $450 overnight Thursday by a room prowler at Imperial Inn, 1961 Douglas.

City police today are investigating the theft from rooms on the hotel's third and fourth floors. There was no sign of entry in either case.

H. Robert Densmore of Calgary lost $300 from his wallet. A Houston, Tex., man, Arthur G. Mallery, had $150 stolen.

The thefts were only discovered when the guests awoke this morning.

Ask The Times

Q. We recently moved to B.C. and my husband would like to become a qualified electrician. Where could we find out what is required and where he could take training at nights? F.B.

A. You can inquire about what is required and apprenticeship training from the department of labor at the legislative buildings.

The department of education also has a program of night school courses which go with the on-the-job training.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

FUTURE'S A BALL FOR TERRY . . .

WITH A CHAIN ATTACHED

Too Much Sun Can Have Strange Effect on Reporters

By TERRY IZZARD

To the city editor, Victoria Times:

I suppose you'll be wondering what happened to me.

Well, in case I'm still a member of the staff, I'd like to explain.

When I left the office this morning with orders to "do a weather story" I had every intention of following out those orders.

★ ★ ★

I hopped in my car and toddled around town for a while trying to think of some ideas.

You'll be amazed at the difference a bit of sunshine can make.

The young girls were prancing along sidewalks in their high-flying skirts; milkmen whistled as they breezed on their rounds; even the pigeons looked happy as they billed and cooed in Centennial Square.

Then I noticed a lone clerk sitting at his office window, scowling over a pile of accounts.

His brow was furrowed and the sweat was running in dribbles off the end of his nose.

That's when I thought of you and the boys at the office.

"What are they trying to prove," thought I.

"Sweating and complaining about the heat; working themselves into a frenzy to meet deadline; cussing and swearing at each other like a pack of discontented hyenas."

That's when I decided the life wasn't for me.

Without further ado I followed the birds to Willows Beach, stopping briefly to pick up a packet of popcorn.

★ ★ ★

I've no doubt you'll be wondering what the temperature is; if there've been any fires; how are ice-cream sales doing, etc.?

Well to tell you the truth, I don't know. And what's more, I don't care.

How could I when the sand is sifting through my toes and the cool Pacific breeze is fanning my sun-burned face.

If it wasn't too much trouble I could tell you how many people there are on the beach; or how many waves lap against the shore each minute.

Between you and me it's more fun watching the busty college girls vie for the beach boys' attention.

Everyone looks so cool in their skimpy bathing costumes, their already bronzed bodies soaking up the health-giving sun.

Contrary to office rules I've even taken off my shirt.

I've absolutely no intention of interviewing anyone anyhow. How could I when there's so much to live for?

★ ★ ★

By the way, this popcorn is good. It's a pity you can't be here to share it.

Come to that, it's a pity everyone can't be here. Then no one would want to read a paper and we could all take an extended vacation.

P.S.: Tell the office secretary to send my pay cheque on—that's if I have one.

P.P.S.: Don't call me — I'll call you.

(Mr. Izzard will assume his new duties as Port Hardy correspondent Monday. —Ed. note.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Summer Cook-Out Requires This as Lift

By Penny Saver

Whew! These last few days have been scorchers, haven't they? (Pretty soon they will be declaring it National Inertia Week—this type of heat seems to make everyone feel very lethargic and tired.) The hot sun has been driving everyone in our neighborhood out of doors and down the street where one of the neighbors has a swimming pool. Last night, when we were paddling about in the water, someone had the great idea of throwing a neighborhood party—everyone would bring their barbecue sets, if they have one, and cook the dinner outdoors and maybe do a little dancing afterwards.

Our family is going to have hamburgers and to this almost necessary summer meal, I have discovered some new additions to make it much more tasty.

How does piping hot barbecue sauce sound—dripping over an open-face hamburger? I've discovered a new type of sauce, already made, which has all the spices and herbs added for good flavor, with a few extra for an added tang of taste. Selling for 59 cents for a large jar, this is perfect to take along camping, to a picnic or any other type of cook-out.

As I was saying, this is delicious when simmered slightly and poured over a hamburger. Prepare the patties the regular way, and place on a halved bun which is coated with butter and mustard and topped with a slice of cheese. After you pour over the sauce, serve with a tossed green salad.

This is terrific when cooked with spare-ribs. Or, place portions of pre-tenderized round steaks in a pan of diluted sauce to which onions, green peppers and mushrooms have been added. Simmer until the steak has absorbed the sauce and serve with garlic bread.

By the way, here's a suggestion for a really cool summer salad. It's a new type of oil which is so light in texture that it keeps salads fresh and crisp all through the meal, without saturating the ingredients with a heavy oil taste or feeling.

Selling for 47 cents, this oil comes in an unbreakable plastic jar—and for your convenience, a measuring cup, which fits right onto the bottom, is an added feature.

Remember, Penny will tell you where to shop if you'll call her at 382-3131.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

How to Space Zipper

Dear Eunice:

When you are making a lapped-type zipper application, how far from the edge of the fabric should your machine stitching be?

Mrs. D.A.

Dear Mrs. D.A.:

The space from the edge of the fabric and the machine (or hand) stitching should be approximately one-half inch.

Dear Readers:

Make your own buttonhole twist when you can't find a matching color and need that extra-heavy thread for sewing on buttons, hand-picking, hand-stitching zippers, etc. Use your regular thread in the bobbin and the top of your machine and thread in the normal way. Lower the presser-foot of machine, take hold of both ends of thread, hold behind the presser-foot and stitch as you would for regular sewing. Gently pull your new twisted thread from the machine. It is silky smooth, never tangles and is very strong. Best of all, it always matches each garment!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. Is it true that you can straighten your own hair at home with a special treatment?

A. I know of no such treatment. The experts I have asked about the hair straightening process have all said that it is successful, but must be done by an operator who really knows what he is doing.

Lowman

Q. I am 5 feet 1½ and weigh 112 pounds. I know I am overweight but how much? I have trouble sticking to a diet.

A. I think you must have been eating very sensibly because your weight is exactly right for your height and build. It's amazing how some of you slim gals think you are overweight!

Q. Is there anything I can do to get rid of freckles? Please don't say no.

A. I am sure that you have noticed that your freckles fade somewhat during winter months. They become darker and new ones appear when you are out in the summer sun a lot. Therefore, do what you can to protect your skin when outdoors. Use one of the screening lotions or creams and wear a hat which shades your face whenever possible.

Diluted lemon juice is mildly bleaching and some of the creams on the market are too. Of course you can hide the freckles with makeup when you wish to do so for special occasions.

Q. I have sent away for some isometric exercises. Now I hear that they aren't any good. Is this true?

A. Isometric exercises are of great value. However, they do not take the place of the other kind of exercise. They build muscle strength and are slimming in that they take up the slack in lax muscles, such as the abdominal muscles, which play a part in the bulge on the tummy. This is due to lax muscles and a combination of fatty deposits.

Q. I do not understand why bony build and muscles have anything to do with what a woman should weigh. It's fat I want to lose.

A. Right! I am sure that you do not want to lose your bones or muscles. If you did, you would be just a heap of something on the floor. Bones and muscles also have weight, though.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Questions—No Answers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have it on good authority that a certain girl in our town went to a home for unwed mothers in another city from September 1963 until January 1964. I further understand that she went there through your suggestion and arrangements. How can I find out whether she kept her baby or not? This is important. Enclosed is a check for your trouble. If you do not accept money, please donate it to your favorite charity. Thank you very much.

NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: All correspondence and information between those seeking help through this column and me is strictly confidential. I do not accept money and am returning your generous check.

DEAR ABBY: Doug and I haven't been married very long. We both work but are saving our money for a lot of things we need so we're on a very tight budget. We don't believe in accepting invitations unless we pay back, and when we invite people for supper we expect to furnish the eats. Well, Doug has a married sister who is very generous with her supper invitations, but this is what she does. She'll call Doug at work and ask him to pick up a few items for the supper. It's a six-pack of beer, a quart of ice cream, some potato chips, a pound of butter or some coffee or something like that. These items are not very expensive, but they all add up. She never once offered to pay him for anything. Should we quit going to her house for supper? She must think money grows on trees.

CAN'T AFFORD HER

DEAR CAN'T: Money doesn't grow on trees, but lemons do. And you picked one for a sister-in-law. Let Doug tell her you can't afford her kind of hospitality.

DEAR ABBY: What is the matter with people? We have two daughters, two years apart, who are both now in their teens. One is very much prettier than her sister, and the not-so-pretty one is getting a complex about it. When people (our adult friends) meet the girls for the first time, they rave about how beautiful the one girl is right in front of both girls! I don't like the idea of telling our friends beforehand not to make any comparisons in the girls' presence, but that seems to be the only answer. How can this be tactfully done? Or would it be too insulting to instruct people as to what to say and what not to say when meeting your children?

TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you have any doubts about the judgment of your adult (?) friends before introducing them to your children, forewarn your friends. Those who have more sense than to make comparisons will not be offended. And those who haven't should be tipped off.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the worst predicament of my life. First of all, let me say that I am stationed at an army base. I wrote two letters last week. One to my wife and the other to my girl friend. Last night my girl friend called me long distance to tell me she had recived a letter from me—only it was the one meant for my wife. She was pretty mad. I had unwittingly gotten the two addresses reversed. I am going home on leave in a few days. What do you suggest I do if my wife reacts the way I think she will?

WRONG WAY WILSON

DEAR WRONG WAY: Duck!

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Leaving Victoria Saturday at noon for Vancouver, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Barclay and their daughter, Alison, are looking forward to the trip through the Rocky Mountains. "We saw them from up above when we flew from New York to Vancouver on the way to Victoria," says Mrs. Barclay. "It would be nice to see them from the other angle, too!"

Greeted By Skirl of Pipes

RECEIVE ROYAL WELCOME

By DINA STEWART

"It's probably the first and the last time I'll ever be treated like royalty!"

This is the laughing comment of Miss Alison Barclay when she speaks of the reception she and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Barclay, received when they arrived in Victoria Saturday.

When the Barclays landed at the airport, greeting them was pipe Maj. Peter George, pipes a'skirling, and their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross, carrying a red carpet.

"All the others at the airport thought it quite funny," remembers Mr. Ross. "We walked past the gate, out to the runway, rolled the red carpet up to the plane and pipe major George piped them down the steps . . . much to the consternation of the airport staff!"

"It was so funny," laughs Alison, "everyone was goggling at us!"

The Barclays are visiting in the Jamaica Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross for a week, before continuing on to Vancouver and a trip through the Rocky mountains.

At home in Edinburgh, Scotland, Dr. Barclay is associated with the department of adult education and extra-mural studies at the University of Edinburgh. "This is the equivalent of an extension department in a Canadian university," he explains. "It's our job to study adult education, how they learn and determine the subject best for them."

For years, Dr. Barclay has been a regular contributor on historical subjects for newspapers and magazines. His talents have preceded him to Canada — the book "Edinburgh" is now available here. It's a nonfiction study of the history and historical figures of the Scottish capital.

Mrs. Barclay is also a well-known figure in Edinburgh—many children know her as Margaret Barclay of "Nature's Scrapbook," a children's nature program heard monthly over the British Broadcasting Company's radio network.

"I interview experts on nature subjects," she says. "Our programs are taped from all over the country—at the seashore, on a farm—it gives the program real atmosphere."

Mrs. Barclay has a not-too-secret ambition to go into the television medium. "I'll do anything voluntary — production or whatever—to do with television," she admits.

"I'm extremely interested in helping with a new series of Scottish kirk films—recording news and reports on church work all over the world."

She's quite involved in voluntary work already — she helps with old age pensioners, attending the ward church services in old people's homes and hospitals, singing hymns and encouraging the older folk to do the same.

Alison, 13, has a flair for writing like her father and has written several short stories, which she admits she hasn't had published. "But," said her mother, "when Alison was in France for her Easter holidays this year, she wrote a letter telling of her experiences to a radio station and portions were read out over the air.

"Although the program has stopped for the summer, if it is resumed in the fall, the producers would like another letter from Alison, telling of her experiences in British Columbia."

Although they've only been here since Saturday and are leaving again this weekend, the Barclays have seen quite a bit of the city and are planning, if their itinerary is any proof, to see much more. "We're here for a holiday," laughs Dr. Barclay, "and, believe me, we're going to see everything we can!"

Dr. Barclay was wearing a kilt while being interviewed—one made of his family tartan of beautiful subdued greens, blues and greys. "This is a tartan made in the ancient way—using the ancient vegetable dyes which give such soft color. I almost always wear a kilt when I'm away or on holidays—here in Victoria, I've already had a few wolf whistles!"

Bohan Shows Ostrich Cowl Hoods And Brown Hen Feather Jackets

PARIS (UPI)—The House of Christian Dior firmly put the waistline back in business Thursday with belts, cummerbunds and more fitted suits.

While the waist has been hidden by loose jackets and shifts for years, Dior designer Marc Bohan's winter collections featured medium wide belts on coats, on suits with long jackets, and even on cocktail dresses.

Many cocktail dresses had wide cummerbunds that showed more waist than Paris has seen for seasons.

Bohan kept hemlines where they were last season — just grazing the top of the knee.

The Dior salon was cluttered with hoods and feathers.

Models paraded in ostrich cowl hoods and tricky feathered hats.

Two jackets were made of brown guinea hen feathers and the packed salon of fashion journalists applauded a floor-length black feather coat.

In addition to the belted waistlines, Bohan's two other main shapes were tunic dresses and a lot of back drapery on cocktail and evening dresses.

In fact, most of his party clothes were designed for exits rather than entrances.

Except for the straight tunics, the evening wear was draped heavily in back and decorated with bows.

Some dresses even had odd-looking bustle effects.

More fullness was another theme of the quietly received Dior show.

Short two-third-length coats had full sleeves and billowing backs. Suit skirts had straight lines, but they were softly gathered in the front and back.

Many cocktail dresses had skirts so full they were almost dirndls. The fullness was cinched in at the waist with satin belts or sashes.

The skinny models wore heavy bangs to the eyebrows—a popular hairdo in many other of this season's Paris fashion shows.

Two of the girls had weird-looking "cat's eyes" make-up, with bright red lipstick, white powder and heavily outlined eyes. The lower eye lashes were painted right on to the face of one girl.

For evening they pinned false hair pieces on to their short hair that looked like American Indian war bonnets or the head-pieces worn by Greek warriors.

The only other major showing scheduled for Thursday was postponed by veteran designer Gabrielle Chanel until today.

Salon sources indicated that the grand old designer was still ripping apart her models and just couldn't get ready for her scheduled showing time.

Pink and White Setting For Nickolchuk-Webb Vows

Pink and white gladioli were at the altar of St. Joseph's Church when Fr. M. T. O'Connell heard marriage vows exchanged between Marguerite Rose Webb and Larry Alvin Nickolchuk recently.

Parents of the principals are Mrs. Marguerite I. Webb, 2090 Shakespeare Street, and Mr. and Mrs. John Nickolchuk of Erickson, B.C. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Alfred Robert Webb.

Organist was Mrs. H. Schild and Toni Burkart was soloist.

Re-embroidered lace appliques encircled the waistline of the floor-length faille gown worn by the bride. The softly-pleated skirt was styled with a bustle at the back. Her veil of illusion net misted from a floral rosette and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink rapture roses.

Maid of honor Miss Jill Marsh and bridesmaids, the Misses Terry Skinner and Michaele Prior all wore gowns of blue sheer nylon over taffeta. They complemented their ensembles with floral head-pieces en tone and bouquets of pale pink gladioli.

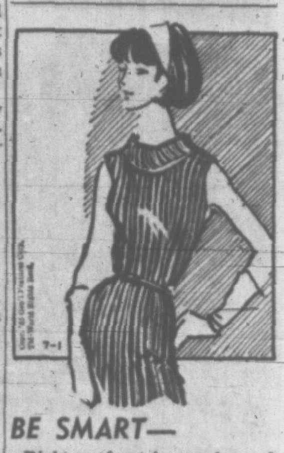
Best man was David Flaig. Ushering guests to their pews were Tom Birkenhead and Ernie Webb.

Miniature figures of a bride and groom, doves and swans topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception following in Holyrood House. Pink roses and white and pink chrysanthemums completed table decorations.

J. D. Kenyon proposed the toast to his niece.

Following a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, the couple will make their home at the Executive House.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Nickolchuk chose a pale pink two-piece suit, accented with pink and white accessories and a corsage of red roses en tone.



BE SMART—

Right up front in any ice-cool collection is this cowl-necked spun rayon shift, its sticks of white striping a fresh contrast against blue or black, and, of course, very easy to care for during the long (well, it seems long, anyway) hot summer.

GUARDIANSHIP CROSSES RELIGIOUS LINES

Orphans Object of International Attention

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Three Chatham orphans have become the subject of a guardianship dispute that crosses religious lines and has attracted the attention of the United States and Canadian governments.

Centre of attention are Bonnie, 13, Mark, 11, and Paul, 6, children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lowrie. Mr. Lowrie, a Chatham businessman, died Jan. 6. His wife predeceased him by four years. Both were Roman Catholics.

The children are living in Dayton, Tenn., with Mrs. Homer Britton, an aunt on the father's side. Mrs. Britton is a Baptist and married to a minister affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention.

The Brittons say the children will be permitted to choose their own denomination.

Mrs. Britton took the children home with her after attending her brother's funeral in Chatham. A day later she received an order from Judge Ed Rice of Dayton permitting her to keep the children.

WANT THEM BACK

Meanwhile the maternal relatives who live in the Chatham area, applied to the Canadian external affairs department to have the children returned to Canada.

The relatives, Bernard Girard and Mrs. Clifford Rivard, are an aunt and uncle on the mother's side and are Roman Catholics.

They say the children should be returned to Canada to be raised in the Catholic religion of their parents and united, if not in the same household, at least in the same area as their older brothers, John Jr., 17, and David, 15.

In Washington, Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee sponsored a bill to make legal the admission to the U.S. of the Lowrie orphans. The bill has been referred to a Senate judiciary committee where it could linger for months, be allowed to die or be passed with speed.

Mr. Lowrey left a will leaving custody of the children to his only brother. Earl Lowrey. The brother died of a heart attack five days later without leaving a will.

British Press Hails Victory by Wilson On Censure Motion

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson won praise from Britain's Conservative press today for a fighting defence in the House of Commons that ended in defeat for a Conservative censure motion.

"He triumphed through sheer dominance of the House and through a dialectical sense of occasion in which at the moment he seems to be unrivalled," says The Daily Telegraph.

The Daily Mail likens Wilson's performance to "the Harlem Globe-trotters playing a scratch team of schoolgirls."

The Conservative motion charged the government with failing to honor its election pledges. With Liberal party help, the Laborites mustered 306 votes to 285.

Wilson denied the charge, noting that Labor had introduced 65 bills in its nine months in office compared with two brought in by the Conservatives in their first post-war year in power.

Leftist Laborites, dismayed by the government's belt-tightening economic measures, watered down a motion of criticism they plan to press at a caucus Monday of the party's MPs.

The debate Thursday night marked the first appearance of Edward Heath in the Commons as the Conservative party's new leader, He held his fire for a major economic debate Monday when he will ask for a vote of no confidence in the government.

REDS WOULD BOLSTER CANADA TIES—KOSYGIN

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told a group of Canadian parliamentarians Thursday that the United States decision to boost its force in Viet Nam will "only aggravate" the situation there.

Kosygin's comments about Viet Nam were mild, and contained no reference to the American bombardment of Communist anti - aircraft missile sites near Hanoi Tuesday.

The sites are believed to have been manned at least in part by Soviet personnel.

Kosygin said President Johnson's announcement of a major increase in American military strength in Viet Nam indicated the U.S. intends to "escalate the conflict."

"Such a solution will only aggravate the situation and increase tension," he said.

The Soviet premier said he is "very unhappy" about the international situation which is of "great concern to us all."

All progressive forces must unite to "do away with the situation in Viet Nam."

The 14-man Canadian delegation left today for Prague, ending a visit to the Soviet Union that began July 19.

The Canadians were seen off by Jan Peive, chairman of the Soviet of Nationalities of the Supreme Soviet, Sergei Romanovky, chairman of the state committee for cultural links with foreign countries, and Canadian interim Charge d'Affaires J. Brown. They left from Vnukovo Airport near Moscow.

ATTEND RECEPTION

Before meeting Kosygin, the parliamentarians were guests at a gala reception at a government dacha in Lenin Hills, overlooking Moscow. The reception was given by the Supreme Soviet, the U.S.S.R.'s parliament, at whose invitiation the Canadians came to this country.

The half-hour meeting took place in the premier's office. Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton and Senator David Croll, co-chairmen of the Canadian delegation, expressed appreciation for the reception that the parliamentarians have received in the U.S.S.R.

Kosygin told the delegation the Soviet Union has much to learn from Canada, particularly in agriculture. The Soviet Union wanted to strengthen political ties with Canada.

Referring to heavy Soviet purchases of Canadian wheat in recent years, he said: "We bought lots of bread from you because we had to. Now we want to see political relations improve."

Other members of the delegation are Conservative House Leader Michael Starr, Senator John Hnatyshyn (PC-Saskatoon, Liberal members of Parliament G. Roy McWilliam (Northumberland - Miramichi), Donald S. McDonald (Rosedale - Toronto), Alexandre Cyr (Gaspe), and Conservative members Ken More (Regina City) and Terry Nugent (Edmonton - Strathcona).

Also taking part are T. C. Douglas leader of the New Democratic Party, Creditiste Leader Real Caouette and Horace Olson, Social Credit MP for Medicine Hat.

DEVELOPMENT IN U.K.

Single Wave Tube Beams 2,000 Shows

LONDON (Reuters)—A team of British scientists today claimed development of new methods of long-distance communications with a simple device able to carry 1,000,000 telephone calls or 2,000 television programs.

The London University scientists, led by Professor H. E. M. Barlow, told of their researches in the scientific journal Discovery.

Present co-axial cables and radio beaming systems were unable to provide for the enormous expansion of communications needed in the 20th Century, Barlow said. The only alternative — called wave - guides—could go only in dead straight lines.

Waveguides are tubes through which wave signals can be transmitted in safe isolation from the interruption of other waves, but when the waves try to round a bend they pile up and interrupt the conversation or program.

Barlow said his team found that a corrugated tube of brass, of narrower diameter than the straight lengths of wave guides, enabled the waves to pass around easily and suppressed interfering cross waves.

Bendable waveguides would make their use possible generally, in cities and across the variable topography between them, and eventually across oceans as well. This would permit such an extension of Telex services that commercial letters by post could become extinct.

It could also permit an enormous extension of closed-circuit television and of telephone services, he said.

Doctors Issue Contraceptive Pill Warnings

LONDON (Reuters) — British doctors today issued three new warnings about contraceptive pills.

A Manchester specialist reported finding increased quantities of a substance called factor seven, which may make a woman more liable to thrombosis, in the blood of 40 women taking the pills.

A family doctor also reported that one of his patients—a 29-year-old woman — developed thrombosis in one leg and one arm although she had no history of blood-clotting tendencies.

And the British Medical Journal warned that the pill might cause a big increase in veneral disease in Britain since it encourages extra-marital and promiscuous sexual activity.

BRAND NEW AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER Sandy Mayhew can't seem to lose at anything these days. Three weeks ago she won an Instamatic 100 camera at a bingo game. She turned around and shot this week's People of the World category winner in the Times sponsored amateur snapshot contest—with her first roll of film. The 22-year-old student clipped her favorite 2½-year-old nephew Derek Sitar in summer frolics at Beacon Hill Park for her spontaneous-action picture. She receives $10 and a chance at the big money in the final $50,000 competition.

'Bit of a Tomboy' Top Student; Of B.C.'s Best From City Area

Thirteen of the provinces' 33 top high school graduates this year were from Vancouver Island with eight of them registered in Greater Victoria schools, it was announced Thursday.

Esquimalt Secondary School claimed three, Victoria Secondary produced two and Oak Bay Secondary, University Hill Secondary and Mount View Secondary graduated one each of the students with a 90 per cent or better average.

British Columbia's top grade 12 student of 1964-65 is a Nanaimo girl with a yen to become a university lecturer in English or French, Susan Jane Mackenzie.

Her average of 95.25 per cent was best in the province among university candidates writing provincial departmental exams last June. She wins the Governor-General's silver medal.

No bookworm, Susan last term was a member of Nanaimo Senior Secondary School girls' grass hockey and volleyball teams.

WORKING IN STORE

This summer the applicant for University of B.C. is working as a sales clerk in a variety store.

Lone girl among three brothers, she described herself Thursday as "a bit of a tomboy for awhile."

Asked how she felt about being top student in B.C., she replied: "I still don't believe it."

Susan, whose father is office manager for Brian Bell and Co., Nanaimo, was recently awarded a $2,000 Crown Zellerbach Scholarship.

Bronze medal went to Katharine Lynn Keen, of Vancouver, who achieved a 94 per cent average.

William Robert Green, of Chemainus Secondary School, and Jaqueline Judith Kennedy, of New Westminster, tied for third place with a 93.5 per cent standing.

Mark Horne, of Oak Bay Secondary, and Daniel Richard Worsley, of Esquimalt Secondary, were part of a three-way tie for seventh rank with a 92 per cent average.

Eighth was Eileen Laura Cavers, of Alberni District Secondary, with 91.75 per cent. Close behind, at 91.5 per cent, was Julie Rae Goodwin of Victoria Secondary who was part of another three-way tie.

A five-student tie for 10th ranking with 91.25 per cent included Alan Benjamin Hughes, of Esquimalt Secondary, Susan Bates, and Alice June Siddall, both of Alberni District Secondary.

Eleventh place fell to the mainland and one of two in the 12th rank with 90.75 per cent was Stephen Norman Sullivan, of Esquimalt Secondary.

Also involved in tie combinations were: Theo Quayle Dombrowski, of Alberni District Secondary, with 90.25 per cent; and Barrie Douglas Turnham, of Mount View Secondary, with 90 per cent.

All winners of the government scholarships will be announced later.

Soviet Embassy Denies Planes Promised Show

OTTAWA (CP)—An official at the Russian Embassy denied today that the Soviet Union has promised to send two aircraft to the air show Aug. 14-15 in Abbotsford, B.C.

"There has been no commitment whatsoever," the official said in an interview, "We merely have asked for more details as to the terms of participation and the nature of the show itself."

Pat Murphy, a member of the local organizing committee, said in Abbotsford Thursday that the Soviet Embassy here had sent the committee a telegram saying Russia would send a turbo jet and a helicopter to the show.

N. Saanich Votes On Incorporation

Property owners in North Saanich vote Saturday whether they want the rural district incorporated as a district municipality.

Some 2,100 owners of real property are entitled to vote, said returning officer Gordon Blair.

Polling will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. at McTavish Road Elementary School and Deep Cove Elementary School. A 60 per cent yes vote is needed for the change.

"I hope there will be a good turnout and not the apathy in the school vote," said Dr. A. B. Nash, chairman of the North Saanich Advisory Planning Commission.

"It is our hope that regardless of how they vote, people will vote in large numbers."

In the school vote, which gained approval of spending $1.8 million, only 11 per cent of property owners bothered to vote.

Coinciding with Saturday's incorporation voting will be a ballot for the vacant seat on Saanich School District board of trustees.

The vote is to fill the vacancy from the rural area of the school district, which is North Saanich.

Two candidates are seeking election—John Kennaird, an employee of B.C. Hydro, and housewife Mrs. Rubymay Parrott.

Both have lived in the district most of their lives and are raising families.

Coho Landings At B.C. Ports Hit High Level

Salmon landings at Victoria, Vancouver and Steveston continued at a high level last week with 871,000 pounds of coho leading the pack.

Last year during the same week 703,000 pounds of coho were landed at the three ports.

Mixed springs were also up with 209,000 pounds landed as compared with 154,000 pounds during the same week a year ago. Pinks were down to 25,000 pounds as compared with 65,000 pounds but the sockeye catch doubled from 12,000 pounds to 24,000 pounds.

Prices for gillnet springs at Steveston ranged from 35 cents to 45 cents per pound for red springs and averaged 20 cents per pound for white springs.

DOWN AT RUPERT

At Prince Rupert landings were down sharply from a year ago.

Red springs totalling 86,000 pounds were landed as compared with 126,000 pounds during the same week last year. White springs were down to 12,000 pounds from 24,000 pounds; coho dropped to 602,000 as compared with 1,349,000 and pinks were down to 63,000 pounds from 225,000 pounds last year.

Halibut landings were also down at Rupert with 1,2844,000 pounds landed last week as compared with 1,477,000 pounds last year.

Evidence Overwhelming

National Probe Urged On 'Saucer' Reports

A University of Victoria professor, Dr. Max Edwards, Thursday called for a "national investigation" of flying saucer reports.

The linguistics' teacher, who studies UFOs (unidentified flying objects) as a hobby, said the evidence pointing to the existence of "intelligently-controlled machines from other parts" is overwhelming.

He said it is time the entire subject was investigated.

He said there have been numerous sightings of UFOs by intelligent and honest people. Radar has detected the the presence of UFOs over certain areas of the world.

"There are many theories advanced in order to justify the objects' existence or unreality," the professor said.

"But they are theories."

The professor said reports from "flashing shields" through the skies date back from before the Roman Empire. The latest came Wednesday from Spokane, Wash.

Garden Apartment Proposed

A new garden apartment development may appear near Oak Bay Junction.

A development firm, Edca Holding Ltd., has asked Victoria city council to request a study by the advisory planning commission.

The site covers about four acres on a crest of land overlooking the junction, Oak Bay, San Juan Islands, Mount Baker, Mount Tolmie and Mount Douglas.

It is on Begbie between Belmont and Fern and includes Fernwood House, dwelling place of a pioneer family and erected in 1860.

Tentative plan is to restore the building and make use of it as a recreation centre for the surrounding garden apartment development.

An earlier plan by a different company was to demolish the house and erect a seven-storey apartment block.

Four-Ton Namu Faces Career As 'High Jumping' Acrobat

SEATTLE (CP) — Namu, the world's only captive killer whale, faces a new career as a four-ton acrobat.

Veteran marine animal trainer Homer Snow said Thursday he believes he is well on the way to a workable rapport with the black, 22-foot sea mammal.

He said Namu will ultimately be trained for high jumping, ball-balancing and ring-catching.

But he won't start training Namu until the excitement of the killer whale's recent arrival in Seattle settles down.

Mr. Snow said Namu is the most exciting thing that has happened to him in 35 years of training sea animals.

"I spent three days alone with Namu at Namu, B.C., before we started towing him down the coast," said Mr. Snow.

"I got a tremendous reaction from the whale. A bond developed between use."

But there will be none of the bareback riding Mr. Snow has demonstrated with trained porpoises, in spite of the rapport.

"I intend to treat him with the utmost respect," said Mr. Snow. "He isn't called a killer whale for nothing."

Namu was bought by the Seattle Aquarium for $8,000 July 8 after two fishermen from Namu, B.C., trapped the animal in gillnets near the mouth of the fishing village's harbor, 280 miles upcoast from Vancouver.

City to Shake With Bagpipe Skirl Tonight

Downtown Victoria will resound to the skirl of bagpipes tonight as the Seattle Boys Pipe Band march through town on an official errand.

The 20-boy band with pipe major Jack Ironside is in town to take part in the Highland Games at MacDonald Park Saturday.

At 7:30 p.m. today they will deliver a letter of greeting from the city of Seattle to the city of Victoria on the front lawn of the Empress Hotel.

They will march from the Hudson's Bay Co. down Douglas St. to the Causeway.

On hand to receive them will be Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the reception and entertainment committee, representing the city.

Highland dancers from local dancing schools will then give a display on the lawn.

Boys from the pipe band will be billeted with local residents over the weekend.

Amateur Actor Going 'Pro' In Rank Film

Blain Fairman, former Victoria radio announcer and award-winning amateur actor who moved to Vancouver this summer in the first step toward entering the theatre professionally, has made a longer stride than he expected.

Playing under Tom Kerr's direction in Billy Liar at the Metro Theatre, Vancouver, he caught the eye of a group representing the Rank film organizaiton, which has auditioned actors in Toronto and Vancouver.

Result is he has been signed to play opposite Rita Tushingham in Deep Is the Forest which the British organization plans to make at Hollyburn Studios in Vancouver.

NEW BAND

Roosters To Feature The Blues

A new teen-age rhythm and blues band will make its professional debut tonight to the twang of guitars and the thumping beat of drums.

"The Little Red Roosters," a group formed by three teen-age guitarists and a drummer, will play for the first time in public at the Shelbourne shopping plaza at 7:30.

The Roosters are the only rhythm and blues band in Victoria — "the only one on the Island, for that matter" — says manager Brad Williams, 18.

STRAIGHT BEAT

Rhythm and blues, he explained, is a "straight beat" in the music, as in the Beatles' "Roll Over Beethoven," as compared to rock and roll whose pace varies.

Three members of the group, Norm and Dave MacPherson and Ed Wright, are students at Mount Douglas High School, while John Fisher and manager Brad are graduates of the same school, and will attend University of Victoria this fall.

The group has been rehearsing during the winter and especially in the last few days. It has already played at several private functions.

Their next engagement is in a "battle of the bands" Aug. 28 at Colwood shopping plaza.

Watchdog Laws On Pakistan Press Suspended

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) —Pakistan is to suspend its watchdog laws over the country's press for one year, President Ayub Khan announced in Rawalpindi Thursday.

The laws, known as the press and publication ordinance, gave the government the power to suspend newspapers and printing presses for various offences, including those listed under Pakistan's security laws.

A government spokesman here said the decision to suspend the ordinance followed the adoption by an editors' meeting in Rawalpindi Wednesday of a code of press ethics.

FERTILITY DRUG

More Multiple Births Expected

LONDON (AP) — Women in at least five countries are reported to have become pregnant after taking the fertility drug used on the two women who gave birth to quintuplets this week. Multiple births appear likely in a number of the cases.

Four of the five quintuplets born Thursday to a Swedish woman died within a few hours. The survivor was a girl. The Swedish quints were 11 weeks premature and weighed between two pounds and two pounds, 10 ounces. The mother's identity has not been announced.

The boy and four girls born three days ago to Mrs. Samuel Lawson in Auckland, New Zealand, were reported "just fine" today. They were seven weeks premature and weighed between three pounds, three ounces and four pounds, three ounces.

Both women had been given a pituitary hormone extract developed in Sweden and known in some countries as gonadotrophin. Injected into the bloodstream, it aids some infertile women who normally are unable to ovulate, or produce an egg cell. A number of multiple births have resulted.

Several New Zealand women are pregnant after taking the treatment. Some have been warned that they may have more than one baby. But their doctors at the National Women's hospital do not expect more than triplets.

The hormone treatment also is being given to women in the United States, Britain and Australia.

ONE HAD QUADS

An infertility clinic in New York reported that 15 of the 21 women treated had conceived, seven had given birth so far, and four had multiple births. One, Mrs. Martin Brecker of New York, had quadruplets.

A similar ratio of multiple births was reported by the Swedish doctor who developed the treatment, Prof. Carl - Axel Gemzell, 54, of Uppsala University. He said 50 of 100 women he treated became pregnant and 25 gave birth to twins or triplets.

A Melbourne, Australia, doctor reported that he has been using the drug since April, 1963. He said seven previously childless wives had conceived and two had twins.

A British experiment in the use of the drug is being conducted by Birmingham University's department of obstetrics and by the government-sponsored Medical Research Council. The department said it had treated 24 previously infertile women. Ten now had babies—twins in two cases—and six others are pregnant.

One dose of the drug costs about $1,400. The cost of the trials is borne by the Medical Research Council.

The drug also has been administered at hospitals in London, Edinburgh and Newcastle.

Shortage Of Dentists Claimed Critical

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada faces a critical shortage of dentists, a unversity professor claims in a report sprinkled with some acid comments about dental associations, vocational training schools and anti-fluoridation leaders.

Dr. Bruce McFarlane, chairman of the sociology department at Ottawa's Carleton University, found that Canada placed 14th in a study of 20 countries in its ratio of dentists to total population.

His study also showed "a serious maldistribution of dentists" across Canada, with British Columbia having one for every 2,406 persons compared to Newfoundland's one dentist for every 10,648 residents.

Dr. McFarlane carried out his study for the Hall royal commission on health services. He released a resume of his findings today.

A-Bomb Expert Dies

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Dr. Alvin C. Graves, 55, who helped develop the first atomic bomb and later was a supervisor of nearly all U.S. atomic and hydrogen bomb tests, died Thursday at Del Norte, Colo., hospital officials at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory announced.

Quebec Prison Escape Leads To Suspensions

QUEBEC (CP)—Justice Minister Claude Wagner announced the suspensions of 13 officials Thursday following a prison escape in the morning.

Among the suspended are Sheriff Antoine Bourget and Governor Eugene Letourneau of Quebec Jail. Mr. Wagner told the legislature the Quebec Provincial Police will take charge of the prison under Insp. Gerard Timlin.

Clovis Dufresne, serving a sentence of seven years for armed robberies, escaped from the prison by cutting through the bars of his cell with a hacksaw and scaling a 20-foot wall.

Mr. Wagner described Dufresne, who was held in the Quebec prison since last November to testify at a trial, as a dangerous prisoner.

Others suspended were Assistant Governor Aime Pettigrew; Sgts. Lucien Girard, Gerard Guay and Romeo Belanger and prison guards Maurice Belleau, Lionel Otis, Omer Francis, Paul Larose, Reginald Gagne, Jean-Claude Verreault and Marc Godin.

EARLIER ESCAPE

Mr. Wagner said they will remain suspended until an inquiry is completed under Dr. Maurice Gauthier, Quebec prison authority.

The justice minister referred to the June 3 escape of Emilien Cote, 34, and Antoine Levasseur, 25, who escaped from the prison after sawing through their cell bars and going over the wall with the help of garbage cans. Both men were subsequently caught.

Governor Letourneau was stabbed in the spring of 1964 by Leopold Dion during an escape attempt.

Grain To Set Record With Sunshine, Luck

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sunny skies and frost-free nights are needed by Prairie farmers to produce a wheat crop that could shatter all previous records.

A grain official in Winnipeg says prospects for this year's wheat crop are "fantastic—it is in a class by itself."

But W. G. Malaher, research director for the Searle Grain Co., warns the crop isn't money in the bank yet.

The most widespread hazard is frost because crops are 10 days to two weeks late.

"It will be a miracle if frost is avoided entirely," he says.

But there have been guarded predictions that, if all goes well, this year's crop will exceed the 1963 record of 703,000,000 bushels.

With the nagging prospect of possible frost in the background the most urgent need across the Prairies is sunshine—lots of it.

Mr. Malaher says August normally is a warm, dry month and this type of weather is urgently needed by Manitoba farmers.

VIET NAM SEARCH

Wife Lives on Rumors That Husband Alive

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Jeanne Dawson doesn't know if she's a widow—but she tries not to think like one.

She lives on "unconfirmed reports" which drift like the mist out of the jungles of Viet Nam.

The reports concern the whereabouts of her husband, Donald, 25, a civilian who flew to Saigon eight months ago to start a lonely search for the body of his brother, Army Lieut. Daniel L. Dawson, a pilot shot down in the jungle last November.

In April, Dawson headed into the Viet Cong-controlled D Zone north of Saigon to meet guerrilla leaders who had said they would take him to his brother's grave. He took with him a 21-year-old Eurasian girl, Collette Emberger, to act as interpreter. Neither returned, but an unconfirmed report reached Saigon Wednesday that both were seen in a D zone village early this month.

"While the children realize where he is, I don't think it sinks in," said Jeanne, 27.

LAST WORD IN APRIL

As she talks she often repeats the phrase: "I'm sure he's alive." She last heard from him April 28.

She spends more time with the four children now. They range in age from four to nine. When Dawson left last fall she had to work nights in a bar while her mother-in-law stayed with the children.

"Now I have a new job," said Jeanne. "My aunt has come to stay with the children, and I'm able to spend nights and weekends with them."

She says she has a hard time trying to explain to them why their father is in Vie Nam.

"I don't think it was a smart thing for him to do. I saw why he wanted to do it, but I couldn't sway him as did the government."

Trail Hospital Imports Nurses As 12 Resign

TRAIL (CP) — The Trail-Tadanac hospital is recruiting in Formosa and the Philippines for staff to fill vacancies created by the resignation of 12 nurses.

Rita Ball, director of nursing, said Wednesday night that under the program the department of immigration will pay air fares to Canada and the nurses will pay the department back through long-term salary deductions.

Five of the 12 vacancies have been filled.

A medical-staff report to the hospital board Wednesday night criticized the hospital administration for lack of foresight in failing to anticipate the resignatjons.

Dr. H. B. Dimock, chairman of the medical staff executive, said there had been a smouldering discontent among nurses for some time.

The hospital has had to close 22 surgical beds until September.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

Ann-Margaret Has a Yen for Pink

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK—Ernest Borgnine's closest chums predict that he and his bride will soon announce plans to start a family immediately. Ernie is a phenomenon, even for Hollywood; the nation knows him as a film and TV star, but in character parts, not as a great lover like Rock Hudson or Marcello Mastrioanni. But he seems to be even more devastating with the dames than the gorgeous guys. His on-and-off romance with Katy Jurado—they were engaged, they weren't, they were, they married, they fought and they parted bitterly—was a veritable saga; and his tempestuous five-week long marriage to Ethel Merman caused considerable comment from the announcement (which very few people believed) to the divorce papers . . . Ann-Margaret, who is staying in Denver for a whole three weeks while "Stagecoach" is being filmed there, demanded that her hotel suite be painted pink before she moved in. She also "requested" 20th Century-Fox to supply her with a pink motor scooter. The studio went along blithely, giving her everything she wanted, because she's doing the movie on an old contract and they figure it's a major victory just to get her highness to report to the set.

TV mystery: There's no mention of Frank Sinatra on the July 29 "Girl Talk" taping, which features Mia Farrow. Maybe because Frank becomes very annoyed when he is linked in print with Mia—his reason being that his family is upset over the reports. Odd that they weren't similarly upset when he married Ava Gardner, was supposed to be engaged to Juliet Prowse and Lauren Bacall, and dated all kinds of ladies in betwen. Mia's a lovely girl; most chaps would be delighted to be known as her beau . . . Leslie Caron and Warren Beatty haven't merged yet, but some of their fan clubs hame. The stars were just notified officially that the Leslie Caron Fan Club of Sandusky, Ohio, and the Warren Beatty Fan Club of Cincinnati now are operating as one.

Not for the CIA: It's rumored that a strange "unindentified" force has gathered in the mountains in Haiti, near the border of the Dominican Republic . . . Comedienne Phyllis Diller, who has been married for so many years everyone assumed it was permanent, is about to sek a divorce . . . Bobby Darin's recording of "Hello, Dolly!" is the top seller in the Philippines. And to show how truly world-wide the musical has become, director Gower Champion and his wife, Marge, discover on their recent vacation that the Greeks refer to the hit as "Yassu, Kula!"

When Liza Minnelli's show, "Flora, the Red Menace," posted its closing notice, those who had read the critics' reviews didn't know whether to laugh or cry. So many had over-rated the production, and even predicted Liza would have a long, long run on Broadway . . . Jack Benny's Beverly Hills house is up for sale if you like that neighborhood and have $425,000 handy . . . New York, New York, is a wonderful town. A Greenwich Village book store has a sign in its window reading: "Sit-In Schedules Supplied on Request."

★ ★ ★

Bud Powell's French wife, Buttercup, left her popular club in St. Germain des Pres and jetted to the U.S. to be at the bedside of the jazz pianist. Bud is still on the critical list at Brooklyn's Cumberland Hospital . . . Romy Schneider is now officially betrothed to German film director Harry Meyen, who obviously has ben gone on her for the past two months. Romy accepted his proposal in Salzberg; and tells friends the wedding will take place in December or January. Harry is a little bit married, but expects to be free to say "I do" at the Yuletide.

★ ★ ★

A writer with the by-line of Lewis Lapham had better get ready to move fast as soon as his controversial article appears in the Saturday Evening Post. We never give away a plot, but the White House isn't going to be ecstatic over this one . . . Quote from designer Jean Louis: "I think it's all right for a woman to depart from the conventional, but she should also delight in avoiding the bizarre. Anything entirely out of keeping with her sense of best fashion should be avoided." Translation: Pay no attention to Courreges.

Adlai Stevenson's intimate friends wonder if he had a premonition of death. Before he left for London, he complained of being tired and that the constant wrangling over disarmament, Vietnam and Santo Domigo was a great burden on him. When a friend asked when he expected to return, Ambassador Stevenson replied prophetially, "If I survive this trip, I'll be back in three weeks."

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

South really bid a lot with his 13 high card points. Many players would have been satisfied with a game contract in view of his very weak suit and poor distribution. South actually made some effort to get to seven and settled for six grudgingly after he found that two kings were missing.

When he saw the dummy, South rather wished that he had stopped at game but there he was at six and he sure needed to hold his trump losses to one trick.

East dropped the ten of trumps under South's ace and South led a second trump toward dummy. West followed low. South played low from dummy also and when East had to play the king South was able to take the rest of the tricks.

"Horseshoes" groaned East. "What a silly way to play the hand!"

East was entitled to groan, but South had made the best possible play. When East played the ten spot and West the seven and eight, it was certain that East had started with a singleton ten; a doubleton jack-ten; a doubleton king-ten; or king-jack-ten.

There was no way to handle the first or last combination. Against doubleton jack-ten, the queen play would be the winner; against doubleton king-ten the actual play won.

Why was the duck correct? The principle of restricted choice explains why. With king-ten, East was restricted to the ten spot play; with jack-ten he might well have played the jack. Hence it was twice as likely to hold king-ten and the duck play was twice as likely to win as the queen play.

A brochure, including copies of the last three years statements is available to interested parties. A clear title property, but excellent terms can be arranged: e.g., reasonable down payment plus home or revenue will be considered and balance carried by way of agreement from vendor. We repeat that ill health has created this excellent value and we do not believe you could beat this opportunity offered now at the FULL PRICE OF ONLY

NOW OPEN FOR INSPECTION
Live here and spend your vacation at home. The owner of this sand and sea resort lodge is unable to operate this year because of pressure of business in Edmonton. He came into our office and said—SELL! He and his family have had tremendous enjoyment of this select property for the past 10 years and he regrets having to make this decision to sell. He has no delusions of grandeur regarding value; as a result, this prime beachfront property is bargained for immediate sale. Accommodates 50 guests (in lodge and cottages) plus a 4-bedroom, 2-bathroom residence. Hurry, before he changes his mind. Unbelievable at only $70,000. Free and easy terms. Open for your inspection now—so hurry over! An exclusive listing. L. E. KIRK, EV 5-6741, Northwestern Securities Ltd.

SPECTACULAR

3 BATHROOMS
This near-new property is no doubt the most exciting and fabulously different home that I've had the pleasure to offer to the public. From the minute you arrive in the double carport across the slate entrance with its fish pool, you have that feeling of excitement which you so seldom get. Just one step and you are in the spacious entrance hall; from here you enter the beautiful living room with extra large open fireplace with two feature lights. Large, large windows give you an unsurpassed 180 degree view of the ocean and distant islands, a view that you will never lose. A separate, formal dining room that is a dream. The cabinet kitchen is no doubt, the most lovely I've ever seen with large view dining area, dodles of cabinets, built-in dishwasher, garborator, etc., etc., etc. This you'll have to see to appreciate. Master bedroom designed for double beds with a fabulous full bath en-suite. This bath is equipped with large vanity, colored fixtures, bathtub, separate stall shower and two heat lamps, double exhaust fans. The second bedroom on this level is also a dream with another four-piece bath en-suite. An open stairwell takes you to the lower level, with a fantastic laundry room equipped for washer-dryer. Two more good sized bedrooms on this level. A further four-piece bath, one room designed for a Sauna bath and wired for such. Large rumpus with floor to ceiling fireplace, not finished but not much required to finish. This home is equipped with electronic air filters, prewired in bedrooms, living room, kitchen for both stereo and T.V. Full sundeck around house with sliding glass doors from master bedroom, living room and kitchen. Much, much more is featured in this home and I could ramble on and on, but why not, if you are in the position to afford this type of property, let me show you. You just wouldn't turn it down. By appointment only. Full price—and it's priced well — Only $45,000. To view this exclusive listing just dial 385-6741 anytime.

New concepts in television engineering techniques, and an important display of new TV equipment, will bring TV engineers from all parts of the world to the 98th Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers (SMPTE) Technical Conference and Equipment Exhibit in Montreal, Oct. 31 to Nov. 5.

International discussion of some of the critical problems confronting TV industry will be a major feature.

In the transmission field, reports will be presented on color TV in Europe before and since the recent conference in Vienna, new UHF (ultra-high frequency) transmitter design, and on cable distribution of UHF sigals.

Engineers from the CBC will discuss automatic video switching and some of CBC's quality control procedures. CFCF-TV, Montreal, will describe their operational experience with vidicon cameras, and other equipment papers from six countries will include new cameras, electron beam recorders, monitors, color slide scanners, up to complete mobile units and new studio designs.

The lobbies and conference rooms in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel will not be safe to the layman. Technicians have a language all of their own, however the equipment on display should be more than an eye-catcher to those of non-technical knowledge.

Almost every country in the world with factories producing electronic equipment will have their products on display.

GORDON HEAD An Entrancing Property Embracing 1.25 Acres

Combining features beyond the compass of advertising space, and offered for the first time due to owner's transfer, this property, developed over ten years, is the result of the patience and careful thought of a perfectionist. The home, set in an orchard, is long, low and appealing, with separate large two-car garage. The essential living theme is planked mahogany panelling (not pre-fabricated wallboard), providing an artistic living room with selected brick built floor to ceiling fireplace, and offset 14x14 dining room. Three bedrooms and unusually generous closet space. The entrance hall is unique and inviting. Kitchen and bathroom are commensurate. The full basement provides large rumpus, den and spacious, cabineted, fully plumbed laundry, plus a man's dream of a workshop. The land, meticulously maintained, offers partial orchard, with experimental fruit and nut trees, a large enjoyment area with built-in barbecue plus about ¼ acre in raspberries for which there is an assured annual income. Because of its specialized features, this home can only be seen by appointment — a "drive-by" will not help you at all. This property will appeal to a purchaser who loves the land but also desires a very gracious home. The asking price is only $33,500. For full information and inspection, please phone Mr. Simpson, 384-8126, res. 385-7869.

Finnish Fun: Get Steamed Up Then Go Jump in Frozen Lake

By ROD CURRIE

TAMPERE, Finland (CP)—For a proper Finnish bath take: One log hut, heated to about 250 degrees Fahrenheit; one lake and a bar of soap. Garnish with birch twigs (optional).

Follow with at least one good, stiff drink.

If the lake happens to be frozen, and you aren't a Finn, you'd better have a drink before, too. Otherwise, summon up all the tenacity—the Finns call it "sisu"—you can muster.

The dunk through the ice isn't as painful as you'd expect. But because you don't know this until after you've taken the plunge, you still need lots of "sisu."

Basically the Finnish sauna bath involves sitting in a hot, lightly steamed room until you are warm, relaxed and perspiring freely. Then you have a good scrub down and go jump in the lake.

The Finns are nuts about it and have been for 1,000 years or more. It is said there are well over 500,000 private saunas in Finland—about one for every four or five people in southern areas—as well as countless public saunas.

In the city saunas the hot stones on which water is splashed to produce the steam are usually electrically heated and a cold shower substitutes for the lake plunge. Finns consider this a poor substitute for the log cabin sauna by the lake, a must at every summer cottage.

GUESTS PLUNGE IN

For the real sauna snob it is hard to beat the city-owned setup amid snow and pines a few miles outside Tampere, used mainly for entertaining visiting VIPs. Because the Finns think nothing of suggesting to a newly arrived dignitary that he take a bath, the facilities have been enjoyed by kings, presidents and other heads of state.

There, guests are ushered into a large wood-panelled room complete with floor-to-ceiling windows draped in colorful homespun, fur rugs and a massive fireplace.

Out back is the sauna hut, its walls smoke-blackened and the air fragrant with the smell of burning logs and green birch.

Ah, yes, those birch twigs. Well, these are made into whisks and used, if you're so inclined, to beat yourself to stimulate the circulation and the cleansing flow of perspiration.

Then it's tiptoe down the snow-covered bank to the hole in the ice, or a cold shower, before you are rewarded with a drink, taken rather ceremoniously while seated before the roaring fire bundled up in a thick, blanket-size towel.

BEHAVIOR IS PROBLEM

For the timid newcomer there is always the haunting worry of just what constitutes good sauna etiquette. One travel book says sternly, and without elaboration, "In the sauna one must act as if one is in the sauna, or get out," which isn't much help.

But an old Finnish proverb says, "In the sauna one must conduct oneself as one would in church." Admittedly, it's a little difficult to achieve an air of pious dignity, sitting there in the nude like that, but still this description is nearer the mark since the Finns like to lounge in meditative silence while they sweat. Loud talk, singing or whistling is certainly frowned upon.

For all the spreading popularity of the sauna, its fascination still escapes many visitors—as it had for centuries. Way back in 1100, when the Russian Missionary St. Andrew travelled through Finland to Rome, he wrote a long, detailed description of the sauna.

"They go of their own free will," he noted rather incredulously, "and not at all to torture themselves."

. . . PEACE BID

carrying out the 1954 Geneva agreements.

Goldberg told reporters after a 90-minute talk with Thant Wednesday that the U.S. favored a new Geneva conference. But any talk of a cease-fire was academic at this stage, he said, since there was no agreement to negotiate.

U.S. DISMISSED MOVE

The United States politely dismissed a move by Thant last March to open negotiations for a Viet Nam peace agreement. A state department spokesman said Washington was still awaiting some indication that the Communists were ready to "stop the aggression."

Despite the U.S. brushoff, Thant expressed determination to push his peace campaign. A spokesman said at the time Thant had in mind a conference of North and South Viet Nam, Red China, the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Later Red China and North Viet Nam said they would not welcome a visit by the secretary-general.

In Manila, Philippine Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez indicated his government might propose that the UN set up an organization for Viet Nam similar to the UN commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea.

British Prime Minister Wilson, author of the abortive Commonwealth effort to arrange peace negotiations, said in a television interview in London Thursday night that he planned to continue his peace efforts. But he acknowledged this is difficult since the North Vietnamese "think they are winning."

VETERAN U.S. foreign service officer Aaron R. Coleman has been appointed to the Vancouver office of the U.S. Consul General. He will assume duties of deputy principal officer and chief of economic affairs. He arrived this week from the American embassy in Paris where he was chief of the passport and citizenship office.

POSTAL STRIKE

56,000 persons, 22,000 of whom are postal workers.

Judge Anderson's appointment came in the wake of a strike of postal workers that began July 22 in Montreal and Vancouver and spread rapidly until more than 70 per cent of the postal workers had left their jobs, including those in Toronto who voted Thursday to return to work.

Post office officials in Ottawa said today postal stations across the country are back to normal except for Montreal and 20 others in the immediate area involving 5,583 striking employees.

The issues that touched off the strike began several month ago.

Civil service association leaders, including the Postal Workers' Brotherhood, began discussing pay increases with the civil service commission and finally the treasury board, a cabinet committee headed by Finance Minister Gordon.

The brotherhood represents not only the postal employees' and letter carriers' associations but also the Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Association (CLC).

SUGGEST PAY BOOSTS

The commission recommended pay increases of $300 annually for letter carriers, raising them to a maximum of $4,680, and an increase of $360 for most sorters, bringing them to a top of $5,040. The treasury board agreed to these amounts.

However, postal workers in Montreal and Vancouver refused to accept the offer and went on strike, which by last Tuesday had spread to 75 centres. Repeated calls by national brotherhood officers to wait for further negotiations with the government went unheeded.

The return to work movement began Tuesday after brotherhood leaders agreed to wait for Judge Anderson's report and government reaction to it.

While Montreal decided to stay on strike at a mass meeting that produced a unanimous vote Tuesday, Vancouver voted to return to work. Other centres, including Toronto, followed.

The Toronto decision, carried by 1,857 to 347 votes, reversed a vote taken Wednesday and left Montreal as the last major strikebound centre.

Postmen in the Windsor area, followed the Toronto lead within hours.

Postmen here, who received their pay cheques Thursday, remain confident in their course of action.

They have the backing of the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions. Both groups have said they are prepared to offer practical as well as moral support.

RCMP Find Body Of Missing Man

TRAIL (CP)—The body of a Vancouver salesman, missing since Saturday was found on Thursday 70 feet down a steep embankment of the Blueberry-Paulson Highway.

RCMP said Garry Nelson Wright, 43, apparently was thrown from his car and crushed by the vehicle.

An employee of a trailer sales firm in Vancouver, Wright failed to keep an appointment in Castlegar Saturday night.

$16,000 Bank Theft

MONTREAL (CP)—Two men escaped with $16,000 in cash, cheques and bonds Thursday night when they broke into a branch of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank and held five employees at bay.

$350 Holiday Fund Lost To Purse Thief

A sneak thief stole a purse containing $150 cash and two $100 bonds in a downtown store Thursday night.

The purse belonged to Mrs. Annie Griffin, 4046 Douglas, who is leaving Saturday on vacation. She left the purse at Woolworth's soda fountain and it was gone when she went back to pick it up.

A reward is offered for the return of the purse. Arrangements for its return may be made by telephoning GR 9-3492.

Liquor Stocks Now Housed In Vancouver

The seven-storey building at Fort and Wharf ends a 44-year career today as the whisky warehouse of the province.

Liquor Control Board chairman Col. Donald McGugan today said the building, which has been a liquor warehouse since the board's creation in 1921, has been turned over to the public works department which is responsible for government buildings.

No liquor stocks have to be moved because they have been diverted to the board's Vancouver warehouse for more than a month. Most of the warehouse employees have been absorbed in other operations here but several will move to the lower mainland, Col. McGugan said.

Marijuana Grows Wild

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—RCMP discovered marijuana growing in profusion in an eight-acre field near Windsor's eastern limits. They ruled out the possibility the plants were grown intentionally as they were scattered over a wide area. The plants were destroyed.

CABINET CORRECTS MISTAKE

The provincial cabinet today rectified a mistake by ordering return of $6,910 to the estate of a man committed to Essondale.

The cabinet order said the man, charged with murder, was committed to the mental hospital 13 years ago and it wasn't discovered until last March that his estate was being billed regularly for his full maintenance in the hospital.

By statute, maintenance costs for mental patients are limited to $1.50 a day.

Steel Strike Likely

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The executive board of the United Steelworkers of America met today to review the progress of basic steel contract talks in the United States.

Indications were the board would recommend to the union's wage policy committee that a 30-day strike notice be served on the industry.

The 163-member policy committee was to meet later in the day.

Union sources said the industry had made a last-ditch offer of about 11 cents an hour in order to head off strike notice that would create a crisis atmosphere and further upset an edgy steel market.

Under an interim contract that averted a strike May 1, either side is free to serve 30 days notice of termination on or after Aug. 1. That would make midnight Aug. 30 the earliest possible date for the first steel strike in the U.S. since 1959.

The union seeks about 18 cents an hour in wage and benefit increases in a three-year contract. Steelworkers earn an average of $4.40 an hour in wages and benefits.

MRS. DIXON BUILDS CONFIDENCE

Start Them Easy, Start Them Right

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

"If the water holds me up, it will hold them up, too.

As she said it, the gray-haired lady in a black bathing suit jumped into the pool and splashed her way across.

Following her, a dozen little swimmers made their way across the Kiwanis wading pool at Central Park.

Clambering out, Mrs. Kay Dixon watched her six-to-eight-year-old charges flail happily around in the water.

"They're unafraid," she said with a smile. "That's the advantage of teaching them in a paddling pool."

KNOW THE RULES

Holding a swim class in the pool "every sunny afternoon," Mrs. Dixon, who is also park supervisor, is concerned that her pupils not only like the water, but also know the rules about it.

And on most days the roped-off end of the pool is filled with eager tots.

Some are water-shy, but most are the splash-happy ones, too young for the weekly parks-sponsored classes at the Crystal Garden, which their older brothers and sisters attend.

Mrs. Dixon, who also teaches the Crystal classes twice a week, says her youngsters are at a better age to learn than the older children.

CLASS AT CRYSTAL

"The other day," she recalls, "I had a class of 24 beginners at the Crystal."

"They were afraid to get their feet off the bottom, and afraid to get their faces wet."

A dark-haired little boy of about seven went whooping into the pool.

"I used to teach the 'afraid' class of adults at the Y," Mrs. Dixon recalled.

"I didn't learn to swim myself until I was 51," she said with a smile. "So I know what it's like to panic."

'LAND DRILL'

Making sure her youngsters don't panic in the water, Mrs. Dixon leads them through a "land drill" before each pool session, when she teaches them basic water safety rules and the "buddy" system.

"And if they don't take part in the land drill, we just exclude them in the pool," she said firmly.

"Do we ever go in the water alone?" she asked the group of youngsters during the drill.

"No," they chorused.

"Why not?"

"Because we might drown," lisped a plump, blonde six-year-old.

Together they started doing exercises with flailing arms and Watching, Mrs. Dixon looked down at her plain black bathing suit with the small instructor's badge sewn on.

"None of these 26 dollar bathing suits for me," she said with a smile. "I got this for 39 cents at the Goodwill.

"After all," she added, "It's what a person can do in a swimsuit that counts."

legs.

'FLOAT THE BOAT'

Back in the pool she urged them on.

"Come on, now. Float the boat.

"Now add the propeller at the back."

A dozen pairs of legs started churning water frantically, and splashing up and down the pool.

Father Trunk will be 95 Sept. 1.

This month he sang mass in San Francisco's Church of the Nativity to celebrate his 70 years in the priesthood.

Father Trunk also smokes cigars, preferring butts held by a toothpick.

"Half cigars are the best," he said in an interview. "They don't get sour and yet they get all the nicotine."

ANDY ANSWERS, GIVES BOOKS

Busy Girl 'Asks' Winner

A 10-year-old girl who is captain of the Chinese Lions Drill Team today was awarded a set of World Book Encyclopedia for a question submitted to Ask Andy in the Times.

Leslie Ann Lee asked the question: "Why does volcanic magma move upwards." It is answered in the column below.

"I have written four questions to Ask Andy," she said. "But I didn't think for a moment I would win a prize."

'A' STUDENT

A cheerful girl who takes a lively interest in school work, Leslie this year passed into Grade V at Uplands School. She's an "A" student. She received top marks for spelling, reading, science, language and social.

She's a busy girl during the school year. Apart from her regular work, she attends the Chinese Public School from 4:15 to 6 p.m. where she is taught to read and write Chinese.

NURSING CAREER

Her ambition, at the moment, is to become an air hostess, but she feels she will follow her mother's advice and take up nursing.

She is fond of sewing and has made several dresses for her barbie doll since the start of the summer holidays. Her other interest is swimming. She recently passed into the intermediate class.

Leslie lives at 2039 Kendal Avenue. She has one brother, Michael, who is also an Ask Andy fan.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Leslie Lee, age 10, of Victoria, B.C., for her question:

Why does volcanic magma move upward?

Volcanoes seem to act as they please. They erupt without warning and die for no good reason—or so it seems. At present we cannot explain all about them. But one thing is sure. There are very good reasons why these fiery mountains act as they do.

The world of nature is run by strict rules and regulations. All nature's plants and animals must obey these laws. And events in the earth itself also must obey the rules of nature. Certain stupendous forces cause the rise and decline of massive mountains. These and other forces govern the behavior of fiery volcanoes.

Some of these forces work in simple things in our everyday lives. When you open a bottle of pop, the liquid suddenly fills with rising bubbles of gas. The gas was there all the time, but the capped bottle kept it under pressure. It was dissolved in the pop and invisible. On a much grander scale, this same force works in the depths of a fiery volcano.

Its roots reach many miles below the ground. The thick layers above these deep areas are enormously heavy. They press down with tremendous weight. This is pressure. The thick crust of the earth acts somewhat like the cap on a bottle of pop. It crushes and squeezes the deeper layers and stops them from bubbling up to the surface, at least most of the time.

Rocky Minerals Melt

Volcanoes tend to form in restless regions where new mountain ranges are growing. Here the deep levels below are under stress and strain. There are weak places and sometimes cracks that lead all the way to the surface. And these deep layers are also hot. At the roots of a volcano the rocky minerals melt and become seething liquids mixed with bubbling gases. The mixture becomes pools of buried magma.

We do not know when it will happen because we do not fully understand all the laws that control it. But sooner or later the deep magma moves upward in rivers of lava. The tunnels and deep vents of the volcano release the pressure from above. At a certain stage in the story the cap comes off the bottle, and the bubbling, seething magma erupts to the surface.

However, not all erupting magma reaches the surface. There are many different layers on the way to the top. Some are weaker and some stronger than others. In a volcanic zone there may be pockets between the layers. Sometimes erupting lava oozes between buried layers of rock and never reaches the top.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Judith Nolte, age 10, of Indianapolis, Ind., for her question:

How does sap form in the trees?

Tree sap is a syrupy liquid of complex chemicals dissolved in water. It contains a variety of sugars and traces of many other substances. And, of course, it is manufactured by the tree. The main ingredients are water and sugar. The water is taken in by the roots from the soil. The basic sugar is created from air, water and sunshine by the green leaves.

With its ground water, the tree also takes in dissolved nitrates and other chemicals it needs to grow. These chemicals are mixed with the sap. Sugar made by the leaves also is added to the sap. And the tree changes and converts these dissolved chemicals into more chemicals to make wood and resin and all the other substances it needs to grow.

Mail Embargo

NEW YORK (AP) — Restrictions on mail to Canada remained in effect today despite a partial settlement of the Canadian postal workers' strike.

The post office said last week only normal size first class letters and cards will be accepted for dispatch to Canada.

The postmaster's office said today the embargo will not be lifted until a backlog of mail has been cleared. No date for lifting the embargo was set.

IN COMOX VALLEY

Merger, Yes; Hospital, No

COURTENAY (CP) — Ratepayers in the Comox Valley have approved formation of a new regional hospital district but vetoed a proposal to spend $60,000 in public money on St. Joseph's Hospital in Comox.

Unofficial totals from Thursday's vote showed approval of the new district by 1,979 to 282.

But on the question of using tax dollars for the privately-operated hospital the vote was Yes 1,087 and No 1,136.

Sisters of St. Joseph, who operate the hospital, were planning a major expansion with the tax support. They are understood to have spent more than $100,000 on preparations for the addition.

Rev. Mother Maura, who came here from Toronto last week to explain the sisters' policy, was expected to meet with the hospital board soon to discuss the hospital's future.

William Moore, chairman of the hospital board, said taxpayers will have to give heavy financial support to the new board to provide a modern regional hospital.

Nanaimo Drivers Warned

NANAIMO — Careless drivers may lose their licences in future.

Magistrate Eric Winch warned Thursday that he intends clamping down on offenders.

He expressed concern at the increasing number of careless driving cases and said he would suspend licences "where there has been a disregard of good driving."

CAMPBELL RIVER READY FOR BIG SALMON DERBY

CAMPBELL RIVER — The second annual Campbell River salmon derby will be held Sunday, Aug. 8.

Sponsored by the local weekly paper, The Courier, and merchants, the one-day fish festival offers 20 prizes worth $1,000.

There is no entry fee, and anglers from all over Vancouver Island are eligible.

Boundaries are Brown's Bay to Shelter Point. One central weigh-in station will be at Painter's Spit. Weigh-in deadline is 4 p.m.

Only restriction is rod and reel. No commercial gear will be allowed.

First prize in the derby is a Honda "hunter-fisherman's motorbike; second prize a 3.9 h.p. Mercury outboard; third prize a complete salmon rod and reel outfit.

OTHER PRIZES

Other main prizes include: binoocculars, $25 merchandise certificate, sealskin moccasins or hip waders, man's windbreaker, transistor radio, sportsman's lantern, plaid sports shirt.

There are 10 special category prizes, including: $50 gift certificate for the top lady angler of the day, camera outfit for the top junior (under 14), four prizes for top Campbell River anglers, and a $25 merchandise certificate for hidden weight.

A novel feature of the fishing event is a "derby within a derby."

Campbell River is one of the few places in the northwest where fishing from professionally guided boats is big business and a productive pastime.

For these anglers, mostly tourists, there will be three special prizes including first prize of a $30 set of B.C. dinner ware.

Aug. 8 should be a day the fish are biting too. It will be the second week of the famed Tyee run and there are two good tides before the final weigh-in.

Campers Get Protection

CAMPBELL RIVER — Magistrate P. E. Lewis says he will not tolerate ruffians who harrass innocent persons camping in provincial parks.

He issued the warning Thursday when he ordered 20-year-old Reimond Luema to pay a $200 fine or serve three months in jail.

Luema had pleaded not guilty on Wednesday to a charge of causing a disturbance by molesting other persons, but later changed his plea.

Another 20-year-old, Terrance Johnson pleaded guilty to the charge on Wednesday and was also fined $200. Both were assessed $50 fines on charges of being minors in possession of liquor.

The two residents of Quathiaski Cove were arrested after campers at the Rebecca Spit provincial park, on Quadra Island, complained of being threatened and menaced by two hoodlums.

"These people come to our area for a holiday and we are going to see that they enjoy themselves and are well protected," commented Magistrate Lewis. "I guarantee there will be nothing less than a $200 fine for this type of charge."

DUNCAN — An 88-pound concrete ballast block falling into his path caused the accident in which Frederick Payne, 65, received fatal injuries July 20. But no one was blamed.

This was the finding of a coroner's jury here Thursday.

Their verdict ruled the block was improperly secured on the truck driven by Lawrence E. Brawner, 1814 Oak Bay Avenue, Victoria.

The block fell off the truck, deflecting Payne's Volkswagen into an oncoming car being driven by Ernest P. Armitage, of Crofton.

Payne died in hospital about four hours after the crash.

DUNCAN—You can't tear a policeman's shirt and get away with it.

It cost Mrs. Evelyn Joan Young, of Duncan, a $25 fine Thursday.

She pleaded guilty to a charge of trespassing by night. Court was told RCMP were called about a complaint of trespassers near a home at 480 Whistler Street. Constable Dennis MacDonald found three men on the lawn — and Mrs. Young.

The men left when ordered—but not Mrs. Young.

She told the officer: "Get that (blank - blank) flashlight off my face."

Arguing and swearing, Mrs. Young pulled a button off the constable's shirt.

That tore it.

An Ice and Snow Job to Beat Heat

"Take a letter Mrs. Bendall," said Bill Jackson, frostily. "Certainly, Mr. Jackson," she replied icily. The Canada Packer's Ltd. employees decided to move their office into the 30-degree ice storage room of the B. Wilson Co. today to escape 80-degree temperatures outside. (Times Photo.)

Island Sizzling On Hottest Day

Victoria Up in Mid-80s

Victoria was heading for its hottest day of the year at press time.

Although the peak wasn't expected until later this afternoon, the reading this morning showed up to 78 degrees.

And while weatherman William Mackie expected an official reading of 85, downtown shoppers were contending with temperatures up in the 90s.

The day followed hot on the heels of a record breaking Thursday which registered an official 83.1 degrees—the hottest ever July 29 and the short-lived hottest day of the year.

100 UP-ISLAND

While Victorians sweated it out, people living in Duncan and Nanaimo prepared for another 100-plus reading.

Both downtown areas notched up the century mark Thursday for the first time this year.

As all Vancouver Island points prepared for the same treatment today, the effects of the extended heat wave began to be felt.

Sales of ice rocketed to a record 50-tons-a-day on southern Vancouver Island.

Usual daily sale in winter months is three tons.

Bottling companies were working flat out to keep up with demand.

Daily sales in Victoria alone have hit the 100,000 mark.

Gardening enthusiasts boosted the output of water in the Greater Victoria water district from 35,000,000 gallons-per-hour-per-day to 48,000,000 gallons during peak evening periods.

Forest fires in the province reached a new peak and 200 were reported burning this morning.

Unless the weather changes there will be worse to come next week, report forestry officials.

Several logging camps on the Island have been closed down until the weather breaks (see story page 17).

Local marinas reported heavy demands on boating and fishing facilities, while greengrocers were suddenly flooded with requests for water melons.

Municipal crews in Esquimalt decided to begin work an hour earlier as of Monday, if the weather continues.

MORE IN STORE

Their bosses believe greater efficiency will be obtained if the men work during the cooler morning hours.

Meanwhile, there is no change in sight.

Saturday's temperatures will vary between 75 and 85, topping 90 again up-Island..

Official weekend forecast: fine, warm and dry.

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States offered today to "collaborate unconditionally" with the UN Security Council in seeking a peace formula for Viet Nam.

The offer was contained in a letter from Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to the president of the Security Council, Ambassador Platon D. Morozov, acting chief of the Soviet delegation.

UNITED NATIONS—(AP) — Secretary-General U Thant has told President Johnson he will do all he can to help set up peace talks on Viet Nam.

Thant gave the assurance in reply to Johnson's request that he continue his efforts to shift the Viet Nam conflict from "the battlefield to the conference table."

In a letter carried to the White House Thursday by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Thant said:

"I am heartened by your wish that my efforts should be continued, and I gladly assure you of my determination to pursue them by all the means at my disposal, since I believe most strongly that concerted efforts should be made to put an early end to all further hostile military activities."

Johnson wrote Thant nearly three weeks after the secretary-general disclosed he had given the United States, Britain and France proposals for a cease-fire in Viet Nam and a new Geneva conference aimed at

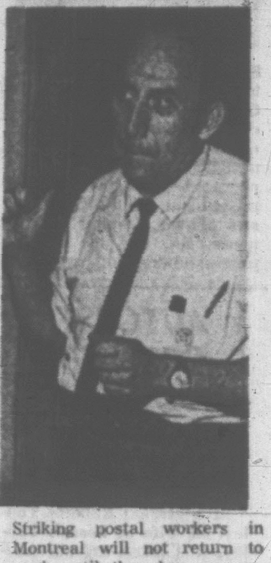
Service Near Normal

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department today lifted its mail embargo in all communities except the Montreal area.

The embargo had banned mailing of all but first-class matter in three provinces—Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia—hit by the week-long wildcat strike by postal workers.

A department spokesman said arrangements were worked out Thursday to reroute east-west mail around the Montreal area, the only major city where workers have not yet returned to the jobs.

With the return of Toronto employees, mail service throughout the country is quickly being restored to normal, the spokesman said.



Striking postal workers in Montreal will not return to work until they have a concrete government offer on their wage increase demand, says their president, William Houle.

Montreal Lone Major Holdout

Quebec Postal Workers Refuse Return Without Concrete Offer on Wage Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, Montreal president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, said today no general meeting of striking postal workers is planned until the federal government has something new to offer.

Montreal is the only major city where the strike, which began July 22 and spread quickly, is still in effect.

Mr. Houle said no new offer came out of a meeting between union officers and Postmaster-General Tremblay. The meeting ended early today.

In Ottawa Prime Minister Pearson said today the government can "live" with a continued strike in Montreal although he hopes striking workers will return to their jobs.

Reporters asked Mr. Houle whether the Montreal men would be asked to reconsider continuation of the strike in view of the decision by Toronto strikers to return to work.

"There is no general meeting planned for tonight," he said. "Mr. Tremblay has offered us nothing new."

TO MEET LEADERS

Mr. Houle said, however, he will meet during the day with other Montreal postal union leaders. Also involved in the strike is the Federated Association of Letter Carriers. The two unions represent a total of about 4,000 postal workers in Montreal.

After the meeting of Mr. Houle and other strike leaders with Mr. Tremblay, Mr. Houle said a return to work could not be considered "until we get a concrete offer from the government that is at least close to the $660 annual increase in salary we have demanded."

Mr. Tremblay arrived here Thursday night after strike leaders agreed to meet him. The 2½-hour meeting was also attended by Roger Decarie, Montreal president of the Letter Carriers' Association (CLC), Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC), and Maurice Hebert, assistant co-ordinator for the QFL and Canadian Labor Congress.

EXPLAIN POSITION

Prior to the meeting Mr. Tremblay said: "I have come to Montreal only to explain the government's position and to try to establish direct communications. I have no new offer to make and cannot make any until Judge J. C. Anderson makes his report."

He would make no comments when the meeting ended.

Judge Anderson was named by the government as a one-man commission to study civil service salaries for Class D employees. In this class there are

Last Chance Warning Sounded at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI) — Communist China probably will explode its third nuclear device soon, a ranking official of hte 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference warned today.

The threat of rapid Chinese atomic progress was cited in support of Western demands that the conference begin urgent negotiations aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

Both President Johnson and Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain have appealed to the conference to give the issue top priority. Italy joined their call Thursday.

Lord Chalfont, Britain's chief negotiator, warned that the current disarmament session is "the last chance" for agreement.

CHOKE OFF PATHS

He said if a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear arms is not reached in a few monhts, it will choke off all paths to other disarmament measures. Johnson and Wilson made their appeals in personal messages to Geneva.

The spectre of imminent and probably more sophisticated Chinese nuclear tests was causing considerable concern among both nuclear and non-nuclear powers at the conference.

Red China exploded its first nuclear device on Oct. 16, 1964. Its second blast went off in the atmosphere over the Chinese mainland last May 14.

Both explosions had been predicted in Washington. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned on Sept. 29, 1964, that Red China might be on the verge of its first nuclear explosion.

A possible hint of Red China's future plans came from Premier Chou en-lai earlier this week when he attacked American efforts to ban further nuclear tests as a "fraud." Chou implied that current efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons were aimed at maintaining a nuclear monopoly for the United States and Russia and their allies.

But apparently more information about Red China's plans now has reached conference diplomats at Geneva.

They did not set a date for further testing by the Chinese Communists. But they said the new tests were expected before long.

The Russians were understood to be as perturbed as the United States by the new threat from Peking. But apparently they saw little point in blocking nuclear advances elsewhere in the world while the Chinese Communists plunged ahead at full speed.

WITHDRAW TROOPS

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet negotiator, told newsmen Thursday that the Kremlin considers the withdrawal of foreign troops from alien territory a more urgent problem at this time than nuclear proliferation.

The Russian stance appeared aimed at undercutting the U.S. position in South Viet Nam. Tsarapkin has warned that the U.S. decision to send more troops to Viet Nam will make negotiations at Geneva more difficult.

The Soviet diplomat appeared to be awaiting instructions from Moscow. He is expected to clarify the Kremlin's position at Geneva when the conference resumes next Tuesday.

A busy weekend was expected despite the lack of a formal meeting. The United States, Britain, Canada and Italy sought to work out a joint proposal on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

William C. Foster, the chief U.S. representative at Geneva, planned to confer with some of the delegates from the "non-aligned" nations participating in the conference.

New Crisis Hits Greek Parliament

ATHENS (UPI) — A jeering, shouting crowd of several thousand persons gathered outside parliament tonight as the deputies' efforts to debate a vote of confidence for the bitterly disputed government of Premier George Athanassiades - Novas dissolved in confusion.

So many deputies walked out of the meeting or boycotted it that the speaker was unable to get a quorum of 100 of the 300 members. Ousted Premier George Papandreou demanded that Athanassiades-Novas resign without a vote.

Three hundred youths attending an anti-government rally at the university several blocks away tried to march on a pro-government demonstration at the Gloria Theatre but were prevented by police cordons.

Parliament itself was heavily guarded by police and no violence occurred.

U.K. Chief 'In Danger'

LIVERPOOL (AP) — An anonymous threat to assassinate British Prime Minister Wilson as "a danger to world peace", was received today by a Liverpool newspaper.

Police said they regard the letter as the work of a crank, but launched an investigation and make plans for a special watch next time the British leader travels to Huyton, the Liverpool district which sent him to Parliament. He is not expected there in the next few weeks.

WIRE BRIEFS

Wins Acquittal

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once claimed he was an undercover RCMP agent has been acquitted here of two counts of false pretences. Calvin MacDonald, 42, was charged with fraudulently obtaining $80 from a downtown hotel. Police alleged he cashed two bad cheques at the hotel.

25-Year Sentences

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) —A U.S. Army sergeant and a former sergeant today were sentenced to 25 years in prison each for spy conspiracy charges. They had pleaded guilty to lesser charges after first being accused outright of giving U.S. secrets to Russia.

Delay Until Fall

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian petition to curb the veto power of the Quebec legislative council has been sent by the Queen to the British government for action but an official said today it is unlikely that Parliament will have time to act on it before next fall.

Quint Still Serious

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The remaining Olsen quintuplet languished in an incubator today, her chances of survival extremely slim. Four of the five premature babies born Thursday to Mrs. Karin Olsen, 33, of Orda, Sweden, died within 12 hours of delivery.

U.K. Ousts Red

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain tonight expelled a Russian diplomat, Vitalij K. Boyarov, second secretary at the Soviet embassy here. The foreign office gave no reason for declaring Boyarov persona non grata.

Viet Cong Hits Training Centre; Heavy Casualties

Times News Services

SAIGON—A Viet Cong force attacked a government training centre 75 miles southwest of Saigon today and inflicted "heavy" casualties, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

An estimated 125 to 500 guerrillas hit the Tan An regional force traniing centre with 57mm. recoilless rifles and machine-guns. A suicide team made an unsuccessful attempt to blow up an ammunition dump at the centre.

Communist casualties, if any, were not reported.

The spokesman also said the Viet Cong blew up a bridge between Tan An and Cao Lanh and harassed Can Lanh. A woman and two children were reported wounded.

Communist guerrillas shelled the district headquarters of Nghia Hanh, 85 miles south of Da Nang. Government casualties were termed "very light."

Meanwhile, civilians from the central highlands are pouring into Saigon and other cities to escape a Viet Cong offensive.

WARNED OF ATTACK

Vietnamese newspapers quoted the refugees as saying they were warned by guerrillas that a major attack was imminent in Pleiku and Kontum provinces.

This would confirm the thinking of U.S. and South Vietnamese strategists, who have long believed that the main Viet Cong offensive of the current monsoon season would be aimed at the central highland.

The combination of rainy weather and mountainous terrain could severely hamper air support and supply operations in the event of a large-scale attack on a provincial capital such as Kontum.

In Saigon, Gen. Maxwell Taylor was seen off by a small group of U.S. and South Vietnamese officials today after having been succeeded as American ambassador by Henry Cabot Lodge.

Several thousand men of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade continued a sweep operation 35 miles southeast of Saigon, in Phuoc Tuy province, but for the second day no significant contact with the Viet Cong was reported.

The spokesman said one guerrilla was found dead and another wounded. He speculated that the casualties might have been hit by the B-52 bombers that hit the area Thursday on a raid from Okinawa.

BUSINESSMEN'S CONSOLATION

War Footing Bolsters U.S. Economy

(See also Page 10)

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson may have alleviated some of the fears of a recession in the U.S. in 1966 by his decision for a moderate stepup in the war in Viet Nam.

Businessmen are noting that:

1. There'll be more government spending—meaning more orders for many lines of industry and thus in due course for the economy in general; 2. For the time being at least, there's no threat of government controls over wages and prices, nor of higher taxes, especially the dreaded excess profits tax; and 3. The government seems determined to continue its drive to keep the civilian economy growing.

Fears of a possible recession or high-level stall next year have been based on signs of a slowing business boom seemingly in need of fresh stimulation.

Expansion of the Viet Nam war effort in increasing doses, if the war drags on as many think likely, can offer such impetus.

The moderate though continuing rise in spending also seems to put only a relatively small chill on prospects for later tax cuts. This is because a growing economy, however stimulated, can furnish more treasury revenues — enough to take care of the defence department's new needs, nourish a start toward the "Great Society," and still leave room for tax cuts as an added stimulus, when and if needed.

The increased war effort as outlined by President Johnson Wednesday has these prospects for business:

Many firms will get orders for defence goods — hardware, textiles or food. The increase in the armed forces will mean larger personnel payrolls and more activity around training centres in the U.S.

The doubling of the draft call will largely affect youths in the late 'teens and early 20s. It is this group which is expanding the fastest in number and which has the highest percentage unable to find jobs.

The decision not to call up reserves at this time will reassure many companies who had wondered if they'd be losing temporarily some highly skilled men, often engaged in work lines where labor shortages exist.

But for the vast majority of American companies — those who produce goods and services in demand by civilians—the biggest relief today may be that no emergency has been declared.

This means that those who get increased government orders can be helped without an accompanying crippling of other firms. Emergency controls always carry the threat of hobbling civilian industry, either in manpower or access to materials.

This may be an unfortunate way to ward off a recession, but it may easily do the trick—if for no other reason than that it will build up public confidence that the economy is likely to go on expanding.

Mr. Johnson's army build-up may ensure prosperity—fer enybuddy thet's left.

Indonesian Missiles Threat to Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—Indonesia has 12 Soviet-built gunboats armed with guided missiles of 15-mile range capable of carrying nuclear warheads, military authorities in this Malaysian state said today.

"It is beyond the bounds of reason to believe the Russians would supply the Indonesians with atomic warheads," one source said. "Russia has refused to give them to some of its tame, loyal Eastern European satellites.

"Russia would be even more likely to refuse its erratic Indonesian friends, who have been courting the Chinese Communists recently."

But even with conventional warheads, the missiles could destroy Singapore, the informants said.

President Sukarno of Indonesia recently threatened to turn Singapore into "a city of flames" if Britain stepped up what he called aggression against Indonesia.

Press Law Applauded By Macleans

TORONTO (CP) — Periodicals in Canada welcome federal legislation that discourages foreign magazines from starting new Canadian editions, Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd. said in a six-month report issued Thursday.

"It is difficult for a genuine Canadian publisher to compete against a publisher that gets his most important raw material, his editorial comment content, at virtually no additional cost," the report said.

Probe Not Planned

TORONTO (CP) — A public inquiry is not planned into the affairs of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. which went into receivership in mid-June after defaulting on some short-term notes, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Thursday. The attorney-general said after a two-hour cabinet session he has confidence in the Ontario Securities Commission now investigating Atlantic and that it actually has more powers than a royal commission would have.

Strike End Would Help Grain Mark

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Pacific Coast ports are heading for the biggest grain movement in their history in the next 12 months, with shipments expected to exceed far more than the record 220,000,000 bushels set in 1963-64, it was learned here Friday from informed sources.

Only catch at present is the strike which has tied up the Alberta Pool Elevator and indirectly the Saskatchewan Pool Elevator in Vancouver. If the strike is not soon settled it could cut into shipments out of the Pacific ports very severely.

Sales by the wheat board already made indicated that the coming crop year will produce another outstanding marketing year. The board's forward commitments for the coming crop year are the largest ever recorded in the board's operation before the opening of a new crop year.

DAILY SALES

New sales are being made almost daily, it was learned from authoritative sources here. To date the wheat board has not lost a single customer due to the strike, but it has in fact made record sales and commitments. The customers want to ship through the Pacific ports and consequently are keenly interested in an end to the strike.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks aimed at settling the grain handlers strike lasted about eight hours Thursday, a development described by a federal mediator as "significant."

Dr. G. Neil Perry, appointed by the federal government to mediate the dispute, met with grain elevator company representatives and spokesmen for the United Brewery, Flour Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers Union (CLC).

Dr. Perry's only comment after the session was: "It is significant the talks continue."

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain prices generally showed firmer tendencies in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Hunt on for Men To Fill B.C. Jobs

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

During the next year the Mining Association of Canada will be working hand-in-hand with officers of the National Employment Service in an attempt to relieve a crippling manpower shortage.

Their task will not be an easy one for more than 4,000 men, skilled, semi-skilled and laborers, are required before all vacancies are filled.

Hume

British Columbia and Ontario are the hardest hit with B.C. alone needing 1,052 men just to take up the slack.

Mines in B.C. need 274 tradesmen (mechanics, electricians, welders, machinists and carpenters), 333 underground workers (miners, laborers, helpers and timbermen). There are jobs for 173 open pit men (truck drivers, laborers, shovel operators), 194 mine mill men (operators, laborers and crusher operators) and 91 surface workers (laborers, truck drivers and bulldozer operators).

Technicians are also in short supply with B.C. mines having vacancies for 77 draftsmen, assay office workers, geologists, surveyors or research workers.

MORE WANTED

Ontario is slightly worse off needing 1,254 men at least before that province's mines can work at full strength.

That province has vacancies for 142 tradesmen, 836 underground workers, 29 open pit men, 81 mill workers, 35 surface workers, 90 smelter men and 41 technicians.

Part of the problem lies in the fact that new mines are coming in at such a rapid rate that the labor force just can't keep up with demand.

V. C. Wansbrough, vice-president and managing director of the mining association, says the greatest demand is for miners, mechanics, electricians and welders. He also forecasts that though great efforts are being made to solve the problem "new mines which will be brought into production in the next few years will tend to aggravate the already serious labor shortage unless a positive program of action is initiated now."

NEW MINES

Typical of the growing problem is the announcement that Rancheria Mining Company Ltd., went into production this week in the Tootsee Creek area of northern B.C.

Tootsee Creek is near the Yukon border just off mile 701 on the Alaska Highway.

While working the mine—it is averaging 37.6 ounces of silver per ton plus 15 per cent combined lead and zinc with additional precious metals—Rancheria is continuing further explorations over a large 32-claim area.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting were the first people to suspect silver in fairly large quantities could be in the area. In 1948 two prospectors discovered silver-bearing sulphide float but after putting down eight drill holes which revealed only slight promise the company abandoned the claims.

SECOND LOOK

Rancheria took a second look in 1962 and 1963 and now report that at least two of the holes, possibly all of them, just didn't go far enough.

The ore they are now taking out appears to run in a ratio of four ounces of silver to one per cent of lead with estimates of value running from $600 to $800 per ton of concentrates.

Mining and milling costs have been estimated at $20 per ton, transportation costs at $44 per ton of concentrates.

Rancheria, like all good mines, is in production. And like all good mines will stay that way. But, like most other mines across the country, it will not hit full production until the aggravating labor shortage is solved.

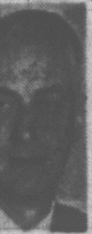
Arthur Mayse

The good dog dies but the breed goes on, and after more than two years of making do with cats, we have taken another Labrador retriever into our lives.

With the exception of one white hair on a chest which will some day be mighty, he is black as coal, or the ace of spades, or the deep of an overcast night.

He weighed an even 20 pounds on our bathroom scales this morning; a fair start, at two and a half months, toward the 75 or thereabouts which his snowshoe paws and heavy bone structure guarantee.



Today, he is all love and promise and tearing high spirits, making ferocious war on the family shoes one minute, licking faces the next with a lavish tongue. In a few months he will acquire a young working dog's dignity.

But the love will remain, and long before he has completed his transition from puppy to made dog, he will have picked his special person as Labradors do.

The name that goes with the noseprint on his papers is Mossbank's Black Lancer. Mossbank's for the kennels where he was bred, black for his coat, and Lancer by our choice.

He's Lance to us, except when the wheels of time spin for a moment in reverse, and one of our four calls him Paddy.

★ ★ ★

We didn't want another dog after we lost that fine and loving friend. There was, we agreed, in the rare times we talked about Paddy, enough heartache in a lifetime without taking on the certainty of more.

One afternoon late last week we were loafing in the shade when we heard a crackling which grew louder by the second. That sound, in this weather, demands a quick call to the fire department. The pumper arrived promptly, and with it, Saanich assistant fire chief Tom Moss, in a white shirt which somehow emerged spotless from a 10-minute tussle with the brisk grass fire across the road.

In the free hours his job allows him, Tom Moss raises a litter or two of retrievers each year. Labradors are his special fancy: the big blacks from Mossbank have proved their quality at many a Canadian and American field trial.

With grass flareups popping at the rate of five or more a day, Tom had no time for yarning about his dogs. Still, before he shoved off for the next bout of smoke-eating, he did invite us over for a look at a pup he was proud of.

★ ★ ★

We wouldn't, we couldn't. We were kneedeep in cats, we didn't want another dog . . .

It went on like that till dinnertime and past. Then, still protesting to each other, we set off in the car. After all, merely to visit friends who happened to raise dogs wasn't going to get us into anything!

Arrived, we stayed carefully away from the oak-shaded pens at the back of Tom and Molly Moss's spacious place on Cedar Hill Cross Road.

We talked about the big tree that had come down in a gale, brushing the back porch in its fall.

Tom's trial-seasoned Vanguard joined us, tail gently wagging. We discussed Van, and dogs in general. The pup was not mentioned.

Occasionally we heard shrill voices from the pens, demanding attention with youth's impatience. I found myself wondering which one belonged to that special pup.

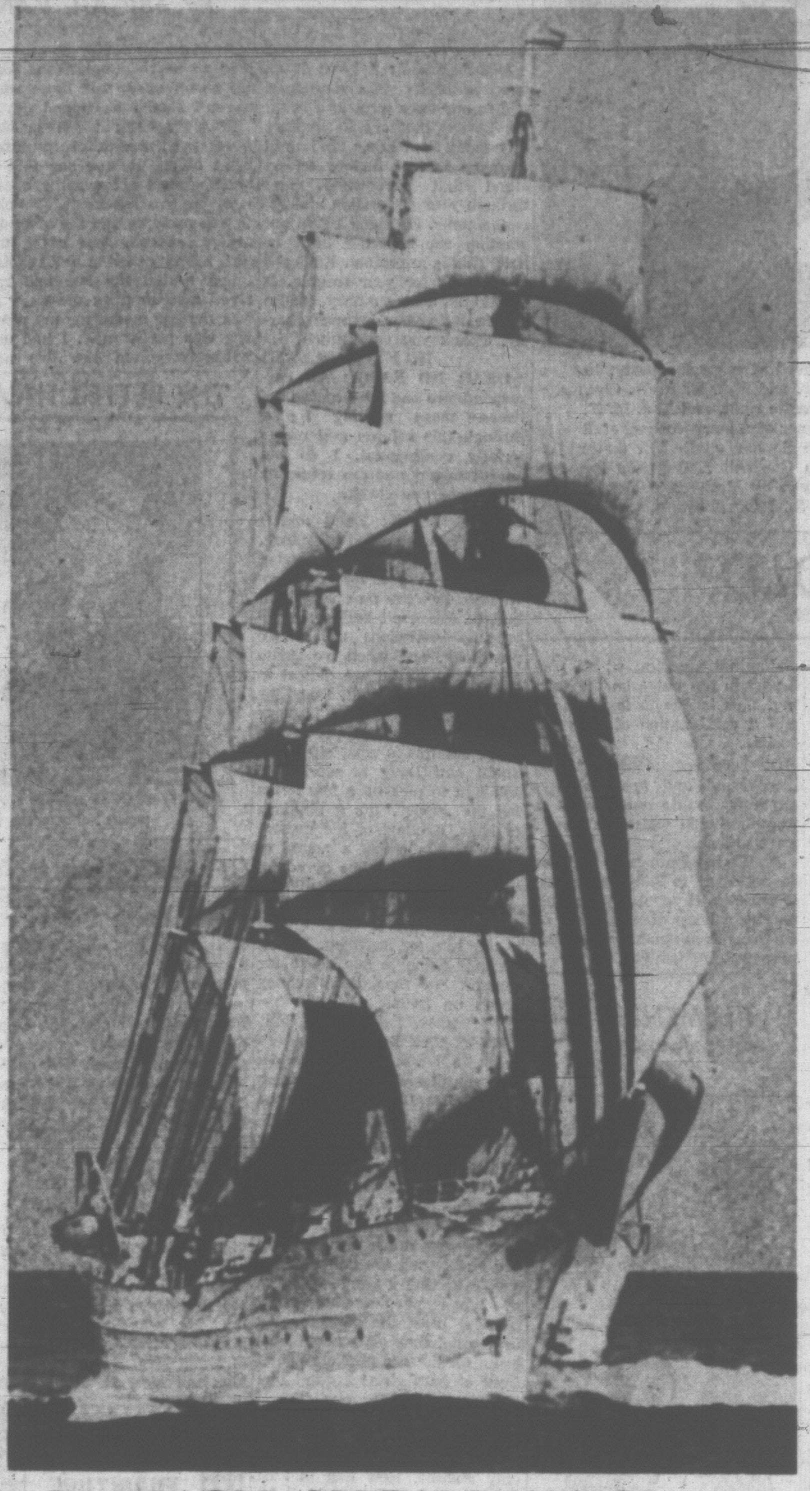
"Well," Tom said at length, very casually, "I'd better let the kids out for a run."

He jogged down, and opened a door. The sturdy black puppies tumbled out, all in a jumble.

They circled us in a boisterous dance, a walloping doggy rigadoon. One little black blundered against Win's ankles. He reared up, scrabbling with the webbed paws of his strong-swimming breed. His tail, which some day will be sleek-tapered as any otter's, flailed madly.

"That's him," Tom Moss told us, deadpan. "The one I mentioned."

The breed goes on though the good dog dies. We took Lance home that night; and if we have laid a well-loved ghost at the price of future sorrow, so be it.



EAGLE SPREADS WINGS

Square-rigged U.S. Coast Guard training barque Eagle could be off city waterfront Tuesday morning if time and conditions permit her to be rerouted. The three-masted vessel is due in Seattle at 1 p.m. that day. The German-built vessel is making her first state-side cruise to celebrate the U.S. Coast Guard's 175th anniversary. She is 295 feet long.

Shopping Centre For Lake Hill?

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A shopping centre covering several acres is planned in the Lake Hill district of Saanich.

A public hearing Tuesday night will consider a change in zoning from light industrial to shopping centre for the site.

The applicant said the shopping centre will be an expansion of North Quadra Florists to include retail development.

Walter Large of Large and Company, chartered accountants, said the outside cost at the moment is $100,000 although if the full scope of the development is attained it will be "considerably" more than that.

The planned shopping centre is bounded by McKenzie and Borden and includes the unused end of a railway line.

L-SHAPED DESIGN

This would give the centre an L-shaped design fronting on two streets. Parking then likely would be at the rear.

The Large said the scope of the development will not be determined until the rezoning application has been approved.

Development is contemplated in the next few months if approval is given.

North Quadra Florists, owned by Lloyd Park, was completed last December at a cost of $156,000.

The shopping centre likely will feature a food market and such other shops as a bank, drugstore and so on.

If the shopping centre is approved, it will be the fourth major devlopment in the area.

First was the B.C. Telphone building, followed by North Quadra Florists, and most recently the five-acre Slegg Bros.' retail and wholesale lumber store.

'Shooting' Of Troops Scheduled

West coast armed forces personnel will soon "go Hollywood."

A National Film Board team arrived here today from Ottawa and will soon begin shooting a Regular Officer Training Plan film.

While in Victoria many of the shots will be taken aboard the Esquimalt-based destroyer escort HMCS Saskatchewan.

The group will leave for Comox Thursday to gather more film footage aboard maritime patrol aircraft.

Project officer is Lt. Geoffrey Nightingale who formerly served in Victoria as a naval information officer.

Room Prowlers Collect $450

Two guests were robbed of a total of $450 overnight Thursday by a room prowler at Imperial Inn, 1961 Douglas.

City police today are investigating the theft from rooms on the hotel's third and fourth floors. There was no sign of entry in either case.

H. Robert Densmore of Calgary lost $300 from his wallet. A Houston, Tex., man, Arthur G. Mallery, had $150 stolen.

The thefts were only discovered when the guests awoke this morning.

BOY STEALS PLATES, CAMOUFLAGES NEW CAR

Little Joy After Joy Ride Over

Richard J. Blackwood, 1336 Bay, climbed over a fence last Friday night and stole licence plates from an auto wrecker's yard.

Then the 17-year-old youth went looking for a car.

He found a 1965 model on a car dealer's lot, started it up and went joy-riding.

He was caught a few hours later after he had hidden the car in an orchard off Wilkinson Road.

This morning in city court he pleaded guilty to car theft and theft of the plates. Magistrate William Ostler remanded him to Aug. 6 for a presentence report.

City Detective Joseph Barlow said Blackwood put the car in an orchard in the 4500 block Wilkinson and then broke branches off the trees to cover it up.

Det. Barlow said there was $168 damage done to the car and $32 to the trees.

Fire Fighting Costs Soar Near Million

Crews on Red Alert With Worst to Come

With only half the season gone, forest fire fighting costs in B.C. today climbed near $1 million.

A B.C. Forest Service spokesman said the cumulative cost has reached $999,100, compared with $80,500 at the same time last year when poor weather kept fires to a minimum.

It cost $179,800 this week alone to extinguish 192 fires and bring the 200 still burning under control. More than 750 men are on the fire lines and crews of some 60 aircraft are on "red alert" standby for instantaneous manning of patrol and water bombing runs.

Forecast of more hot, sunny weather with virtually no dew at night promises that the worst is to come next week, the forest service said.

OPERATIONS CLOSED

On Vancouver Island, Crown Zellerbach closed its Comox logging division and MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. shut down its Northwest Bay operation near Nanaimo because of small fires and extreme hazards.

There were 64 new fires in Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island, in the past week and 26 are still burning, the forest service said in its weekly round-up.

EXTREME CAUTION

Sixteen of the new fires were caused by campers and smokers and forestry officials appealed for extreme caution in drought-hit Island woods.

Of eight new fires in Vancouver district overnight, two were at Courtenay and one at Alberni, but they were small and quickly extinguished. The largest Island fire, an 80-acre blaze near Campbell River, has been brought under control and the fire-fighting crew has been reduced from 76 to 60 men.

Sports Groups Hurl Challenge

Stadium supporters say they can whip Gorge supporters in any petition battle.

They say they can get 20,000 names in favor of a stadium as a Greater Victoria centennial project to counter the 1,492-name Gorge petition.

The claim comes late in the centennial project stakes, following a meeting Thursday at which a recommended project or projects was decided.

"Members of organized sport in Greater Victoria are prepared to get at least 20,000 signatures on a petition favoring a stadium complex," said Gar Taylor, president of Victoria Amateur Baseball Association and a member of Centennial Stadium Committee.

He said baseball groups alone could provide 10,000 names and addresses of persons wanting a sports complex.

He said he realized the support comes late, but he said this was known to Victoria city authorities three weeks ago, who suggested that it be kept quiet.

Decision of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee is being kept secret until Monday.

Mr. Humber said that if general chairman Walter Dodsworth had been present Thursday night, as he normally is, and he had been in agreement, "then we might have announced the recommendation."

But Mr. Dodsworth said today he stayed deliberately away from the sub-committee meeting and would try to keep aloof from the recommendation until Monday.

"I have every confidence in that committee to make a reasonable suggestion to the general committee," Mr. Dodsworth said.

IMPARTIAL ABSENCE

"I felt I should not be at the meeting in order to remain impartial in my dual capacity as chairman and Oak Bay representative on the committee.

"I don't know what the recommendation is and I'm not going to try to find out until the meeting, which I will attend with an unbiased mind," the chairman said.

Meanwhile, organized supporters of a sports stadium complex as a centennial project are concerned that last-minute consideration of Gorge waterway improvements may swing the recommendation.

A community-wide poll conducted by the Times in co-operation with the centennial committee showed 603 votes in favor of the stadium complex, compared with 281 for a saltwater pool, the next-place choice.

But Gorge supporters in the last few days of the ballot drew out 359 votes for the Gorge, plus 1,492 signatures in petition form.

Record Building Month

A record value for Victoria city construction permits so far this year was totalled up today as a result of a booming month of July.

The city engineer's department said the seven-month value of new construction and repairs or renovations comes to $13,299,784 for 3,475 permits.

July alone racked up $4,024,414 in 531 permits, mostly for new commercial, light industrial and apartment construction.

Four apartment units drawn at random totalled $895,000 and there were $718,882 worth of renovations, an uncommonly high value.

Besides apartments, there were parking building additions, warehouses and commercial office buildings.

Cutter Coming

The 95-foot U.S. Coast Guard cutter Cape Florida will be in Victoria, Aug. 19-22, on a recreational visit for her crew.

The cutter, no stranger to Victorians, has one officer and 13 enlisted personnel under the command of Lt. D. R. Zwick.

Ask The Times

Q. We recently moved to B.C. and my husband would like to become a qualified electrician. Where could we find out what is required and where he could take training at nights? F.B.

A. You can inquire about what is required and apprenticeship training from the department of labor at the legislative buildings.

The department of education also has a program of night school courses which go with the on-the-job training.

Q. Could you please tell me if there is a widow's pension in B.C.? B.I.

A. Widow's allowances were abolished in the early 1950s, says the department of social welfare.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

FUTURE'S A BALL FOR TERRY . . .

WITH A CHAIN ATTACHED

Too Much Sun Can Have Strange Effect on Reporters

By TERRY IZZARD

To the city editor, Victoria Times:

I suppose you'll be wondering what happened to me.

Well, in case I'm still a member of the staff, I'd like to explain.

When I left the office this morning with orders to "do a weather story" I had every intention of following out those orders.

★ ★ ★

I hopped in my car and toddled around town for a while trying to think of some ideas.

You'll be amazed at the difference a bit of sunshine can make.

The young girls were prancing along sidewalks in their high-flying skirts; milkmen whistled as they breezed on their rounds; even the pigeons looked happy as they billed and cooed in Centennial Square.

Then I noticed a lone clerk sitting at his office window, scowling over a pile of accounts.

His brow was furrowed and the sweat was running in dribbles off the end of his nose.

That's when I thought of you and the boys at the office,

"What are they trying to prove," thought I.

"Sweating and complaining about the heat; working themselves into a frenzy to meet deadline; cussing and swearing at each other like a pack of discontented hyenas."

That's when I decided the life wasn't for me.

Without further ado I followed the birds to Willows Beach, stopping briefly to pick up a packet of popcorn.

★ ★ ★

I've no doubt you'll be wondering what the temperature is; if there've been any fires; how are ice-cream sales doing, etc.?

Well to tell you the truth, I don't know. And what's more, I don't care.

How could I when the sand is sifting through my toes and the cool Pacific breeze is fanning my sun-burned face.

If it wasn't too much trouble I could tell you how many people there are on the beach; or how many waves lap against the shore each minute.

Between you and me it's more fun watching the busty college girls vie for the beach boys' attention.

Everyone looks so cool in their skimpy bathing costumes, their already bronzed bodies soaking up the health-giving sun.

Contrary to office rules I've even taken off my shirt.

I've absolutely no intention of interviewing anyone anyhow. How could I when there's so much to live for?

★ ★ ★

By the way, this popcorn is good. It's a pity you can't be here to share it.

Come to that, it's a pity everyone can't be here. Then no one would want to read a paper and we could all take an extended vacation.

P.S.: Tell the office secretary to send my pay cheque on—that's if I have one.

P.P.S.: Don't call me—I'll call you.

(Mr. Izzard will assume his new duties as Port Hardy correspondent Monday. —Ed. note.)

WHILE A BABY DIES

Crowd Jams Medical Aid Route

DALLAS (UPI) — Police clashed with a number of persons in a crowd last night that had pressed so close to a burning home in a Negro neighborhood they prevented passage of medical aid for a two-year-old fire victim.

The baby, Patrick Chambers, was pronounced dead later at a hospital. An autopsy was ordered.

Seven carloads of police were called to restore order at the scene as some Negroes, described by police as 'wild punks," shouted and chanted "Kill them! Kill them!" Three persons were arrested, two men and a woman.

Most of the crowd of about 700 was orderly. But the crush of humanity. delayed arrival of a resuscitator and an ambulance for the baby.

OTHER SAVED

Firemen had rescued four other children from the two-storey house in South Dallas. The Chambers baby was trapped in an upstairs bedroom during the $3,000 blaze.

When firemen carried the baby out, the crowd was so thick that police began pushing it back to make a path for emergency equipment to be brought in.

Patrolman J. H. Dahman and four officers began pushing the crowd to make a path.

A 24-year-old woman shouted that a policeman "touched me." She clawed at Dahman and tore his uniform.

"Don't let the police get away with it!" someone in the crowd shouted.

Two 19-year-old youths jumped on Dahman and another officer.

'KILL THEM'

The chant of "Kill them, kill them!" rose.

Officer R. J. Shackleford was hit on the head.

Police reinforcements arrived, Police dogs were brought, but were not used.

Both Negro and white police were involved.

Police seized Alice Turner, 24, of Tucson, Ariz., and William Jefferson and George Silas, both 19 and both of Dallas. They were hustled into a squad car and taken to jail on charges of disturbing the peace, resisting an officer and failing to obey officers.

The crush was so thick, firemen formed a protective ring around the baby to protect the infant, Fire Chief R. G. Russell said.

MOTHER IN SHOCK

The firemen applied artificial respiration pending arrival of the resuscitator.

"If your police want trouble, they've come to the right place," a fire department spokesman quoted one Negro youth as saying. "We'll take care of you, too."

The baby's mother, Mrs. Geneva Chambers, 31, fainted and was taken to a hospital in shock.

Firemen said the parents were away from home when the fire started, Mrs. Chambers rushed up while firemen were trying to breathe life into her baby.

Patrolmen Dahman and Schackelford were scratched, bruised and had their uniforms ripped.

A policeman said later that people in the crowd were "ugly and threatening from the first."

There was no threat of a major riot.

The disturbance occurred in an area where a crowd of 400 threatened two policemen a year ago.

However, Dallas has had no major racial clashes.

MASS ARRESTS AFTER MARCH BLOCKED OFF

GREENSBORO, Ala. (AP)—About 175 civil rights demonstrators were arrested Thursday after three unsuccessful attempts to march.

In Selma, lawyers for the demonstrators filed a petition with U.S. district Judge Daniel H. Thomas asking him to restrain state and Greensboro police and the Hale County sheriff's department from obstructing the planned marches.

Each time a group left St. Matthew African Methodist Episcopal Church here they were stopped by local and state officials because they had no parade permit.

The arrests brought the total number taken into custody in two days to an estimated 475. Those arrested were mainly young Negroes, but there were a few whites.

They were charged with obstructing a public street. Bond was set at $100 each.

N.Y. Studies Water Line To Niagara

NEW YORK (AP)—An engineering company says for $248,000,000 it can build a pipeline that would bring 250,000,000 gallons of water a day from Niagara Falls to the city's depleted reservoirs.

The industrial oil and pipeline division of Consolidated Engineering Contractors International made the proposal in a letter to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

There was no emmediate comment from the governor's office.

New York City, along with many other centres in the U.S. northeast, is experiencing one of the worst water shortages in history. Residents here have been urged to reduce their using to some 26 gallons each a day.

The firm said it could start the project Aug. 2 and complete it in five months.

The pipeline would be six feet in diameter and run above ground alongside the New York Thruway. It would start at a pumping station on Grand Island in the Niagara Falls area, run to Kingston and then go five miles to the Ashokan reservoir.

The 250,000,000 gallons a day would be about one-fourth of the city's daily consumption.

N. Saanich Votes On Incorporation

Property owners in North Saanich vote Saturday whether they want the rural district incorporated as a district municipality.

Some 2,100 owners of real property are entitled to vote, said returning officer Gordon Blair.

Polling will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. at McTavish Road Elementary School and Deep Cove Elementary School. A 60 per cent yes vote is needed for the change.

"I hope there will be a good turnout and not the apathy in the school vote," said Dr. A. B. Nash, chairman of the North Saanich Advisory Planning Commission.

"It is our hope that regardless of how they vote, people will vote in large numbers."

In the school vote, which gained approval of spending $1.8 million, only 11 per cent of property owners bothered to vote.

Coinciding with Saturday's incorporation voting will be a ballot for the vacant seat on Saanich School District board of trustees.

The vote is to fill the vacancy from the rural area of the school district, which is North Saanich.

Two candidates are seeking election—John Kennaird, an employee of B.C. Hydro, and housewife Mrs. Rubymay Parrott.

Both have lived in the district most of their lives and are raising families.

Evidence Overwhelming

National Probe Urged On 'Saucer' Reports

A University of Victoria professor, Dr. Max Edwards, Thursday called for a "national investigation" of flying saucer reports.

The linguistics' teacher, who studies UFOs (unidentified flying objects) as a hobby, said the evidence pointing to the existence of "intelligently-controlled machines from other parts" is overwhelming.

He said it is time the entire subject was investigated.

He said there have been numerous sightings of UFOs by intelligent and honest people. Radar has detected the the presence of UFOs over certain areas of the world.

"There are many theories advanced in order to justify the objects' existence or unreality," the professor said.

"But they are theories."

The professor said reports from "flashing shields" through the skies date back from before the Roman Empire. The latest came Wednesday from Spokane, Wash.

Garden Apartment Proposed

A new garden apartment development may appear near Oak Bay Junction.

A development firm, Edca Holding Ltd., has asked Victoria city council to request a study by the advisory planning commission.

The site covers about four acres on a crest of land overlooking the junction, Oak Bay, San Juan Islands, Mount Baker, Mount Tolmie and Mount Douglas.

It is on Begbie between Belmont and Fern and includes Fernwood House, dwelling place of a pioneer family and erected in 1860.

Tentative plan is to restore the building and make use of it as a recreation centre for the surrounding garden apartment development.

An earlier plan by a different company was to demolish the house and erect a seven-storey apartment block.

A dozen bottles of beer was found in his car when he was stopped by police on Quadra St. July 18.

'Bit of a Tomboy' Top Student; 8 of B.C.'s Best From City Area

Thirteen of the provinces' 33 top high school graduates this year were from Vancouver Island with eight of them registered in Greater Victoria schools, it was announced Thursday.

Esquimalt Secondary School claimed three, Victoria Secondary produced two and Oak Bay Secondary, University Hill Secondary and Mount View Secondary graduated one each of the students with a 90 per cent or better average.

British Columbia's top grade 12 student of 1964-65 is a Nanaimo girl with a yen to become a university lecturer in English or French, Susan Jane Mackenzie.

Her average of 95.25 per cent was best in the province among university candidates writing provincial departmental exams last June. She wins the Governor-General's silver medal.

No bookworm, Susan last term was a member of Nanaimo Senior Secondary School girls' grass hockey and volleyball teams.

WORKING IN STORE

This summer the applicant for University of B.C. is working as a sales clerk in a variety store.

Lone girl among three brothers, she described herself Thursday as "a bit of a tomboy for awhile."

Asked how she felt about being top student in B.C., she replied: "I still don't believe it."

Susan, whose father is office manager for Brian Bell and Co., Nanaimo, was recently awarded a $2,000 Crown Zellerbach Scholarship.

Bronze medal went to Katharine Lynn Keen, of Vancouver, who achieved a 94 per cent average.

William Robert Green, of Chemainus Secondary School, and Jaqueline Judith Kennedy, of New Westminster, tied for third place with a 93.5 per cent standing.

Mark Horne, of Oak Bay Secondary, and Daniel Richard Worsley, of Esquimalt Secondary, were part of a three-way tie for seventh rank with a 92 per cent average.

Eighth was Eileen Laura Cavers, of Alberni District Secondary, with 91.75 per cent. Close behind, at 91.5 per cent, was Julie Rae Goodwin of Victoria Secondary who was part of another three-way tie.

A five-student tie for 10th ranking with 91.25 per cent included Alan Benjamin Hughes, of Esquimalt Secondary, Susan Bates, and Alice June Siddall, both of Alberni District Secondary.

Eleventh place fell to the mainland and one of two in the 12th rank with 90.75 per cent was Stephen Norman Sullivan, of Esquimalt Secondary.

Also involved in tie combinations were: Theo Quayle Dombrowski, of Alberni District Secondary, with 90.25 per cent; and Barrie Douglas Turnham, of Mount View Secondary, with 90 per cent.

All winners of the government scholarships will be announced later.

Soviet Embassy Denies Planes Promised Show

OTTAWA (CP)—An official at the Russian Embassy denied today that the Soviet Union has promised to send two aircraft to the air show Aug. 14-15 in Abbotsford, B.C.

"There has been no commitment whatsoever," the official said in an interview. "We merely have asked for more details as to the terms of participation and the nature of the show itself."

Pat Murphy, a member of the local organizing committee, said in Abbotsford Thursday that the Soviet Embassy here had sent the committee a telegram saying Russia would send a turbo jet and a helicopter to the show.

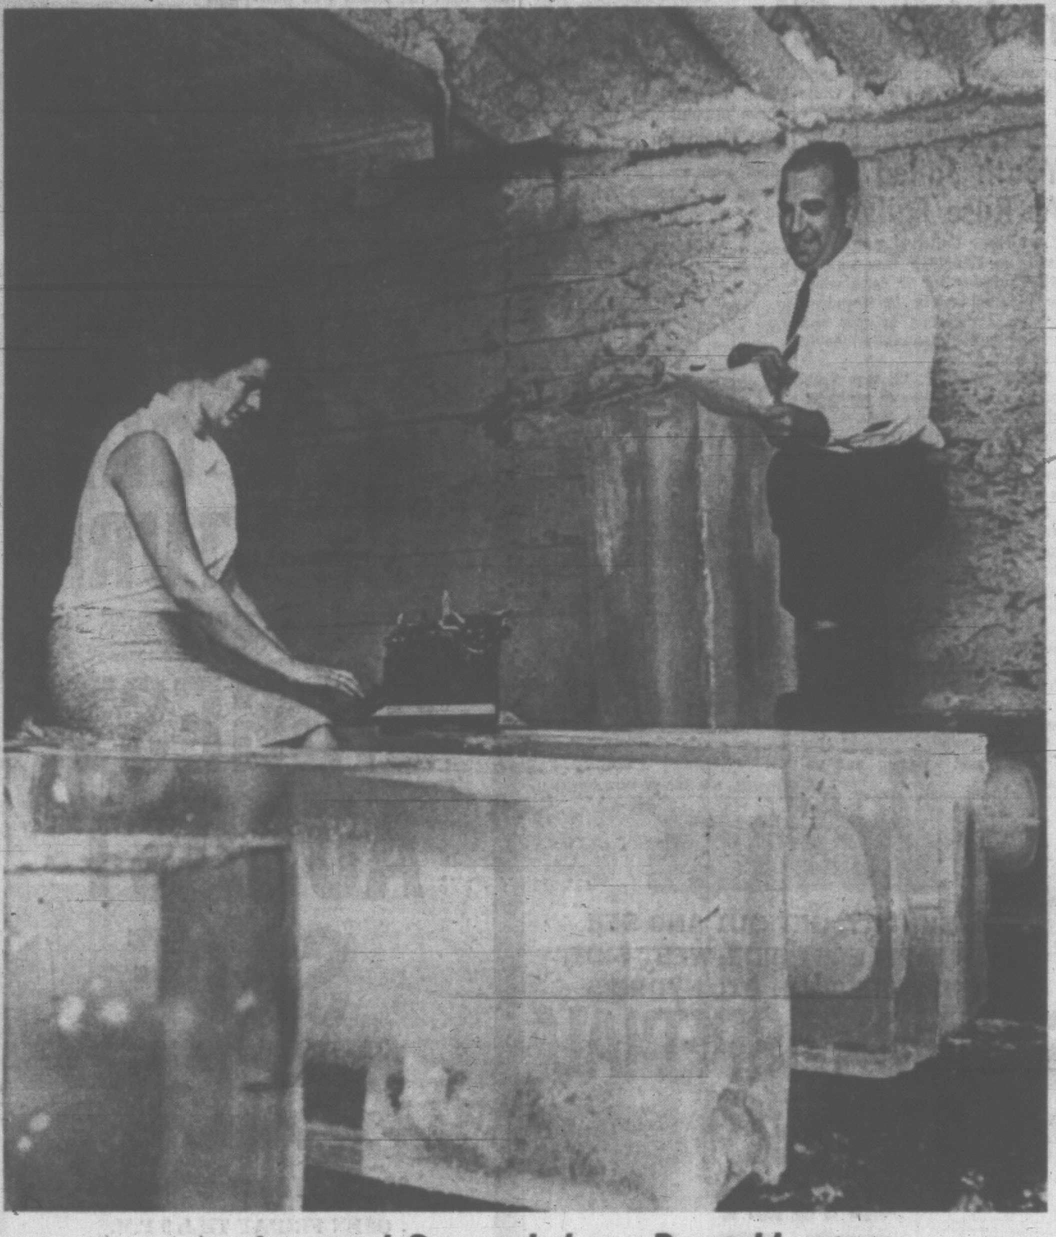
BREEZE EASES HEAT WAVE



An Ice and Snow Job to Beat Heat

"Take a letter, Mrs. Bendall," said Bill Jackson, frostily. "Certainly, Mr. Jackson," she replied icily. The Canada Packer's Ltd. employees decided to move their office into the 30-degree ice storage room of the B. Wilson Co. today to escape 80-degree plus temperatures outside. (Times Photo.)

Welcome Relief For City

Temperatures dropped 12 degrees in two hours at Victoria weather station this afternoon.

From a morning high of 78, the mercury plunged to 66, as the wind veered from the northeast to the south.

Despite the official reading, downtown Victoria still notched up 80 degrees plus.

And points farther inland, protected from the cool Pacific breezes, were even hotter.

The sudden change in wind knocked expectations of today being the hottest day of the year in Victoria.

Earlier, weatherman William Mackie forecast an official 85 degrees to beat Thursday's high of 83.1—the hottest ever July 29 and hottest day of the year.

100 UP-ISLAND

While Victorians sweated it out, people living in Duncan and Nanaimo prepared for another 100-plus reading.

Both downtown areas notched up the century mark Thursday for the first time this year.

As all Vancouver Island points prepared for the same treatment today, the effects of the extended heat wave began to be felt.

Sales of ice rocketed to a record 50-tons-a-day on southern Vancouver Island.

Usual daily sale in winter months is three tons.

Bottling companies were working flat out to keep up with demand.

Daily sales in Victoria alone have hit the 100,000 mark.

Gardening enthusiasts boosted the output of water in the Greater Victoria water district from 35,000,000 gallons-per-hour-per-day to 48,000,000 gallons during peak evening periods.

Fores fires in the province reached a new peak and 200 were reported burning this morning.

Unless the weather changes there will be worse to come next week, report forestry officials.

Several logging camps on the Island have been closed down until the weather breaks (see story page 17).

Local marinas reported heavy demands on boating and fishing facilities, while greengrocers were suddenly flooded with requests for water melons.

Municipal crews in Esquimalt decided to begin work an hour earlier as of Monday, if the weather continues.

Their bosses believe greater efficiency will be obtained if the men work during the cooler morning hours.

Meanwhile, there is no change in sight.

Saturday's temperatures will vary between 75 and 85, topping 90 again up-Island.

Official weekend forecast: fine, warm and dry.

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States offered today to "collaborate unconditionally" with the UN Security Council in seeking a peace formula for Viet Nam.

The offer was contained in a letter from Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to the president of the Security Council, Ambassador Platon D. Morozov, acting chief of the Soviet delegation.

UNITED NATIONS—(AP) — Secretary-General U Thant has told President Johnson he will do all he can to help set up peace talks on Viet Nam.

Thant gave the assurance in reply to Johnson's request that he continue his efforts to shift the Viet Nam conflict from "the battlefield to the conference table."

In a letter carried to the White House Thursday by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Thant said:

"I am heartened by your wish that my efforts should be continued, and I gladly assure you of my determination to pursue them by all the means at my disposal, since I believe most strongly that concerted efforts should be made to put an early end to all further hostile military activities."

Johnson wrote Thant nearly three weeks after the secretary-general disclosed he had given the United States, Britain and France proposals for a cease-fire in Viet Nam and a new Geneva conference aimed at

Service Near Normal

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department today lifted its mail embargo in all communities except the Montreal area.

The embargo had banned mailing of all but first-class matter in three provinces—Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia—hit by the week-long wildcat strike by postal workers.

A department spokesman said arrangements were worked out Thursday to reroute east-west mail around the Montreal area, the only major city where workers have not yet returned to the jobs.

With the return of Toronto employees, mail service throughout the country is quickly being restored to normal, the spokesman said.

Striking postal workers in Montreal will not return to work until they have a concrete government offer on their wage increase demand says their president, William Houle.

Montreal Lone Major Holdout

Quebec Postal Workers Refuse Return Without Concrete Offer on Wage Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, Montreal president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, said today no general meeting of striking postal workers is planned until the federal government has something new to offer.

Montreal is the only major city where the strike, which began July 22 and spread quickly, is still in effect.

Mr. Houle said no new offer came out of a meeting between union officers and Postmaster-General Tremblay. The meeting ended early today.

In Ottawa Prime Minister Pearson said today the government can "live" with a continued strike in Montreal although he hopes striking workers will return to their jobs.

Reporters asked Mr. Houle whether the Montreal men would be asked to reconsider continuation of the strike in view of the decision by Toronto strikers to return to work.

"There is no general meeting planned for tonight," he said. "Mr. Tremblay has offered us nothing new."

TO MEET LEADERS

Mr. Houle said, however, he will meet during the day with other Montreal postal union leaders. Also involved in the strike is the Federated Association of Letter Carriers. The two unions represent a total of about 4,000 postal workers in Montreal.

After the meeting of Mr. Houle and other strike leaders with Mr. Tremblay, Mr. Houle said a return to work could not be considered "until we get a concrete offer from the government that is at least close to the $660 annual increase in salary we have demanded."

Mr. Tremblay arrived here Thursday night after strike leaders agreed to meet him. The 2½-hour meeting was also attended by Roger Decarie, Montreal president of the Letter Carriers' Association (CLC), Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC), and Maurice Hebert, assistant co-ordinator for the QFL and Canadian Labor Congress.

EXPLAIN POSITION

Prior to the meeting Mr. Tremblay said: "I have come to Montreal only to explain the government's position and to try to establish direct communications. I have no new offer to make and cannot make any until Judge J. C. Anderson makes his report."

He would make no comments when the meeting ended.

Judge Anderson was named by the government as a one-man commission to study civil service salaries for Class D employees. In this class there are

Bodies Found

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two bodies which police said may be those of two University of Texas co-eds were found today in a field on the north edge of Austin.

Police said the bodies apparently were unclothed, lying flat on the ground in tall grass near a new residential area.

Bombers Cut Gray

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veteran defensive end Herb Gray was dropped from the Winnipeg Blue Bomber roster today as coach Bud Grant pared his team to the maximum 32 players for tonight's opening game in Edmonton. Gray, last year defensive captain for the Bombers, played nine seasons for the club and was described as one of the best defensive linemen in the history of the Bombers.

Theft Charge

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two Alberta men were charged today with the theft of $200 from Allan Coleman, 57, of Vancouver. Police said Victor Leo Roeder of Calgary and William Kenneth Collins of Lethbridge were arrested Thursday by Ontario provincial police near Upsala.

Last Chance Warning Sounded at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI) — Communist China probably will explode its third nuclear device soon, a ranking official of the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference warned today.

The threat of rapid Chinese atomic progress was cited in support of Western demands that the conference begin urgent negotiations aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

Both President Johnson and Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain have appealed to the conference to give the issue top priority. Italy joined their call Thursday.

Lord Chalfont, Britain's chief negotiator, warned that the current disarmament session is "the last chance" for agreement.

CHOKE OFF PATHS

He said if a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear arms is not reached in a few monhts, it will choke off all paths to other disarmament measures. Johnson and Wilson made their appeals in personal messages to Geneva.

The spectre of imminent and probably more sophisticated Chinese nuclear tests was causing considerable concern among both nuclear and non-nuclear powers at the conference.

Red China exploded its first nuclear device on Oct. 16, 1964. Its second blast went off in the atmosphere over the Chinese mainland last May 14.

Both explosions had been predicted in Washington. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned on Sept. 29, 1964, that Red China might be on the verge of its first nuclear explosion.

A possible hint of Red China's future plans came from Premier Chou en-lai earlier this week when he attacked American efforts to ban further nuclear tests as a "fraud." Chou implied that current efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons were aimed at maintaining a nuclear monopoly for the United States and Russia and their allies.

But apparently more information about Red China's plans now has reached conference diplomats at Geneva.

They did not set a date for further testing by the Chinese Communists. But they said the new tests were expected before long.

The Russians were understood to be as perturbed as the United States by the new threat from Peking. But apparently they saw little point in blocking nuclear advances elsewhere in the world while the Chinese Communists plunged ahead at full speed.

WITHDRAW TROOPS

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet negotiator, told newsmen Thursday that the Kremlin considers the withdrawal of foreign troops from alien territory a more urgent problem at this time than nuclear proliferation.

The Russian stance appeared aimed at undercutting the U.S. position in South Viet Nam. Tsarapkin has warned that the U.S. decision to send more troops to Viet Nam will make

Viet Cong Hits Training Centre; Heavy Casualties

Times News Services

SAIGON—A Viet Cong force attacked a government training centre 75 miles southwest of Saigon today and inflicted "heavy" casualties, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

An estimated 125 to 500 guerrillas hit the Tan An regional force training centre with 57mm. recoilless rifles and machine-guns. A suicide team made an unsuccessful attempt to blow up an ammunition dump at the centre.

Communist casualties, if any, were not reported.

The spokesman also said the Viet Cong blew up a bridge between Tan An and Cao Lanh and harassed Can Lanh. A woman and two children were reported wounded.

Communist guerrillas shelled the district headquarters of Nghia Hanh, 85 miles south of Da Nang. Government casualties were termed "very light."

Meanwhile, civilians from the central highlands are pouring into Saigon and other cities to escape a Viet Cong offensive.

WARNED OF ATTACK

Vietnamese newspapers quoted the refugees as saying they were warned by guerrillas that a major attack was imminent in Pleiku and Kontum provinces.

This would confirm the thinking of U.S. and South Vietnamese strategists, who have long believed that the main Viet Cong offensive of the current monsoon season would be aimed at the central highland.

The combination of rainy weather and mountainous terrain could severely hamper air support and supply operations in the event of a large-scale attack on a provincial capital such as Kontum.

In Saigon, Gen. Maxwell Taylor was seen off by a small group of U.S. and South Vietnamese officials today after having been succeeded as American ambassador by Henry Cabot Lodge.

Several thousand men of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade continued a sweep operation 35 miles southeast of Saigon, in Phuoc Tuy province, but for the second day no significant contact with the Viet Cong was reported.

BUSINESSMEN'S CONSOLATION

War Footing Bolsters U.S. Economy

(See also Page 10)

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson may have alleviated some of the fears of a recession in the U.S. in 1966 by his decision for a moderate stepup in the war in Viet Nam.

Businessmen are noting that:

1. There'll be more government spending—meaning more orders for many lines of industry and thus in due course for the economy in general; 2. For the time being at least, there's no threat of government controls over wages and prices, nor of higher taxes, especially the dreaded excess profits tax; and 3. The government seems determined to continue its drive to keep the civilian economy growing.

Fears of a possible recession or high-level stall next year have been based on signs of a slowing business boom seemingly in need of fresh stimulation.

Expansion of the Viet Nam war effort in increasing doses, if the war drags on as many think likely, can offer such impetus.

The moderate though continuing rise in spending also seems to put only a relatively small chill on prospects for later tax cuts. This is because a growing economy, however stimulated, can furnish more treasury revenues — enough to take care of the defence department's new needs, nourish a start toward the "Great Society," and still leave room for tax cuts as an added stimulus, when and if needed.

The increased war effort as outlined by President Johnson Wednesday has these prospects for business:

Many firms will get orders for defence goods — hardware, textiles or food. The increase in the armed forces will mean larger personnel payrolls and more activity around training centres in the U.S.

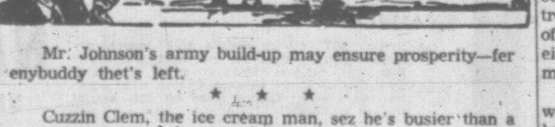
The doubling of the draft call will largely affect youths in the late 'teens and early 20s. It is this group which is expanding the fastest in number and which has the highest percentage unable to find jobs.

The decision not to call up reserves at this time will reassure many companies who had wondered if they'd be losing temporarily some highly skilled men, often engaged in work lines where labor shortages exist.

But for the vast majority of American companies — those who produce goods and services in demand by civilians—the biggest relief today may be that no emergency has been declared.

This means that those who get increased government orders can be helped without an accompanying crippling of other firms. Emergency controls always carry the threat of hobbling civilian industry, either in manpower or access to materials.

This may be an unfortunate way to ward off a recession, but it may easily do the trick—if for no other reason than that it will build up public confidence that the economy is likely to go on expanding.



Mr. Johnson's army build-up may ensure prosperity—fer enybuddy thet's left.

U.K. Chief 'In Danger'

LIVERPOOL (AP) — An anonymous threat to assassinate British Prime Minister Wilson as "a danger to world peace" was received today by a Liverpool newspaper.

Police said they regard the letter as the work of a crank, but launched an investigation and made plans for a special watch next time the British leader travels to Huyton, the Liverpool district which sent him to Parliament. He is not expected there in the next few weeks.

. . . PEACE BID

carrying out the 1954 Geneva agreements.

Goldberg told reporters after a 90-minute talk with Thant Wednesday that the U.S. favored a new Geneva conference. But any talk of a cease-fire was academic at this stage, he said, since there was no agreement to negotiate.

U.S. DISMISSED MOVE

The United States politely dismissed a move by Thant last March to open negotiations for a Viet Nam peace agreement. A state department spokesman said Washington was still awaiting some indication that the Communists were ready to "stop the aggression."

Despite the U.S. brushoff, Thant expressed determination to push his peace campaign. A spokesman said at the time Thant had in mind a conference of North and South Viet Nam, Red China, the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Later Red China and North Viet Nam said they would not welcome a visit by the secretary-general.

In Manila, Philippine Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez indicated his government might propose that the UN set up an organization for Viet Nam similar to the UN commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea.

British Prime Minister Wilson, author of the abortive Commonwealth effort to arrange peace negotiations, said in a television interview in London Thursday night that he planned to continue his peace efforts. But he acknowledged this is difficult since the North Vietnamese "think they are winning."

. . . WARNING

negotiations at Geneva more difficult.

The Soviet diplomat appeared to be awaiting instructions from Moscow. He is expected to clarify the Kremlin's position at Geneva when the conference resumes Tuesday.

A busy weekend was expected despite the lack of a formal meeting. The United States, Britain, Canada and Italy sought to work out a joint proposal on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

William C. Foster, the chief U.S. representative at Geneva, planned to confer with some of the delegates from the "non-aligned" nations participating in the conference.

POSTAL STRIKE

56,000 persons, 22,000 of whom are postal workers.

Judge Anderson's appointment came in the wake of a strike of postal workers that began July 22 in Montreal and Vancouver and spread rapidly until more than 70 per cent of the postal workers had left their jobs, including those in Toronto who voted Thursday to return to work.

Post office officials in Ottawa said today postal stations across the country are back to normal except for Montreal and 20 others in the immediate area involving 5,583 striking employees.

The issues that touched off the strike began several month ago.

Civil service association leaders, including the Postal Workers' Brotherhood, began discussing pay increases with the civil service commission and finally the treasury board, a cabinet committee headed by Finance Minister Gordon.

The brotherhood represents not only the postal employees' and letter carriers' associations but also the Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Association (CLC).

SUGGEST PAY BOOSTS

The commission recommended pay increases of $300 annually for letter carriers, raising them to a maximum of $4,680, and an increase of $360 for most sorters, bringing them to a top of $5,040. The treasury board agreed to these amounts.

However, postal workers in Montreal and Vancouver refused to accept the offer and went on strike, which by last Tuesday had spread to 75 centres. Repeated calls by national brotherhood officers to wait for further negotiations with the government went unheeded.

The return to work movement began Tuesday after brotherhood leaders agreed to wait for Judge Anderson's report and government reaction to it.

While Montreal decided to stay on strike at a mass meeting that produced a unanimous vote Tuesday, Vancouver voted to return to work. Other centres, including Toronto, followed.

The Toronto decision, carried by 1,857 to 347 votes, reversed a vote taken Wednesday and left Montreal as the last major strikebound centre.

Postmen in the Windsor area followed the Toronto lead within hours.

Postmen here, who received their pay cheques Thursday, remain confident in their course of action.

They have the backing of the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions. Both groups have said they are prepared to offer practical as well as moral support.

$350 Holiday Fund Lost To Purse Thief

A sneak thief stole a purse containing $150 cash and two $100 bonds in a downtown store Thursday night.

The purse belonged to Mrs. Annie Griffin, 4046 Douglas, who is leaving Saturday on vacation. She left the purse at Woolworth's soda fountain and it was gone when she went back to pick it up.

A reward is offered for the return of the purse. Arrangements for its return may be made by telephoning GR 9-3492.

Liquor Stocks Now Housed In Vancouver

The seven-storey building at Fort and Wharf ends a 44-year career today as the whisky warehouse of the province.

Liquor Control Board chairman Col. Donald McGugan today said the building, which has been a liquor warehouse since the board's creation in 1921, has been turned over to the public works department which is responsible for government buildings.

No liquor stocks have to be moved because they have been diverted to the board's Vancouver warehouse for more than a month. Most of the warehouse employees have been absorbed in other operations here but several will move to the lower mainland, Col. McGugan said.

Marijuana Grows Wild

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—RCMP discovered marijuana growing in profusion in an eight-acre field near Windsor's eastern limits. They ruled out the possibility the plants were grown intentionally as they were scattered over a wide area. The plants were destroyed.

CABINET CORRECTS MISTAKE

The provincial cabinet today rectified a mistake by ordering return of $6,910 to the estate of a man committed to Essondale.

The cabinet order said the man, charged with murder, was committed to the mental hospital 13 years ago and it wasn't discovered until last March that his estate was being billed regularly for his full maintenance in the hospital.

By statute, maintenance costs for mental patients are limited to $1.50 a day.

Steel Strike Likely

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The executive board of the United Steelworkers of America met today to review the progress of basic steel contract talks in the United States.

Indications were the board would recommend to the union's wage policy committee that a 30-day strike notice be served on the industry.

The 163-member policy committee was to meet later in the day.

Union sources said the industry had made a last-ditch offer of about 11 cents an hour in order to head off strike notice that would create a crisis atmosphere and further upset an edgy steel market.

Under an interim contract that averted a strike May 1, either side is free to serve 30 days notice of termination on or after Aug. 1. That would make midnight Aug. 30 the earliest possible date for the first steel strike in the U.S. since 1959.

The union seeks about 18 cents an hour in wage and benefit increases in a three-year contract. Steelworkers earn an average of $4.40 an hour in wages and benefits.
